Hoffman Estates Residents Form Lobby Group

A citizens' lobby group for residents of Hoffman Estates, both homeowners and apartment tenants, was formally established Tuesday night.

Choosing the name Hoffman Estates Residents Association, the group invited persons from throughout the village to attend its next meeting and participate in selecting officers. The meeting is tentatively scheduled for Nov. 28, depending on availability of the municipal building or some other facility.

Officers were not chosen Monday because the 50 persons attending, mostly from the Highpoint area, felt residents from other parts of the village also might wish to nominate candidates and vote.

THE ORGANIZATION started as an effort by the Highlands-Highpoint residents to fight a proposal by Commonwealth Edison Co. to install high-tension wires on 90-foot poles in a utility easement strip bordering some of their yards.

It was agreed Tuesday night the lobby group also can become a power base when residents face other problems, such as flooding or matters involving the park or fire districts.

While the group discussed possible slating of candidates for the April village elections, endorsing candidates or simply investigating them in a manner similar to League of Women Voters methods, a resolution was approved with only one dissenting vote to "divorce ourselves completely of any political affiliation or motivation."

The lobby still may sponsor a candidate's night as a forum for all village candidates, and members will be free to participate individually to any extent they desire in partisan politics.

A COMMITTEE of 11 persons was named to prepare resolutions for voting at the next meeting. These are to deal with the organization of the lobby group and with the lobby's stand on the Edison project.

The general consensus indicated the residents oppose any above-ground cable installation but would be more willing to accept such installation north of the tollroad than south of it.

Mel Budish, who acted as temporary chairman, reported he had been asked by village Mayor Frederick Downey to assess citizen reaction to an alternative proposal from Edison and inform the board. However, said Budish, Edison representatives had told him it would take the firm four to six months to investigate ramifications of the alternative. Budish commented the citizens probably could spend three to six weeks forming their own assessments.

Edison originally planned to install the above-ground cables on the south side of

LeBeau Will Get Nomination For Trustee Position

The name of Raymond E. LeBeau will be placed in nomination for village trustee candidacy at the Nov. 30 Schaumburg United Party (SUP) convention.

LeBeau, 34, presently serves as public relations officer for the village and director of public affairs for SUP.

Official confirmation of LeBeau's intention to seek one of three four-year terms to be voted on in the April municipal election came Tuesday.

The convention will nominate a slate of candidates to fill the three four-year terms expiring next spring as well as for one two-year term.

ANY SCHAUMBURG resident who is a member of SUP as of Nov. 15 can qualify as a voting delegate to the convention which will be held at Lancer Ballroom. SUP membership is open to all residents of the village.

"After carefully reading the rules of the SUP convention, and after numerous conversations with friends and associates in the community, I feel that I can serve the needs of the Village of Schaumburg," LeBeau said.

Since January, LeBeau has served as a member of Schaumburg Airport Study Committee and became chairman of that panel in September.

A dispatcher with United Air Lines, LeBeau and his wife, Shirley, live in the Weathersfield subdivision.

EARLIER THIS week Trustee Denis Ledgerwood publically announced intentions to have his name placed in nomination at the convention.

Ledgerwood is presently filling the unexpired term of Jack Larsen who resigned from the village board Aug. 1.

The other expiring four-year terms are now held by Peter Justen and Mathew Helsper with Herbert J. Aigner completing his first two-year term.

While Justen, appointed to the board early this year, has said he will not be a candidate, neither Helsper nor Aigner have yet issued statements concerning their plans.

Prospective candidates must file the intention to be nominated with Sylvia Parsons, convention secretary, prior to 6:30 p.m. the evening of the convention.

Work On New Wing Goes On

'Quiet' Sign No Help In This Library

The sound of hammer and saw still faintly heard in the Schaumburg Township Public Library are not echoes of past construction noise.

Although patrons cannot see work in progress, full completion of the new wing still is at least two months away.

Librarian Michael Madden said that although the new wing looks finished and compliments from patrons are being expressed, "the library now is just a teaser of what the finished facility will be."

"When the architects (O'Donnell, Wicklund and Pigozzi of Evanston) first showed us the design for the new facility they described it as 'one that invites people in,' " said Madden.

"So, we decided that during construction we too would invite people in and keep the library open instead of closing it during remodeling," Madden added.

MADDEN SAID THAT since the new entrance has opened and increased parking facilities made available, transactions have increased. "Although the library suffered a loss of business during the construction period our patrons were never turned away," said Madden.

Today, with the largest part of the adult section completed and in use, some days the nearly 200 seats are not enough to accommodate those patrons coming to read or just relax in the building.

Madden said the main section now in use represents only 60 per cent of the total book stack space that eventually will be devoted to the adult section.

The adult lounge and rear projection studio, humor corner, and baby play area in the adult section still are not open.

"The senior high and college lounge with its special furnishings, stereo players and record collection is almost ready for use," said Madden.

Carpenters have installed stereo turntables with headphones in the oak tables in several seating nooks in the adult section. A total of 22 players will be installed.

THE CHILDREN'S section is a busy place, as carpenters put finishing touches on a children's size gingerbread house several youngsters can sit in while they read.

But a big stuffed monkey and mushroom seats and furniture designed for the young set make it a colorful — if dusty — place and the section is used by many youngsters. "In fact they seem to enjoy finding out what's been done since their last visit," said the librarian.

Madden said that although business

Loophole In Condominium Police Protection?

A legal opinion on police enforcement of traffic regulations in Schaumburg may have hit upon a major loophole in the recently enacted state law to improve police protection in private residential areas.

The opinion, presented to the board of trustees Tuesday by Village Atty. Jack Siegel, suggested the legislation does not apply to condominium developments.

Siegel's interpretation of HR3557, approved and signed on Aug. 13, was it provided for persons who own 10 or more units to contract with local police departments for services on private streets.

In condominium developments, the units are owned by individuals and therefore there would be no one person who owned 10 units, he said.

SIEGEL'S OPINION was sought after representatives of Levitt and Sons — the developers of Sheffield Manor, a quadrominium complex in Schaumburg — requested police enforcement of speed and traffic regulations.

Support was given the legislation locally, because of the number of planned unit developments being constructed. State statute had prohibited police from enforcing traffic laws in private developments prior to the law's enactment.

State Rep. David Regner, R-3rd, one of the chief sponsors of the legislation, could not be reached for comment.

A synopsis of the legislation indicates municipalities can establish and enforce traffic regulations on private property at the request of the owners in a project or subdivision having at least 10 residential units.

Proponents of the legislation argued before the General Assembly the law would aid local police forces.

SIEGEL'S interpretation of the legislation could exempt major areas, planned to be covered by the bill, from the law.

He said the village might be able to adopt provisions covering the condominium developments under the authority of its home rule community problems.

"I think the villags should develop some general policies on this," Siegel said.

The topic was referred to the village police and fire committee for review.

Mandatory In City, Random For Suburbanites

Plan Auto Pollution Tests

Suburban motorists next year will be subjected to random testing of their automobiles by the City of Chicago to help control the gross pollution of the air by poisonous auto emissions.

Effective June 1, 1973, the city will begin mandatory testing of the approximately 1.5 million autos owned by Chicago residents and spot checks of the about 200,000 autos owned by suburbanites.

While the policy only will be in effect in Chicago, it is the opinion of members of the city's department of environmental control that the pollution checks will help purify the air in the suburbs, too.

The ordinance was passed by the city council last Nov. 29 and provides for testing lanes to be set up to ensure that all Chicago-resident owned autos are examined each year. Each motorist will be given a sticker signifying his car has been checked.

The ordinance was written so that persons with autos which do not pass the pollution test will be fined from $15 to $300 for the first offense and from $50 to $500 for subsequent offenses.

In trying to finance the program, a revenue subcommittee has been deliberating on a plan to raise the vehicle sticker charge to Chicago motorists. Members have also discussed the possibility of making it mandatory for all suburban drivers to have their autos tested, something the original ordinance does not include. That proposal apparently will not be passed.

THE ORDINANCE now calls for the spot check of autos owned by suburban residents if the vehicle is driven on any street in the city of Chicago. If the auto is believed to be in violation of the ordinance, a policeman will stop the vehicle and notify the driver that he must bring the car in for a pollution test.

It has not been determined just how a policeman will know whether a car is in violation of the ordinance. The officer will use the same discretion he now uses when stopping a motorist for speeding or any other moving violations.

According to the ordinance, a car tested and found to exceed the pollution limits, may be repaired to meet these standards and retested.

The mandatory inspections are the first of their kind in the United States. In New Jersey, according to department of environmental control officials, random and not mandatory testing of vehicles is in effect. The program is being set up here, they said, because of federal standards of pollution control determined by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The inspections will deal with the emission of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons in the air. Federal guidelines require the city to meet pollution standards by mid-1975.

Department officials said it would be physically impossible to check all cars owned by suburban residents and therefore a spot check is feasible. They said they were unaware of any suburb passing similar ordinances but that surrounding municipalities have expressed an interest in passing local controls.

Mandatory In City, Random For Suburbanites

Plan Auto Pollution Tests

Suburban motorists next year will be subjected to random testing of their automobiles by the City of Chicago to help control the gross pollution of the air by poisonous auto emissions.

Effective June 1, 1973, the city will begin mandatory testing of the approximately 1.5 million autos owned by Chicago residents and spot checks of the about 200,000 autos owned by suburbanites.

While the policy only will be in effect in Chicago, it is the opinion of members of the city's department of environmental control that the pollution checks will help purify the air in the suburbs, too.

The ordinance was passed by the city council last Nov. 29 and provides for testing lanes to be set up to ensure that all Chicago-resident owned autos are examined each year. Each motorist will be given a sticker signifying his car has been checked.

The ordinance was written so that persons with autos which do not pass the pollution test will be fined from $15 to $300 for the first offense and from $50 to $500 for subsequent offenses.

In trying to finance the program, a revenue subcommittee has been deliberating on a plan to raise the vehicle sticker charge to Chicago motorists. Members have also discussed the possibility of making it mandatory for all suburban drivers to have their autos tested, something the original ordinance does not include. That proposal apparently will not be passed.

THE ORDINANCE now calls for the spot check of autos owned by suburban residents if the vehicle is driven on any street in the city of Chicago. If the auto is believed to be in violation of the ordinance, a policeman will stop the vehicle and notify the driver that he must bring the car in for a pollution test.

It has not been determined just how a policeman will know whether a car is in violation of the ordinance. The officer will use the same discretion he now uses when stopping a motorist for speeding or any other moving violations.

According to the ordinance, a car tested and found to exceed the pollution limits, may be repaired to meet these standards and retested.

The mandatory inspections are the first of their kind in the United States. In New Jersey, according to department of environmental control officials, random and not mandatory testing of vehicles is in effect. The program is being set up here, they said, because of federal standards of pollution control determined by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The inspections will deal with the emission of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons in the air. Federal guidelines require the city to meet pollution standards by mid-1975.

Department officials said it would be physically impossible to check all cars owned by suburban residents and therefore a spot check is feasible. They said they were unaware of any suburb passing similar ordinances but that surrounding municipalities have expressed an interest in passing local controls.

Downey Objects To Not Being Consulted

Full-Time Mayor Pondered

Mayor Frederick Downey objected Monday to a Hoffman Estates Village Board committee's consideration of making the mayoral office a full-time job without seeking his comments.

Trustee Ed Hennessy reported to the board that the judiciary committee, which he chairs, discussed the possible expansion of the post at its Nov. 9 meeting.

"I think it would have been courteous to invite the only individual living in Hoffman Estates who has had experience working in this office who might have comments," said Downey. He added he thought the question had been settled last July, when the board declined to raise the mayoral salary as he requested.

The trustees approved minimal pay increases for the mayor, trustees and village clerk, overriding Downey's veto, July 24. Downey sought a mayoral raise from $1,500 to somewhere in a range of $6,000 to $8,400. The trustees approved an increase to $2,400. Downey also differed with the board on raises for trustees and clerk.

DOWNEY SAID IT appeared the board was going to "make a decision and then go back and make it over again, unless (the full-time mayor) is going to work for $2,400 a year."

Hennessy responded that the committee had held only informal discussion on the matter, which arose when it was discussing making the village clerk's position full-time. Should the committee look more closely at the matter, it would solicit Downey's remarks, Hennessy said.

Hennessy Tuesday said the committee had looked at pros and cons, but "nothing concrete on whether it should or shouldn't (be full-time) or how it should be established — by vote of the board or by ordinance."

Before requesting Downey's feelings, the committee likely would seek a legal opinion from Village Atty. Edward Hofert, said Hennessy.

Hennessy also commented that the village would "be a heck of a big area" within the next one or two terms of elected officials.

A full-time mayor could represent the village in negotiations over developments and annexations, and "in that respect a full-time elected official could be a heck of a job," said Hennessy.

Hennessy also said it appears the committee favors making the clerk's office a full-time post before the next village election in April.

A committee meeting is scheduled for Nov. 28.

Open House Slated At James Conant High

James B. Conant High School's annual open house, in the form of parent-teacher conrerences, will be held this afternoon and evening.

transactions did drop drastically during the heaviest construction period they are now on the increase.

"But interestingly enough, library card registrations never dropped and in a recent six-day period the library staff issued 584 new cards," Madden said.

Open house is not planned until after the holiday season and possibly as late as February.

TO DATE, the handsome, well-furnished addition has cost $958,197.72. This includes landscaping and equipment charges. Still to be paid are $251,021.32 in bills. Madden said there should be $98,200.72 left in the construction account after all bills are paid.

Audiovisual materials and equipment have not yet all been installed and a preschool area in the children's section also is partially finished.

Madden asks patrons to continue showing the patience with construction they have in the past.

"There is something new at the library every day and our staff of 54 are proud to show off the township facility and anxious to serve its patrons," said Madden.

He invites patrons in and says, "We get better every day. Come and see."

Don Roth Unveils Plans For New Schaumburg Restaurant

Plans for a posh restaurant to be built in Schaumburg by the owner of Chicago's famous Blackhawk Restaurant were disclosed Tuesday to the village board of trustees.

Complete details of the restaurant have not been presented to the village, but Don Roth, the owner of the Blackhawk, discussed his plans with the board and asked about the procedures for obtaining a liquor license.

Roth, who also owns a restaurant in Wheeling and is planning others in Chicago and Westmont, told the board the restaurant would be located on Meacham Road just south of Golf Road on a new access road leading into Woodfield.

WHILE THE VILLAGE does not issue liquor licenses until an establishment is in operation, the trustees indicated that they would have no objection to issuing one to Roth.

Roth said the restaurant will seat about 200 persons for dinner and about 50 in a separate lounge. He said the business would be housed in a 7,500 square foot, free standing building on a 60,000 square foot lot.

"The menu will consist mainly of steak and lobster," Roth said adding the price will be above those of a "family-type restaurant."

There will be no entertainment at the restaurant, Roth said.

A spokesman at Roth's offices in the Blackhawk said the restaurant might be opened as soon as spring, but that final details on the land lease agreement and weather conditions, have delaved any formal announcement.

transactions did drop drastically during the heaviest construction period they are now on the increase.

"But interestingly enough, library card registrations never dropped and in a recent six-day period the library staff issued 584 new cards," Madden said.

Open house is not planned until after the holiday season and possibly as late as February.

TO DATE, the handsome, well-furnished addition has cost $958,197.72. This includes landscaping and equipment charges. Still to be paid are $251,021.32 in bills. Madden said there should be $98,200.72 left in the construction account after all bills are paid.

Audiovisual materials and equipment have not yet all been installed and a preschool area in the children's section also is partially finished.

Madden asks patrons to continue showing the patience with construction they have in the past.

"There is something new at the library every day and our staff of 54 are proud to show off the township facility and anxious to serve its patrons," said Madden.

He invites patrons in and says, "We get better every day. Come and see."

Don Roth Unveils Plans For New Schaumburg Restaurant

Plans for a posh restaurant to be built in Schaumburg by the owner of Chicago's famous Blackhawk Restaurant were disclosed Tuesday to the village board of trustees.

Complete details of the restaurant have not been presented to the village, but Don Roth, the owner of the Blackhawk, discussed his plans with the board and asked about the procedures for obtaining a liquor license.

Roth, who also owns a restaurant in Wheeling and is planning others in Chicago and Westmont, told the board the restaurant would be located on Meacham Road just south of Golf Road on a new access road leading into Woodfield.

WHILE THE VILLAGE does not issue liquor licenses until an establishment is in operation, the trustees indicated that they would have no objection to issuing one to Roth.

Roth said the restaurant will seat about 200 persons for dinner and about 50 in a separate lounge. He said the business would be housed in a 7,500 square foot, free standing building on a 60,000 square foot lot.

"The menu will consist mainly of steak and lobster," Roth said adding the price will be above those of a "family-type restaurant."

There will be no entertainment at the restaurant, Roth said.

A spokesman at Roth's offices in the Blackhawk said the restaurant might be opened as soon as spring, but that final details on the land lease agreement and weather conditions, have delaved any formal announcement.

Turkey Day Preempts Programs At Parks

All programs at the Schaumburg Park District will be cancelled next week because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Sharon Matioda, assistant recreation supervisor, said all recreation programs will be cancelled from Nov. 20 to Nov. 26. Exceptions to this cancellation may take place in programs where make-up sessions are planned, she said.

Instructors will inform person participating in those programs personally, she said.

Board OKs Bids On Village Autos

The Schaumburg Village Board approved bids on automobiles for several village departments and the relocation of a water main at their meeting Tuesday.

The auto bids were awarded to Morton Pontiac of Arlington Heights for nine 1973 Catalinas to be used as squad cars by the police department. Morton's bid of $18,195 was the lowest of three received by the village. Other bidders were Larry Faul Oldsmobile, $21,350, and Franklin Weber Pontiac, $26,694.

Two other cars will be purchased by the village for the police department from Woodfield Ford for $5,529. These cars will be used by the chief of police and the detective bureau. One other bid was received from Colonial Chevrolet of $6,333.

WOODFIELD FORD was awarded the bid on two Ford Mavericks for use by the public works department. The local dealer bid of $4,731, was not the lowest bid received, but J. C. Smith, supervisor of the village public work's department, recommended the purchase because the village could save time and money taking the cars for servicing and repair.

Other bids received for the cars were Zimmerman Ford, $4,659, Cass Ford, $4,668, and Kelly Ford $4,752.

The board also approved a bid of $13,925 from Nick Giannina Construction Co. of Mount Prospect for relocation of a water main at Algonquin Road and Hammond Drive.

Village Engr. Joe Zgonina said the bids were requested without proper advertisement, because the project came about since the last village board meeting. He said the widening of Algonquin Road required the relocation of the main immediately and there was not time to advertise for bids. He said he did contact several contractors to submit bids on the project.

ZGONINA said the state highway department has agreed to pay half the cost of the relocation project, which will take about one week to complete.

Village Atty. Jack Siegel said the board could accept the bids by a two-thirds vote. The board voted 6-0. Mayor Robert O. Atcher has been on vacation. Trustee Ray Kessell was elected president pro-tem to conduct the board meeting.

The board delayed awarding bids on an electrical generator and compressor for fire station number two until further study of the bids received could be completed.

In other action, the board approved ordinances regulating traffic control, speed limits, and overnight parking in unit 18 of the Weathersfield subdivision.

They delayed action on an ordinance which regulates animal control, because board members said they had not had enough time to study the ordinance.

Village To Formally Oppose Election Code Changes

Opposition to changes in the Illinois Election Code likely will be approved in formal resolution by the Hoffman Estates Village Board next week.

The board directed Clerk Virginia Netter and Deputy Clerk Helen Wozniak to draft the resolution citing specific areas of objection for board action on Monday. The bill already has been approved by the state senate, and will be brought to the house in the special session convened Nov. 27, said Mrs. Wozniak.

The Municipal Clerk's Association is asking villages to write to the house in opposition to specific parts of the bill, seeking amendments, said Mrs. Netter. The village clerk and her deputy cited reasons for opposition.

THE LAW WOULD put administration of all elections under the office of county clerks, rather than local clerks. Currently villages, townships, school and park districts operate all elections using existing regular personnel, they said. It is estimated the Cook County Clerk's office would need an additional 100 employees to handle the elections, increasing costs to taxpayers.

All public officials would be chosen in the same election. Netter noted this would be a "great idea if you have contiguous boundaries, which we don't have." Mrs. Wozniak said it could mean having elections for two villages or townships in the same polling places, and having officials for five school districts chosen in the same polling places, because county precincts would be used rather than local ones.

Costs also would be increased because the county uses more precincts than do the villages and school districts, said Mrs. Wozniak.

The law would require all voters in the state to reregister as of January, said Mrs. Wozniak, calling this an unnecessary expense of millions of dollars.

THE LAW DOES not provide for special elections or referenda, said Mrs. Wozniak, so that a governing body would have to wait for the statewide election day to hold such votes.

There would be two annual election days, in May and November, under the proposed law.

The trustees indicated they favor some provisions of the law, such as having a uniform election day of the week. For example, all elections could be on Tuesdays, suggested Virginia Hayter, who also favored specific voting hours, perhaps 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Current laws allowing each type of governing body to set its own election hours cause confusion, she said.

Mrs. Netter and Mrs. Wozniak agreed, saying that was why they wanted a formal resolution stating which points in the law are objectionable. They noted another objection to the law, that there had been problems this year with absentee ballots, which are handled by the county, and suggested these problems could be spread into other balloting if the county takes control.

the tollroad, near the residences. The alternative offered was to put them north of the tollroad. It declined to consider putting the lines underground, Budish said.

THE CITIZENS discussed cost comparisons of the alternatives advanced by the Edison representatives at a meeting with village officials. Budish and Ron Olson, also an active opponent to above-ground wires, said they were told above-ground lines would cost $500,000 per mile, while underground wires would cost $10 million per mile. While Trustee Bruce Lind, who attended the meeting, noted the utility firm representatives had quoted a $1 million per mile price for the underground lines, Olson said the spokesmen had corrected their figures after the meeting.

The lobbyists agreed they should consider testifying in opposition to the above-ground wires at hearings before the Illinois Commerce Commission, which must be held before the project can be started. They also considered going to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the federal Environmental Protection Agency. The group plans to enlist support from U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th.

Specific plans of action will be proposed at the next meeting.

Committee members who will draft proposals on the Edison matter and the formal structuring of the lobby group are Budish, Olson, Mrs. Dawn Anderson, Guy Grabiski, Mort Wallace, Selwyn Schwartz, Ed Kiem, Milt Kostner, Jack Dickerson, Bill Shlifka and Bill Hunter.

Dad-Son Swim Outing Slated By Cub Scouts

Cub Scout Pack 296 will hold a father-and-son swim outing Saturday at the Elgin YMCA. All Cub Scouts and their fathers are to meet first at 8 p.m. at Dooley School, 622 Norwood Ln., Schaumburg.

Admission will be 50 cents per person. Swimming contests will be the featured event.

At the Nov. 2 pack meeting, Bobby Drysch, Mark Benson, Keith Stras and Scott Danforth received the Arrow of Light, the highest award in Cub scouting. The four boys now will advance to Boy Scouts.

The following boys were welcomed into the pack with the Bobcat ceremony: David Giesell, William Sechter, Ray Ritchie, Michael Lochen, Scott Halloran, Paul Holecha, Glen Clark, Jim Zabinski, Robert Massetti, Scott Hall and Robert Mussel.

Den 7 won the honor flag for inspection for November, and Den 3 won the attendance flag.

Airport Center Slates 'Family Movie Night'

The Piper Flite Center at Schaumburg Airport Inc. will present Family Night at the Movies Sunday.

"Stable and Safe," a Federal Aviation Administration award-winning safety film, and "Wings to the Bahamas," a flying vacation movie, make up the double feature scheduled for showing at 6 p.m.

Admission is free. There will be coffee, a cash bar and several surprise events during the evening.

THE REASON FOR all the fuss at O'Hare is this controversial parking garage and hotel which is causing monumental traffic probelms at the airport. The 9,250 car garage is reportedly in the final phase of construction. The five story structure will be connected to the new O'Hare International Tower Hotel, and the whole complex is planned for public use sometime in December. A $7.3 million tunnel will include moving sidewalks to transport passengers from the terminal to the hotel and garage.

State, County Units Form Anti-Drug Abuse Program

A model program to combat drug abuse in the Chicago metropolitan area is being prepared by staff members of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission and the Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission.

The model will be used in seeking federal funds for an $18.7 million project to cut the crime rate in the metropolitan area.

But once the two local agencies receive a commitment for federal funding for the crime project from the U.S. Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, they may decide to use the money for combatting burglaries or street crime instead of drug abuse.

Chicago attorney Richard A. Devine, a criminal justice commission member, said yesterday drug abuse is merely being used as the subject for a model program being prepared to be shown to LEAA. "That's not the final focus of the program. It was chosen merely to provide a subject the staffs can work on jointly," he said.

The project, named "High Crime/Criminal Justice Activity Project" was announced by the ILEC and the criminal justice commission in September.

Sailors Need Hosts For Thanksgiving

Families are being sought to open up their homes next Thursday and provide a Thanksgiving meal for servicement from the Great Lakes Naval Base in North Chicago.

About 800 recruits, some away from home for the first time, are in need of a place to go Thanksgiving and are a part of the successful program begun several years ago in which families serve as the hosts.

According to Nick Young of the naval base's public information department, more than 300 families have thus far responded to this year's requests and that Monday is the deadline for area residents to reserve a seat at their table for one or more of the remaining 500 men.

Young, who said that permanent officials at the base are going home for Thanksgiving, is hoping for a surge in Thanksgiving responses by Monday (interests families should call 688-2201).

"The program was started six or seven years ago and has been a complete success," Young said. Because most of the recruits don't have full uniforms and are unfamiliar with the Chicago area we are asking families to pick up and return the men to the base on Thanksgiving day.

"I KNOW THE RESULTS of the program have been great from the morale standpoint. The men thought the program was tremendous. And the families have had rewarding experiences.

"Many of the boys haven't been away from home before, especially during the holidays. We hadn't done too well in finding them families until today. But I went on a radio show and we got about 100 calls."

Young gave an example of the holiday spirit involved in this program. "Last year there was a young lady in Chicago who was confined to a wheelchair. She had to quit the University of Chicago because she ran out of money. But she got together with her family and hosted six of our fellows. They all had a fabulous time. The family was black and the six fellows were white." He said the family was hosting more servicemen this year.

Young said the servicemen will not be in need on Christmas Day. Residents in Hanover Park and Carpentersville are hosting the servicemen.

Sailors Need Hosts For Thanksgiving

Families are being sought to open up their homes next Thursday and provide a Thanksgiving meal for servicement from the Great Lakes Naval Base in North Chicago.

About 800 recruits, some away from home for the first time, are in need of a place to go Thanksgiving and are a part of the successful program begun several years ago in which families serve as the hosts.

According to Nick Young of the naval base's public information department, more than 300 families have thus far responded to this year's requests and that Monday is the deadline for area residents to reserve a seat at their table for one or more of the remaining 500 men.

Young, who said that permanent officials at the base are going home for Thanksgiving, is hoping for a surge in Thanksgiving responses by Monday (interests families should call 688-2201).

"The program was started six or seven years ago and has been a complete success," Young said. Because most of the recruits don't have full uniforms and are unfamiliar with the Chicago area we are asking families to pick up and return the men to the base on Thanksgiving day.

"I KNOW THE RESULTS of the program have been great from the morale standpoint. The men thought the program was tremendous. And the families have had rewarding experiences.

"Many of the boys haven't been away from home before, especially during the holidays. We hadn't done too well in finding them families until today. But I went on a radio show and we got about 100 calls."

Young gave an example of the holiday spirit involved in this program. "Last year there was a young lady in Chicago who was confined to a wheelchair. She had to quit the University of Chicago because she ran out of money. But she got together with her family and hosted six of our fellows. They all had a fabulous time. The family was black and the six fellows were white." He said the family was hosting more servicemen this year.

Young said the servicemen will not be in need on Christmas Day. Residents in Hanover Park and Carpentersville are hosting the servicemen.

Palatine Democrats Facing Dilemma

by BOB LAHEY

Palatine Township Democrats are facing a dilemma in the township elections scheduled for next spring.

With a majority in the organization in favor of abolition of township government, the members are currently debating whether to field a slate of candidates as they have customarily done.

Township committeeman Richard A. Mugalian reported that the question was discussed at an organization meeting Tuesday night but said that no conclusion was reached.

Mugalian himself said he has no firm feeling on the matter. He said he feels basically that the national parties should not be involved in elections at the local level.

HE POINTED OUT, however, that the Republicans can be expected to slate candidates for the township offices. Given the tradition of Republican-Democratic opposition for those offices, he said, he would not want to give the appearance of abandoning the field to the Republicans.

"Some members of the organization ask whether it would not be inconsistent to slate candidates for offices we would like to see abolished," he related. "But it's like the situation with the coroner's office. As long as the office exists, you have to have a coroner."

He added that he felt the odds against Democratic candidates winning in Palatine Township should not be the controlling factor in a decision of whether or not to seek good candidates.

The organization may reach a decision at its December meeting, when it also will decide on a plan to restructure itself.

Mugalian said the members discussed a proposal to elect a president and vice president of the organization, in addition to the committeeman, and to create vice presidents to deal with specific areas of activity. At the December meeting, they also will further discuss abolition of the appointed post of committeewoman, which Mugalian said some proponents of feminism believe to be outdated and to have no real powers.

MUGALIAN, ELECTED to the State House of Representatives in the Nov. 7 election, said he has decided not to resign his committeeman's post, but hinted he might not seek reelection.

"If we can find someone to keep the party unified, to keep it going in the direction we're going, who needs the extra work?" he asked. He noted that with election of added officers under a new structure, some likely candidate or candidates might emerge who would make effective committeemen.

Opposition to Mugalian's reelection is expected from some members of the Palatine organization who were disgruntled by his refusal to endorse all candidates on the Democratic ticket.

Drug Overdose Deaths Drop Drastically

For the third consecutive month, drug overdose deaths in Cook County dropped drastically, according to Coroner Andrew J. Toman.

Toman said overdose deaths for October totaled 15, compared to 33 deaths for October, 1971. For September, overdose deaths numbered 14, compared to 48 in September, 1971; for August, overdose deaths totaled 14, compared to 32 in August, 1971.

Toman reported that for the first 10 months of this year, there were 214 drug overdose deaths, compared to 247 for the same period last year.

"It appears that for the first time since we began keeping drug overdose death statistics we will have a decrease in the annual number of deaths," said Toman.

Last year there were a total of 310 drug deaths, and 277 deaths in 1970.

Toman said he knew of no one factor that would have caused the sudden decrease in drug deaths.

"Perhaps it's a combination of stricter police enforcement and a public awareness of the dangers of drugs," he said.

Of the 15 deaths last month, six were caused by overdoses of barbiturates; two by a combination of heroin and alcohol; four by a combination of barbiturates and alcohol; one by a combination of heroin and barbiturates, and two by unknown drugs.

Seven of the victims were male and eight were female. Thirteen of the deaths occurred in Chicago and two in suburban Cook County.

Crooks Will Speak

James M. Crooks, president of Image Communications Inc., will be guest speaker at the Tuesday, Nov. 21 meeting of the Northwest Christian Businessmen's Committee. The luncheon session will begin at noon at Nielsen's Restaurant, 6475 N. Mannheim Rd., Rosemont.

D'Artagnan was not only the greatest swordsman in France but he was a great strategist. He knew there was a time for daring and a time for safety.

What should he do after the wily Rochefort jumped to four hearts? A mere four-spade call was likely to be an underbid. A heart cue-bid would probably just elicit a further diamond bid from Porthos sitting North. A six-spade bid might leave him high and dry and wrecked on the rocks of distribution, but D'Artagnan tried that bid.

Rochefort considered a seven-heart save, but he had too much defense and he knew that all D'Artagnan's slams were not guaranteed by the Bank of France.

Jussace opened a heart. D'Artagnan ruffed and saw that the way to follow up his daring bid was with extreme caution in the play.

Watch the safe way he played the slam. At trick two he cashed the ace of clubs. Then he led a diamond to dummy's ace and played a second club from dummy to guard against the possibility that Rochefort had been dealt just one club.

When the club was not ruffed the hand was home.

D'Artagnan led a low club; ruffed with dummy's king of trumps; led a heart and ruffed with his ace of trumps as a super safety play; then ruffed this last club with dummy's five of trumps and told his opponents that one of them could take his queen of trumps any time he wished.

Palatine Democrats Facing Dilemma

by BOB LAHEY

Palatine Township Democrats are facing a dilemma in the township elections scheduled for next spring.

With a majority in the organization in favor of abolition of township government, the members are currently debating whether to field a slate of candidates as they have customarily done.

Township committeeman Richard A. Mugalian reported that the question was discussed at an organization meeting Tuesday night but said that no conclusion was reached.

Mugalian himself said he has no firm feeling on the matter. He said he feels basically that the national parties should not be involved in elections at the local level.

HE POINTED OUT, however, that the Republicans can be expected to slate candidates for the township offices. Given the tradition of Republican-Democratic opposition for those offices, he said, he would not want to give the appearance of abandoning the field to the Republicans.

"Some members of the organization ask whether it would not be inconsistent to slate candidates for offices we would like to see abolished," he related. "But it's like the situation with the coroner's office. As long as the office exists, you have to have a coroner."

He added that he felt the odds against Democratic candidates winning in Palatine Township should not be the controlling factor in a decision of whether or not to seek good candidates.

The organization may reach a decision at its December meeting, when it also will decide on a plan to restructure itself.

Mugalian said the members discussed a proposal to elect a president and vice president of the organization, in addition to the committeeman, and to create vice presidents to deal with specific areas of activity. At the December meeting, they also will further discuss abolition of the appointed post of committeewoman, which Mugalian said some proponents of feminism believe to be outdated and to have no real powers.

MUGALIAN, ELECTED to the State House of Representatives in the Nov. 7 election, said he has decided not to resign his committeeman's post, but hinted he might not seek reelection.

"If we can find someone to keep the party unified, to keep it going in the direction we're going, who needs the extra work?" he asked. He noted that with election of added officers under a new structure, some likely candidate or candidates might emerge who would make effective committeemen.

Opposition to Mugalian's reelection is expected from some members of the Palatine organization who were disgruntled by his refusal to endorse all candidates on the Democratic ticket.

Drug Overdose Deaths Drop Drastically

For the third consecutive month, drug overdose deaths in Cook County dropped drastically, according to Coroner Andrew J. Toman.

Toman said overdose deaths for October totaled 15, compared to 33 deaths for October, 1971. For September, overdose deaths numbered 14, compared to 48 in September, 1971; for August, overdose deaths totaled 14, compared to 32 in August, 1971.

Toman reported that for the first 10 months of this year, there were 214 drug overdose deaths, compared to 247 for the same period last year.

"It appears that for the first time since we began keeping drug overdose death statistics we will have a decrease in the annual number of deaths," said Toman.

Last year there were a total of 310 drug deaths, and 277 deaths in 1970.

Toman said he knew of no one factor that would have caused the sudden decrease in drug deaths.

"Perhaps it's a combination of stricter police enforcement and a public awareness of the dangers of drugs," he said.

Of the 15 deaths last month, six were caused by overdoses of barbiturates; two by a combination of heroin and alcohol; four by a combination of barbiturates and alcohol; one by a combination of heroin and barbiturates, and two by unknown drugs.

Seven of the victims were male and eight were female. Thirteen of the deaths occurred in Chicago and two in suburban Cook County.

Step Toward Springfield

Airport Control Session Is Held

by BARRY SIGALE

The Republican Party's yearly attempt to wrest control of O'Hare Airport from Chicago and the opposition party moved a step closer to Springfield yesterday.

A legislative subcommittee, made up strictly of Illinois Senate and House Republicans, held a study session yesterday to iron out a proposal to establish a State Airport Authority.

The proposal would bring under the jurisdiction of the state and local municipalities, excluding Chicago, any existing or future airports in Illinois.

The proposed legislation, which would create the Metropolitan Area Airport Authority Act, is ostensibly aimed at O'Hare Airport and Mayor Daley and would provide greater representation for residents who are affected by the operation of the airport.

REPUBLICANS have repeatedly sponsored legislation regarding airports but have been stymied because of staunch opposition by Daley-led Democrats and the defection of a handful of Republicans.

With the 1972 elections nine days behind, the Republican Party holds a slight margin in the State Senate, where passage of such a bill is expected, according to State Sen. Howard Mohr, R-Forest Park. But his party only holds a one vote edge in the House of Representatives and Mohr fears enough Republicans will vote with the Democrats on such legislation to kill the measure.

Mohr said Democrats have continued to oppose any legislation that would take control of O'Hare away from them, and that the Republican-only subcommittee was acting separately from them because of this. He also said the Republicans did not want the Democrats to know what they were going to propose when the legislature convenes next January.

Mohr, chairman of the subcommittee, and fellow members, were appointed to introduce legislation which would "provide an efficient metropolitan air travel system in a healthful, safe and pleasant environment" by 10th Dist. Republican U.S. Rep. Harold Collier.

THE NEW PROPOSAL calls for the reorganizing of the administrative structure for operation of airports, including O'Hare, in metropolitan areas of Illinois and adjacent states.

Under the proposal, local control would be affected if an ordinance is adopted by the corporate authorities of five municipalities within a five mile distance from an airport. At Wednesday's meeting it was not determined if that item would stand up or be amended to include more municipalities further from the airport in question.

The proposed legislation would also "prohibit unnecessary environmental degradation of land, water and air space adjacent to airports."

The result of several meetings and the testimony of dozens of officials and concerned citizens, the proposal is patterned after the St. Louis Airport Authority and the highlights of past proposed legislation, including a bill sponsored by Juckett that was voted down.

The authority would be composed of nine members, appointed by the governor with the consent of the Senate. Also, five of its members must reside within five miles of an existing or proposed airport.

The authority would also control the operation of Midway Airport and Meigs Field in Chicago and would be able to cooperate with surrounding states to coordinate any additional airports.

Other members of the subcommittee include State Reps. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, and David Regner, R-Mount Prospect; U.S. Reps. Phillip Crane, R-13th, Collier and John Erlenborn, R-14th; and retiring State Sen. John Carroll, R-4th.

THE NEW PROPOSAL calls for the reorganizing of the administrative structure for operation of airports, including O'Hare, in metropolitan areas of Illinois and adjacent states.

Under the proposal, local control would be affected if an ordinance is adopted by the corporate authorities of five municipalities within a five mile distance from an airport. At Wednesday's meeting it was not determined if that item would stand up or be amended to include more municipalities further from the airport in question.

The proposed legislation would also "prohibit unnecessary environmental degradation of land, water and air space adjacent to airports."

The result of several meetings and the testimony of dozens of officials and concerned citizens, the proposal is patterned after the St. Louis Airport Authority and the highlights of past proposed legislation, including a bill sponsored by Juckett that was voted down.

The authority would be composed of nine members, appointed by the governor with the consent of the Senate. Also, five of its members must reside within five miles of an existing or proposed airport.

The authority would also control the operation of Midway Airport and Meigs Field in Chicago and would be able to cooperate with surrounding states to coordinate any additional airports.

7% Decrease For Department's Employes

Danaher Orders Pay Cuts

Matthew J. Danaher, clerk of the Cook County Circuit Court, has ordered across-the-board pay cuts for the more than 1,500 employes in his office to meet an austerity program established by County Pres. George W. Dunne.

The pay reductions will amount to an almost 7 per cent decrease for the department's 1,551 employes.

The cutbacks were announced in a letter from Danaher delivered to all the employes Tuesday. The letter also said other moves will be made to achieve an overall 15 per cent reduction in the department's budget.

The court clerk's office was one of many ordered by Dunne to trim their budget to keep county spending in line with expected revenues for fiscal 1973.

THE COUNTY'S recent financial woes began when the 2 per cent service charge the county had been skimming off the top of all property tax collections was ruled unconstitutional. The decision cost the county about $18 million.

Since that time the county board adopted several new taxes to make up for the loss, but most have been challenged in court and any monies received have been tied up in escrow accounts pending disposition of the lawsuits.

To achieve the pay reductions, the 1,551 employes of the court clerk's office will be docked one and one-third days pay each month, or almost 17 days per year — a cut of 6.67 per cent.

In addition to the payroll cuts announced Tuesday, Danaher, in his letter, told his employes no pay raises or promotions will be given during 1973 and that all employes 75 years or older, "will be required to take their retirement." Danaher said 40 employes are more than 75 years old.

THE COUNTY BOARD previously passed a resolution making such retirements mandatory.

Also, Danaher said, car allowances will be severely restricted, strict procedures will be imposed on unauthorized absences and, "Any job vacancy that occurs will remain vacant for no less than two months." He said other accounts have been cut back drastically, too.

Peter Deuel, associate clerk of the court, said those accounts have been cut about $700,000, by reducing the number of courtrooms, combining court calls and trimming auto allowances. He said the program will save the office $1.4 million annually.

Danaher said there will be no exceptions to the paycut and included himself among those who will feel the pinch. He said, "This regulation was adopted because the only alternative would be to fire 150 employes and I am sure you would not want that to happen."

DANAHER, WHO told the employes he had hoped to "soften this blow," said there remains "A small glimmer of hope," to avoid the pay cuts. "If the federal revenue sharing funds come to Cook County without any strings attached, Pres. Dunne has given me his personal assurance he will soften the blow," he wrote.

Recently reelected to the clerk's position, Danaher said, "This should be a time for all of us to be proud of the decision of the electorate because the election proved that the public approves of the way you serve them in your capacity as public servants. Instead I am forced to impose these restrictions because of Pres. Dunne's order."

When asked about the payroll cuts in Danaher's office, Dunne said, "We must operate the government within the scope of the available revenue."

DUNNE SAID the budget cuts were essential because the county board had pledged to the county taxpayers there would be no increase in property taxes through 1974.

"The cut is severe," Dunne said, "and I'm sure it will hamper and curtail essential services. But it was a case of letting go 15 per cent of the people and having the court machinery bog down, or reducing the payroll."

Dunne said the non-personnel accounts have been, "cut to the bone as it is." He said he expects similar pay reductions will be made in other county departments.

The Holiday Season's Here: Drive Safely

Thanksgiving is nationally recognized as a time to give thanks for food, shelter, heat, clothes and employment. This season, however, will be welcomed with mixed blessings.

For the families of 750 victims of 1971 Thanksgiving accident deaths, there will be less for which to be thankful.

The Insurance Information Institute cautions drivers not to become a holiday statistic. Unlike several previous seasons such as the Fourth of July and Labor Day — the Thanksgiving Holiday may bring hazardous driving conditions in the Midwest.

The weather has varied over the Thanksgiving Holiday from year to year, from slippery, wet driving conditions to clear, dry highways. The Institute advises drivers to drive "defensively."

Not enough drivers heed this advice. The national toll of 25,960, a 5 per cent increase from last year, has put 1972 on the road to the dubious distinction of perhaps becoming the deadliest year in U.S. highway history.

Deaths and injuries are not the only related aspects of holiday accidents. In a national survey last year, the Institute found that people correctly relate higher insurance rates to the large number of accidents occurring throughout the country.

The Thanksgiving Holiday can be long remembered for love and thanks. But only if members of the family put safety into their holiday season.

Census Bureau Will Probe Vote Patern

Did you vote November 7? Were you registered but did not vote?

The Bureau of the Census will ask these and other questions about voting activity in the 1972 national election of persons 18 and older in a sample of households in this area during the week of Nov. 20-24.

Forrest P. Cawley Jr., director of the bureau's Data Collection Center in Chicago, stressed that no questions will be asked about party affiliation or for whom a person voted. The survey will provide a profile of the typical American voter, and non-voter: age, sex, residence, education, labor force status, and family income.

In a similar survey following the 1968 presidential election, higher voting participation was found among men, persons 45 to 64 years, whites, people living outside the South, those with higher educational attainment, larger family incomes, and in white collar occupations.

The voting questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the country. The September survey showed that employment continued to rise, while unemployment was essentially unchanged. The September unemployment rate of 5.5 per cent was about the same as in the previous three months, but below the 6-per cent mark around which it had fluctuated between late 1970 and May 1972.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is confidential and results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Bars Deserved Board Speed

Northwest suburban residents generally enjoy the fruits of good, clean, responsive government; but that government occasionally has been known to break down in its service to its constituents.

Witness, for example, the plight of the owners of liquor-serving establishments in Arlington Heights.

Earlier this year, a state law which banned liquor sales while the polls are open on Election Day was thrown out, thus placing on someone's shoulders the responsibility of developing an alternative.

Arlington Heights, like many other communities, had to deal with this problem. And it indeed found the issue clouded by questions of home rule powers and limitations.

So, the board decided that a vote would be taken on whether to allow local bartenders to serve patrons before 6 p.m. on Election Day — a decision which seemed to us to be a reasonable one for a village board to make.

So far, so good. But the board seemed to forget that the election was scheduled for November 17 (rain or shine). Thus, the board waited until the day before the election, and until about midnight before approving open liquor sales.

We realize the sale of liquor for a period of about six or eight hours is a miniscule issue compared to the monstrous issues of war and peace, inflation and deflation, and love and hate which should have preoccupied the minds of voters on Election Day.

But the decision was important to bartenders, who must prepare refrigerators and staff whenever the doors are open and the regulars flock in. The village board's decision required owners of taverns to make last minute decisions based on the eleventh hour move by the board.

Generally, liquor license holders have a rough life. It's not easy to convince a village government that you deserve a liquor license; decisions on and control of licenses are arbitrary, as allowed under Illinois law.

In the future, give 'em a break. In this era of home rule, there's an implication that local communities will be responsive to their constituents. That responsiveness, it seems, should extend even down to the men who fill and refill beer glasses when the long day is ended.

Is O'Hare Listening?

Getting there is definitely not half the fun, as any seasoned air traveler can attest.

As air transportation has grown and airports have expanded, the problem is not just getting to the airport but to the airplane itself. Any plane within a half-mile of the ticket counter is close.

They've done something about it in Kansas City, where a new $250-million airport goes into operation this month.

A design concept called "gate arrival" shortens to about 300 feet the distance from parked car to parked airplane. Instead of a main terminal building with long concourses extending fingerlike out to the plane, there is a cluster of one-level, C-shaped buildings in a trinagle formation.

A passenger can drive into and park in the open center of whichever C his plane is departing from. Planes are positioned on the outer perimeter of each building. In 33 steps from the terminal entrance — the width, not the length, of the terminal — he's checked in and boarding the plane.

It's possible, airport officials say, that a passenger embarking on one of the huge jumbo jets may walk farther to his seat after he enters the plane than he did through the terminal.

Ending A Blackout

The "invisible American" is no longer so invisible

For the first time, according to a study commissioned by the American Federation of Teachers, the role of the Negro in American history is being fairly and adequately treated in school textbooks.

The study, "The Negro in Modern American History Textbooks," was prepared by Irving Sloan, a junior high school teacher in Scarsdale, N.Y.

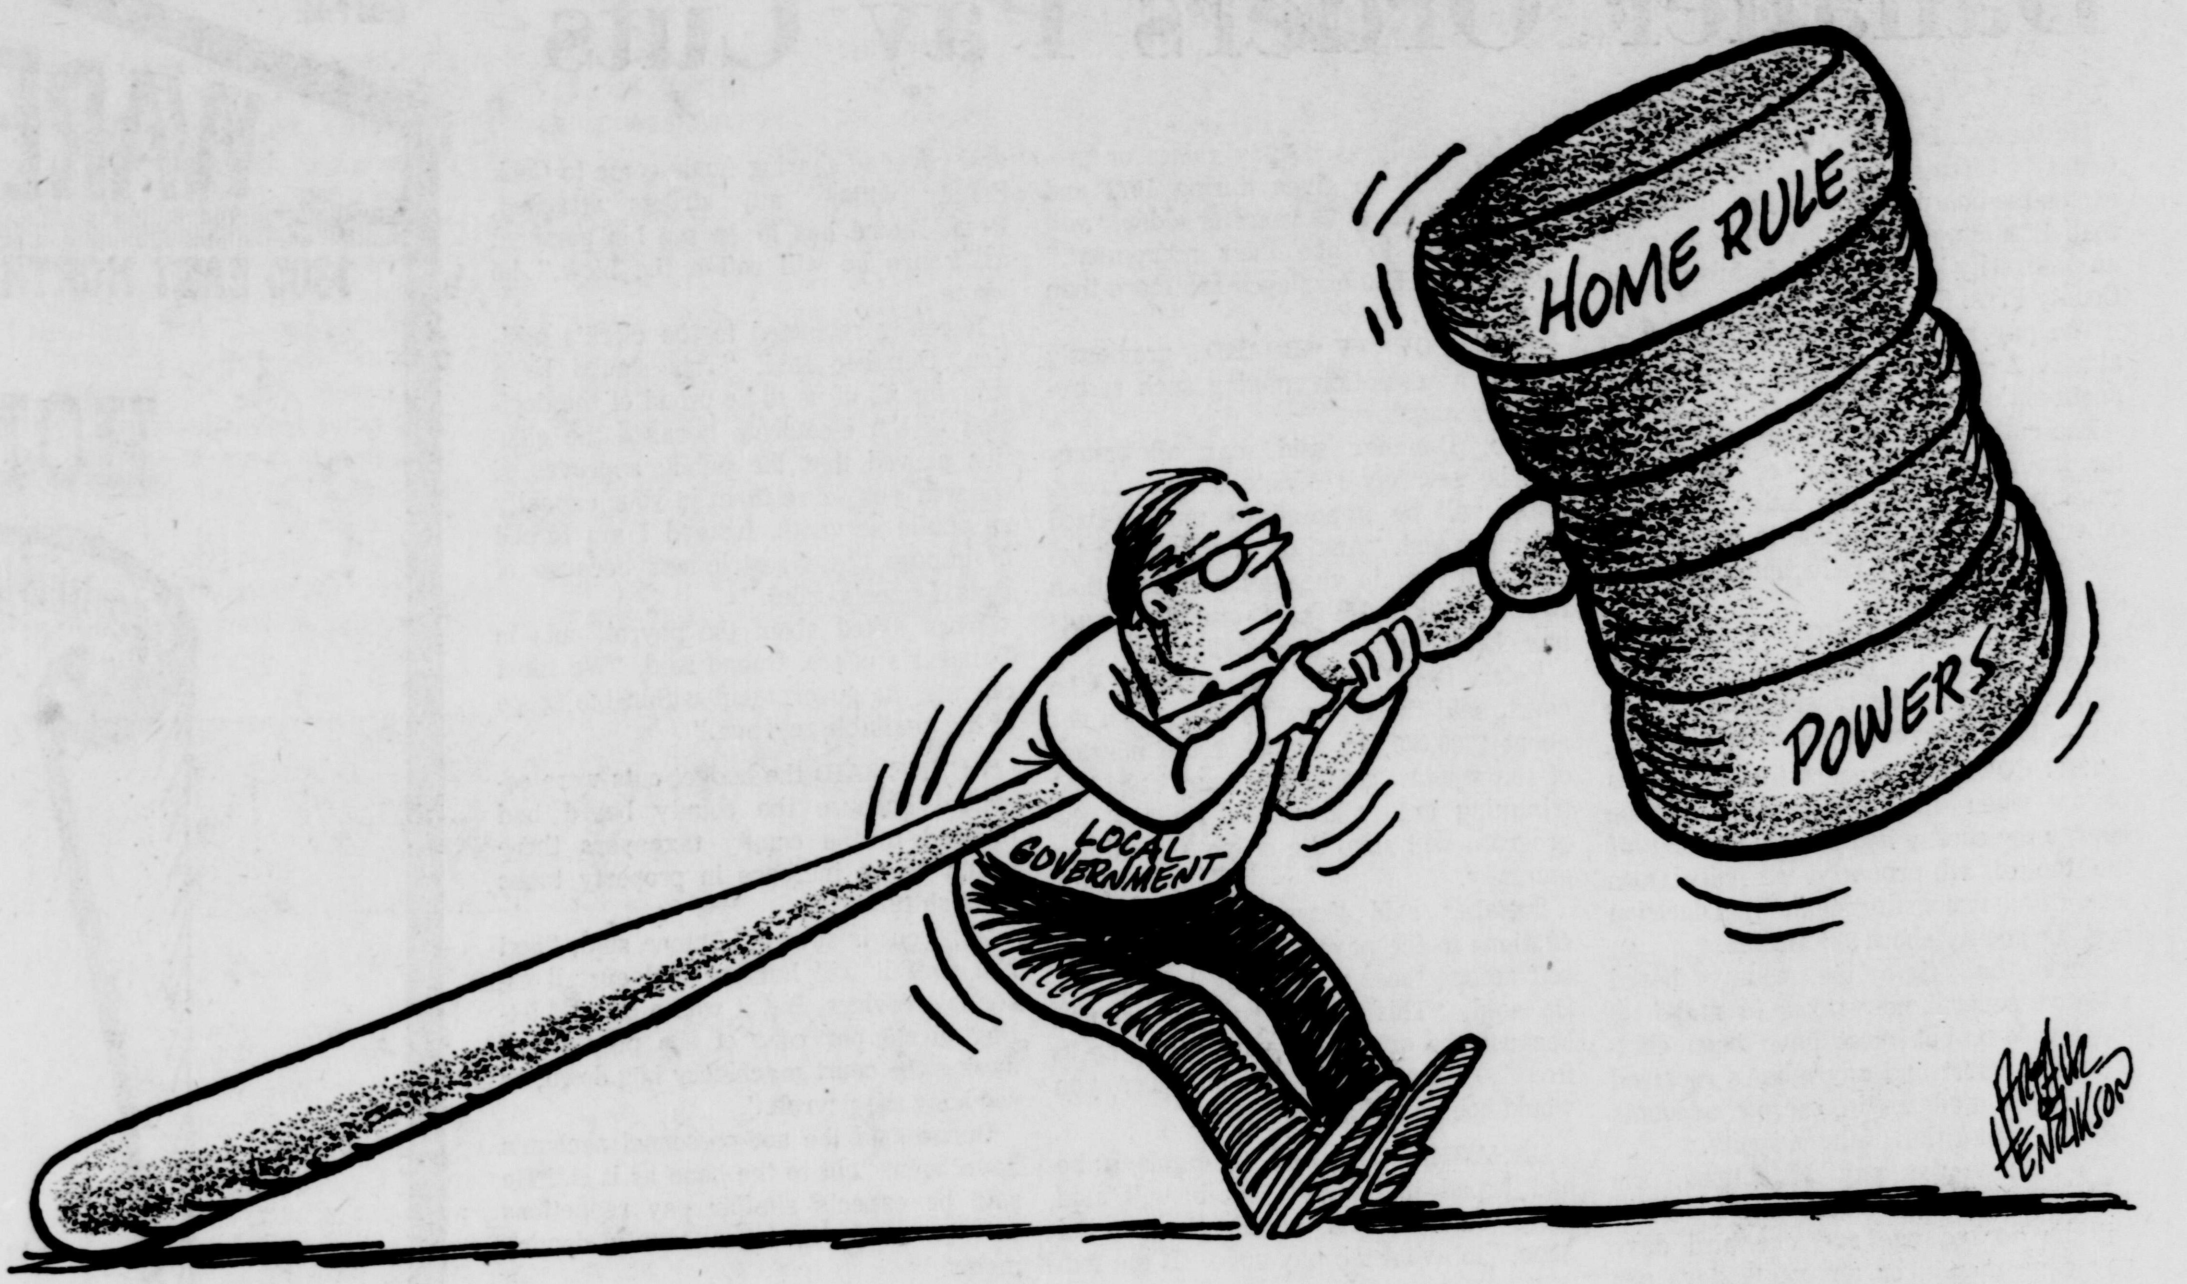
Three previous editions of the study, the first in 1966, found that junior and senior high school history texts used around the country either ignored or presented a distorted view of the American Negro.

The latest study involved an examination of 19 recently published history texts. While it found room for improvement in most of them, it also found that in terms of historical scholarship, "they meet the highest standards, almost without exception.

The time has now come to praise what American history textbooks have achieved in their treatment of black Americans, says Sloan.

"Much, if not most, and, in some instances all, that we critics, black and white, have been calling for through the years has come to pass."

Will Take A Little Getting Used To



Bob Lahey's Column

Illinois Ranks High In Reform

BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

It is heartening, and a trifle startling, to find Illinois rated near the top of the 50 states in a study of laws seeking government reforms.

The study was conducted by Common Cause, a "citizens' lobby" of some 200,000 members and will be published next Tuesday in a book entitled "Money and Secrecy: A Citizen's Guide to Reforming State and Federal Practices."

According to advance notices, the book examines laws of all 50 states in four areas: Open meetings, lobbying disclosure, conflicts of interest of public officials and campaign financing.

Only Illinois and California have laws rated "adequate" in three of the four categories. Illinois laws on open meetings, lobbying disclosure and conflicts of interest were considered adequate by Common Cause. The state has no law on campaign finances.

California was one of 28 states found to have laws in all four areas, but its campaign finance law is described by Common Cause as "ineffective." Among the other 27 states, none had more than two of the four laws considered adequate, and all four laws in 12 of the states were rated ineffective or only "partly effective."

In each of the categories, no more than eight states were found to have adequate laws, and the numbers in each category considered to have ineffective laws, or none at all, ranged from 23 to 40.

The book itself promises a pessimistic view of the overall state of the states. It begins:

"Few but the rich are assured access to elected officials.

"Campaign costs make politics a rich man's game.

"Lobbyists operate unobserved and unregulated.

"Legislators pass laws from which their friends derive personal financial gain; and all this goes on beneath a shroud of secrecy."

The book is intended as the opening shot in a Common Cause campaign for congressional reform in 1973, dubbed Open Up the System.

Its author, Lawrence Gilson, concludes that "To place increased power or money in the hands of the state or federal government without at the same time taking steps to make them more responsive, more accountable, and more accessible to the citizen would be the worst kind of folly."

The book finds major weaknesses in government operations at the federal level.

Open meeting regulations are "so weak as to allow congressional committees . . . to elect by majority vote to close all committee sessions to the public," it points out.

It also says that vagaries of the federal lobbying law allow such groups as the American Bankers Association, General Motors, and International Telephone and Telegraph to operate in the capital without registering at all.

Similar weaknesses exist in the areas of conflict of interest and campaign disclosures. Where laws do exist, the book concludes, there is a "virtual absence of enforcement."

In an introduction to the book, Common Cause chairman John Gardner says, "By itself, this book is only a guide. Its impact must come from the released energies of thousands of citizens intent on reform. But placed in the hands of a group of determined citizens . . . this book can provide the springboard for effective action."

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Airline's Hijack Policy Blasted

Recently a letter appeared from a Mrs. Margaret Johnson regarding a column written by Tom Wellman concerning his unfortunate airline experiences. I take personal offense at Mrs. Johnson's remarks. But, this is not the prime reason for my letter. Mr. Wellman has broad shoulders.

My son returned in August from a ten month tour of duty in Viet Nam. While there he was a crew chief on helicopters (different kinds that I can't recall). Among his duties were to keep his chopper in perfect running order and also to go out and scout. Often he helped pick up downed chopper crews. He saw many of his buddies killed when their helicopters were hit.

After a month leave he was due to report to Fort Campbell, Ky. He called Ozark Airlines and made a flight reservation. He naturally used the military reservation (cheaper rates). He was in full dress uniform, carrying all his records. He checked his duffle bag through. Incidentally he had short hair, his shoes were spitshined, and his uniform had nary a wrinkle. As he was preparing to board his flight two Ozark employees approached him and asked him to submit to a pat search (frisk). All the passengers had been run through the metal detector prior to this. When my son asked what alternative he had the Ozark people said he could not board the plane. They would not tell my son any reason they considered him a security risk. Another military person aboard was not bothered. The search revealed nothing. When my son changed flights at St. Louis he went to the Ozark main offices and asked why. Once again he was informed "like it or not, you are a security risk, that's the way it is."

To put it mildly, this drove my son right up the wall. If the U.S. Government could trust him around aeronautical equipment in the heat of a battle, what gives a minute airline like Ozark the right to treat him this way? My son feels all people should be searched if they are really worried.

I wrote to the Federal Aviation Administration and Ozark Airlines. My son received a telephone call from FAA, apologizing for his treatment. A letter followed to him and one to me explaining that they have since changed the policy. I also received a curt note from a Mr. Wilson of Ozark explaining their employes were right and they could not reveal why he was chosen. He also explained that the procedure is now changed. Military personnel with proper identification are not considered security risks. How condescending!!!

If the airlines are really to get to the root of the security problems many of their policies should be changed. Check everyone. Also there is easy access to the actual field at O'Hare. I've been down on the field and no one has ever questioned my business there. I feel if someone so desired they could drive down on the field, too.

Incidentally, Mrs. Johnson, I think you are missing the boat. Just because the young people today don't dress the way you and I were taught does not say they are all bad. I'm not too sure our generation is all that great. Underneath all that hair and sloppy clothes is a soul we should love. I was always taught don't judge a book by its cover.

My son and Mr. Wellman both are clean shaven young men. So maybe you'd better go to work for the airlines. They seem to need help in the public relations department.

Tom Flynn Urges Democrat Unity

Twelve months ago, against the advice of my friends and political associates, I announced my candidacy for the State Senate. Three local newspapers predicted my defeat and by margins of 20,000 to 25,000 votes. The advice was sound but the predictions were wrong. President Nixon and not my opponent defeated me.

I express my gratitude to the Maine, Niles and Wheeling Township Democratic Organizations for their support and especially to the precinct captains of those organizations. I am thankful that most of the local newspapers printed my weekly position papers and gave their readers the opportunity to judge me. I thank the volunteers who came forward and helped me. I am thankful to my wife and children and apologize for the subjectation of the past two months. Finally, I am most grateful to the over 35,000 citizens who voted for me in the face of the Nixon landslide. It should be recognized that I won the battle of the split voter and defeated my opponent in his own precinct as well as mine.

I congratulate Aaron Jaffe, Eugene Schlickman and Robert Juckett and wish them well. I cannot and will not congratulate my opponent because of the nature of his campaign. Thomas Flynn is not a hypocrite.

The only regret I have is that I was unable to unify our Democratic Party. I sincerely ask the leaders of my party to forget the past and join together to build a stronger suburban Democratic Party.

Once again, thank you for working and voting for me.

Local Couple Praised

My husband and I would like to thank a thoughtful Inverness couple.

On Sunday, Nov. 5, our daughter and a girl friend had a bike accident. The accident occurred on Palatine Road in Palatine.

A couple driving a blue Pinto station wagon with an Inverness sticker not only brought the girls home, but also their bikes. In all the excitement, we neglected to get their name.

I am writing this in hopes they will read it. We do appreciate their help.

Abortions Hit

Judging by the replies in the Fence Post, I see Mr. Rosenberger has become quite popular or unpopular, depending on your point of view. A few months ago I wrote a reply to his stand on abortion, in which he equated abortion with the removal of a cancerous growth.

Although I boast no college degree, I do know that the pen is mightier than the sword. I would like to quote from an article in a Chicago newspaper. As reported by the New York State "Health" Department, from January 1, 1971 to January 1, 1972 a total of 262,807 abortions were performed. The report also said live births were reported from 49 induced abortions with death certificates being issued for 47 of them. The article referred to "them," never using the word babies. A person doesn't need a degree in medicine to know that they were human beings. The word "fetus" is a cop-out.

Would you believe this is happening in America, not Nazi Germany?

Bars Deserved Board Speed

Northwest suburban residents generally enjoy the fruits of good, clean, responsive government; but that government occasionally has been known to break down in its service to its constituents.

Witness, for example, the plight of the owners of liquor-serving establishments in Arlington Heights.

Earlier this year, a state law which banned liquor sales while the polls are open on Election Day was thrown out, thus placing on someone's shoulders the responsibility of developing an alternative.

Arlington Heights, like many other communities, had to deal with this problem. And it indeed found the issue clouded by questions of home rule powers and limitations.

So, the board decided that a vote would be taken on whether to allow local bartenders to serve patrons before 6 p.m. on Election Day — a decision which seemed to us to be a reasonable one for a village board to make.

So far, so good. But the board seemed to forget that the election was scheduled for November 17 (rain or shine). Thus, the board waited until the day before the election, and until about midnight before approving open liquor sales.

We realize the sale of liquor for a period of about six or eight hours is a miniscule issue compared to the monstrous issues of war and peace, inflation and deflation, and love and hate which should have preoccupied the minds of voters on Election Day.

But the decision was important to bartenders, who must prepare refrigerators and staff whenever the doors are open and the regulars flock in. The village board's decision required owners of taverns to make last minute decisions based on the eleventh hour move by the board.

Generally, liquor license holders have a rough life. It's not easy to convince a village government that you deserve a liquor license; decisions on and control of licenses are arbitrary, as allowed under Illinois law.

In the future, give 'em a break. In this era of home rule, there's an implication that local communities will be responsive to their constituents. That responsiveness, it seems, should extend even down to the men who fill and refill beer glasses when the long day is ended.

Is O'Hare Listening?

Getting there is definitely not half the fun, as any seasoned air traveler can attest.

As air transportation has grown and airports have expanded, the problem is not just getting to the airport but to the airplane itself. Any plane within a half-mile of the ticket counter is close.

They've done something about it in Kansas City, where a new $250-million airport goes into operation this month.

A design concept called "gate arrival" shortens to about 300 feet the distance from parked car to parked airplane. Instead of a main terminal building with long concourses extending fingerlike out to the plane, there is a cluster of one-level, C-shaped buildings in a trinagle formation.

A passenger can drive into and park in the open center of whichever C his plane is departing from. Planes are positioned on the outer perimeter of each building. In 33 steps from the terminal entrance — the width, not the length, of the terminal — he's checked in and boarding the plane.

It's possible, airport officials say, that a passenger embarking on one of the huge jumbo jets may walk farther to his seat after he enters the plane than he did through the terminal.

Ending A Blackout

The "invisible American" is no longer so invisible

For the first time, according to a study commissioned by the American Federation of Teachers, the role of the Negro in American history is being fairly and adequately treated in school textbooks.

The study, "The Negro in Modern American History Textbooks," was prepared by Irving Sloan, a junior high school teacher in Scarsdale, N.Y.

Three previous editions of the study, the first in 1966, found that junior and senior high school history texts used around the country either ignored or presented a distorted view of the American Negro.

The latest study involved an examination of 19 recently published history texts. While it found room for improvement in most of them, it also found that in terms of historical scholarship, "they meet the highest standards, almost without exception.

The time has now come to praise what American history textbooks have achieved in their treatment of black Americans, says Sloan.

"Much, if not most, and, in some instances all, that we critics, black and white, have been calling for through the years has come to pass."

BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

It is heartening, and a trifle startling, to find Illinois rated near the top of the 50 states in a study of laws seeking government reforms.

The study was conducted by Common Cause, a "citizens' lobby" of some 200,000 members and will be published next Tuesday in a book entitled "Money and Secrecy: A Citizen's Guide to Reforming State and Federal Practices."

According to advance notices, the book examines laws of all 50 states in four areas: Open meetings, lobbying disclosure, conflicts of interest of public officials and campaign financing.

Only Illinois and California have laws rated "adequate" in three of the four categories. Illinois laws on open meetings, lobbying disclosure and conflicts of interest were considered adequate by Common Cause. The state has no law on campaign finances.

California was one of 28 states found to have laws in all four areas, but its campaign finance law is described by Common Cause as "ineffective." Among the other 27 states, none had more than two of the four laws considered adequate, and all four laws in 12 of the states were rated ineffective or only "partly effective."

In each of the categories, no more than eight states were found to have adequate laws, and the numbers in each category considered to have ineffective laws, or none at all, ranged from 23 to 40.

The book itself promises a pessimistic view of the overall state of the states. It begins:

"Few but the rich are assured access to elected officials.

"Campaign costs make politics a rich man's game.

"Lobbyists operate unobserved and unregulated.

"Legislators pass laws from which their friends derive personal financial gain; and all this goes on beneath a shroud of secrecy."

The book is intended as the opening shot in a Common Cause campaign for congressional reform in 1973, dubbed Open Up the System.

Its author, Lawrence Gilson, concludes that "To place increased power or money in the hands of the state or federal government without at the same time taking steps to make them more responsive, more accountable, and more accessible to the citizen would be the worst kind of folly."

The book finds major weaknesses in government operations at the federal level.

Open meeting regulations are "so weak as to allow congressional committees . . . to elect by majority vote to close all committee sessions to the public," it points out.

It also says that vagaries of the federal lobbying law allow such groups as the American Bankers Association, General Motors, and International Telephone and Telegraph to operate in the capital without registering at all.

Similar weaknesses exist in the areas of conflict of interest and campaign disclosures. Where laws do exist, the book concludes, there is a "virtual absence of enforcement."

In an introduction to the book, Common Cause chairman John Gardner says, "By itself, this book is only a guide. Its impact must come from the released energies of thousands of citizens intent on reform. But placed in the hands of a group of determined citizens . . . this book can provide the springboard for effective action."

Business Today

by LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sooner or later the cost of preventing airline hijackings could force a substantial surcharge on air fares, according to industry leaders.

Both Paul R. Ignatius, executive vice president of the Air Transport Association, and Pres. Edward E. Carlson of United Air Lines recently criticized President Nixon and Congress sharply for the decision to phase out 1,100 federal officers involved in anti-hijacking activities.

Carlson claimed in a speech in Honolulu that the airlines are spending as much as they can on security. He said United spent $2 million last year.

Asked why the Air Transport Association believed the federal government should bear the cost of airport security and hijacking prevention instead of the airlines and local authorities, an ATA spokesman said it was a matter of money and of the practical impossibility of getting local airport authorities to take effective measures.

AGREEING THAT President Nixon might have a point in his view that financing hijacking protection was not primarily the province of the federal government, the spokesman said that could lead to fare surcharges to finance security measures.

A similar view was expressed by a security expert, Ira A. Lipman, president of Guardsmark, Inc., of New York.

"After all," asked Lipman, "why should taxpayers who choose not to ride the airlines be required to pay for anti-hijacking measures?"

Lipman said hijacking "is going to be a continuing thing" and improved measures against it must be set up at airports. It is obvious, he said, that the main factor permitting hijackings is the willingness of Cuba and some Arab lands to give asylum to hijackers. This is beyond U.S. control.

The ATA spokesman said another factor is the unwillingness so far of all concerned to admit there comes a time when the principle of law enforcement becomes more important than human lives. "I think there's a growing realization that we're going to have to face up to this and take more risks in subduing hijackers," he said.

LIPMAN AGREED with this but said much can be done to thwart hijackers at the airports if sufficient determination, money and men are made available. He outlined more than a dozen ways in which professional security experts could make it difficult for hijackers to get aboard airliners.

Lipman favors lots of armed guards on duty around the clock at airports.

He also favors a sophisticated system of identity cards for all airline and airport personnel and for passengers who fly frequently.

Next, he favors the widespread use of closed circuit television cameras at all landing ramps. Everyone leaving or boarding a plane would be visible on a screen at the airport security office. This equipment should be elaborate, he said. It would cover every portion of the plane, including its interior, and should include zoom lenses for getting close-ups of suspicious persons.

He also urged routine use of metal detectors and compulsory search of all passengers' persons and of carry-on and checked luggage for weapons.

Finally, he said, lighting systems should be expanded so hijackers could not take advantage of the dark to sneak into airports.

ITT Sales, Profits Peak For Quarter

International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., reported sales and earnings for the third quarter and first nine months of 1972 were the highest for any comparable period in the company's history.

Harold S. Geneen, chairman and president, reported that total sales and revenues of ITT and its worldwide subsidiaries rose to a record $2 billion in the third quarter of this year, an increase of 11 per cent over sales of $1.8 billion for the same period a year ago. For the first nine months of this year sales and revenues amounted to $6 billion, compared with $5.3 billion for the same period last year.

Consolidated income for the third quarter amounted to $111.9 million a gain of 11 per cent over the $100.4 million in the like 1971 period.

Earnings per equivalent common share in the third quarter were equal to 91 cents, a gain of 11 per cent over the 82 cents a share a year ago.

Consolidated income for the first nine months of 1972, before extraordinary items, totaled $327.3 million, up 12 per cent over the $292.7 million for the same period last year. Per share earnings for the first nine months before the extraordinary items were $2.65, compared with $2.40 for the like period of 1971, a gain of 10.4 per cent.

Income from "continuing" operations for the third quarter of 1972 increased to $107.1 million, from $84.9 million (respectively 87 cents and 70 cents a share.)

The gain reflected the continuing strong financial results of ITT's business and financial service activities, including Hartford Fire Insurance, and the strong demand for telecommunications equipment. The third quarter was favorably affected by a $3.8 million investment tax credit and profits on the sale of two Sheraton Hotels for $6.5 million. These were partially offset by losses of about $2.5 million from strike actions, and lower earnings from food products, the Puerto Rico Telephone Co. and Grinnell activities.

Dividend News

Richardson Company

The Richardson Co. reported sales from continuing operations of $29,146,000 for the third quarter of 1972, up 12.1 per cent from $25,994,000 a year earlier. Net earnings of $738,000 were up 92 per cent from the $393,000 in 1971. After provision for preferred dividends, earnings per share were 30 cents compared with nine cents in 1971.

For the nine months, net sales from continuing operations of $87,814,000 in 1972 compare favorably with the $77,241,000 of 1971. Net earnings for the 1972 period were $2,289,000, up 45.4 per cent from the $1,574,000 figure for 1971. After provision for preferred dividends, earnings were 96 cents a share, compared with 50 cents a share last year.

Union Oil Co.

Union Oil Co. of California net earnings for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, were $31.4 million, an increase of 14 per cent over the $27.6 million earned during the third quarter of 1971.

Net earnings per average common share outstanding for the three months were 89 cents in 1972 and 76 cents in 1971. On a fully diluted basis the per-share earnings were 77 cents in 1972 and 67 cents in 1971.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, net earnings increased six per cent to $89.1 million compared to $84.2 million in the same 1971 period.

Combined Insurance

Combined Insurance Co. of America reported record sales and profits for the first nine months of 1972.

The company also declared an extra cash dividend of six cents a share, the maximum permitted under Price Commission guidelines.

The company's total cash dividend payout this year will be $12,049,000, an increase of 4 per cent over the $11,586,000 paid in dividends last year.

Investors Stock Fund

A regular fourth quarter dividend of 11½ cents a share and a year-end capital gain of 29 cents a share were declared by the board of directors of Investors Stock Fund, Inc.

The total dollar amount of the current dividend is $14,272,000.

The 1971 fourth quarter dividend of 13 cents per share resulted in a distribution of $16,244,000.

The total dollar amount of the 1972 year-end capital gains distribution is $35,989,000, compared with $19,368,000 distributed at the end of 1971.

Business Today

by LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sooner or later the cost of preventing airline hijackings could force a substantial surcharge on air fares, according to industry leaders.

Both Paul R. Ignatius, executive vice president of the Air Transport Association, and Pres. Edward E. Carlson of United Air Lines recently criticized President Nixon and Congress sharply for the decision to phase out 1,100 federal officers involved in anti-hijacking activities.

Carlson claimed in a speech in Honolulu that the airlines are spending as much as they can on security. He said United spent $2 million last year.

Asked why the Air Transport Association believed the federal government should bear the cost of airport security and hijacking prevention instead of the airlines and local authorities, an ATA spokesman said it was a matter of money and of the practical impossibility of getting local airport authorities to take effective measures.

AGREEING THAT President Nixon might have a point in his view that financing hijacking protection was not primarily the province of the federal government, the spokesman said that could lead to fare surcharges to finance security measures.

A similar view was expressed by a security expert, Ira A. Lipman, president of Guardsmark, Inc., of New York.

"After all," asked Lipman, "why should taxpayers who choose not to ride the airlines be required to pay for anti-hijacking measures?"

Lipman said hijacking "is going to be a continuing thing" and improved measures against it must be set up at airports. It is obvious, he said, that the main factor permitting hijackings is the willingness of Cuba and some Arab lands to give asylum to hijackers. This is beyond U.S. control.

The ATA spokesman said another factor is the unwillingness so far of all concerned to admit there comes a time when the principle of law enforcement becomes more important than human lives. "I think there's a growing realization that we're going to have to face up to this and take more risks in subduing hijackers," he said.

LIPMAN AGREED with this but said much can be done to thwart hijackers at the airports if sufficient determination, money and men are made available. He outlined more than a dozen ways in which professional security experts could make it difficult for hijackers to get aboard airliners.

Lipman favors lots of armed guards on duty around the clock at airports.

He also favors a sophisticated system of identity cards for all airline and airport personnel and for passengers who fly frequently.

Next, he favors the widespread use of closed circuit television cameras at all landing ramps. Everyone leaving or boarding a plane would be visible on a screen at the airport security office. This equipment should be elaborate, he said. It would cover every portion of the plane, including its interior, and should include zoom lenses for getting close-ups of suspicious persons.

He also urged routine use of metal detectors and compulsory search of all passengers' persons and of carry-on and checked luggage for weapons.

Finally, he said, lighting systems should be expanded so hijackers could not take advantage of the dark to sneak into airports.

ITT Sales, Profits Peak For Quarter

International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., reported sales and earnings for the third quarter and first nine months of 1972 were the highest for any comparable period in the company's history.

Harold S. Geneen, chairman and president, reported that total sales and revenues of ITT and its worldwide subsidiaries rose to a record $2 billion in the third quarter of this year, an increase of 11 per cent over sales of $1.8 billion for the same period a year ago. For the first nine months of this year sales and revenues amounted to $6 billion, compared with $5.3 billion for the same period last year.

Consolidated income for the third quarter amounted to $111.9 million a gain of 11 per cent over the $100.4 million in the like 1971 period.

Earnings per equivalent common share in the third quarter were equal to 91 cents, a gain of 11 per cent over the 82 cents a share a year ago.

Consolidated income for the first nine months of 1972, before extraordinary items, totaled $327.3 million, up 12 per cent over the $292.7 million for the same period last year. Per share earnings for the first nine months before the extraordinary items were $2.65, compared with $2.40 for the like period of 1971, a gain of 10.4 per cent.

Income from "continuing" operations for the third quarter of 1972 increased to $107.1 million, from $84.9 million (respectively 87 cents and 70 cents a share.)

The gain reflected the continuing strong financial results of ITT's business and financial service activities, including Hartford Fire Insurance, and the strong demand for telecommunications equipment. The third quarter was favorably affected by a $3.8 million investment tax credit and profits on the sale of two Sheraton Hotels for $6.5 million. These were partially offset by losses of about $2.5 million from strike actions, and lower earnings from food products, the Puerto Rico Telephone Co. and Grinnell activities.

Dividend News

Richardson Company

The Richardson Co. reported sales from continuing operations of $29,146,000 for the third quarter of 1972, up 12.1 per cent from $25,994,000 a year earlier. Net earnings of $738,000 were up 92 per cent from the $393,000 in 1971. After provision for preferred dividends, earnings per share were 30 cents compared with nine cents in 1971.

For the nine months, net sales from continuing operations of $87,814,000 in 1972 compare favorably with the $77,241,000 of 1971. Net earnings for the 1972 period were $2,289,000, up 45.4 per cent from the $1,574,000 figure for 1971. After provision for preferred dividends, earnings were 96 cents a share, compared with 50 cents a share last year.

Union Oil Co.

Union Oil Co. of California net earnings for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, were $31.4 million, an increase of 14 per cent over the $27.6 million earned during the third quarter of 1971.

Net earnings per average common share outstanding for the three months were 89 cents in 1972 and 76 cents in 1971. On a fully diluted basis the per-share earnings were 77 cents in 1972 and 67 cents in 1971.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, net earnings increased six per cent to $89.1 million compared to $84.2 million in the same 1971 period.

Combined Insurance

Combined Insurance Co. of America reported record sales and profits for the first nine months of 1972.

The company also declared an extra cash dividend of six cents a share, the maximum permitted under Price Commission guidelines.

The company's total cash dividend payout this year will be $12,049,000, an increase of 4 per cent over the $11,586,000 paid in dividends last year.

Investors Stock Fund

A regular fourth quarter dividend of 11½ cents a share and a year-end capital gain of 29 cents a share were declared by the board of directors of Investors Stock Fund, Inc.

The total dollar amount of the current dividend is $14,272,000.

The 1971 fourth quarter dividend of 13 cents per share resulted in a distribution of $16,244,000.

The total dollar amount of the 1972 year-end capital gains distribution is $35,989,000, compared with $19,368,000 distributed at the end of 1971.

DISCUSSING HOW to challenge Hersey's defenses with quarterback Jeff Stewart over drinks and dinner would have been impossible last Thursday.

Talking about whether a zone or man-to-man coverage would be used by Elk Grove with end Marty Friel over a few beers would have been out of the question.

You just don't take high school athletes in bars and night clubs.

If they were professionals, this could have been done. That's what the Monday Night Football boys — Howard, Don and Frank — do each week. A few glasses of booze and the pros open up a little.

During lulls in the game, they toss out timely bits of trivia which often prove refreshing.

That was just one thing I didn't have going for me Friday night as I replaced my boss, Sports Editor Bob Frisk, as a football "color man" on WWMM-FM. Being Sportscaster Dick Thomas' sidekick for two hours doesn't seem too tough, right? You just explain each play, right?

Wrong!

My first assignment was JUST the biggest game of the season — the Super Bowl. Playing for the Mid-Suburban League championship were Hersey and Elk Grove, the latter being highly ranked in the state and holder of a perfect record.

Both teams had explosive offenses. My binoculars had to always be ready for the big play.

Then there was the mud. Although it held the score down (9-0), it also obliterated uniforms to the point where it was hard to tell not only who a player was but what team he played for.

Finally, I didn't go into the game 100 per cent. It was more like 66 per cent. I was nearly sidelined by a sore throat and head cold. They weren't bad enough to keep me at home in bed, but they bugged me just enough to make it a disastrous debut.

I spent the early part of the week gulping medicine and throat lozenges while compiling information on each team. Friday was cramming day — reviewing my notes and popping more pills.

Several times during the day my wife asked me what I wanted, but I wasn't speaking to her. Instead, I was saying such things as, "No. 75 . . . Rich O'Leary . . . 6-6, 255-pound senior left end on defense and left tackle on offense."

She thought I was crazy.

If I really wanted to be cool like Cosell, I could have looked up where the players attended grade school. Then I could have fired out over the airways ala Howard, "No. 15 . . . Jeff Stewart . . . Out of Queen of the Rosary Grade School in Elk Grove Village. . ."

Thinking I was well prepared and laden with notes, I arrived at the Hersey field. From my press box perch I had a fine view of the quagmire field. The binoculars tested out fine as I settled down on my stool. It was only 7:30.

I began wishing my boss hadn't been called out of town as the seconds slowly ticked off . . . 7:35 . . . 7:38 . . . 7:42 .

Then came the word from the station that it was time — 7:55 That's when things got really tense.

While Thomas gave the usual pregame information, I tried to keep my body warm and my voice in shape. For five minutes I didn't talk to anybody. I just kept clearing my very dry throat and blowing my nose as a sort of pre-interview exercise.

When he finally aimed the microphone my way to ask me a question, the ultimate embarrassment occurred — my voice cracked. And it happened when I was explaining my ailments.

If my five-year-old daughter's reaction to the squeak was anything like the rest of the listeners, it must have been good for a laugh.

Another blow to my pride came shortly after. Thomas didn't see who won the toss, so I explained to both him and the listeners. However, I got mixed up on directions and said Hersey would be defending the south goal instead of the north.

My final major mistake came in the first half. I feared Hersey on offense because three of the four players in the backfield were named Mark and the primary receiver was named Marty. After a pass from Mark Zakula to Marty Friel went incomplete, I transposed first names. Although I quickly corrected the goof, the rest of the game was always tense when Hersey was in a passing situation.

As far as funny things happening, they didn't. It was a sobering experience. Something like walking into the front room in your underwear to shockingly find the neighbor lady sitting there.

Filling in as a "color man" is okay once in a while, but there's one thing I miss. When you're writing about a game and make a mistake, you can "X" it out. When you squeak out a line over the air, you can only grit your teeth. . .

. . . But don't do it too loud.

Sports Car Club To Meet Nov. 22

On Wednesday, Nov. 22, Chicagoland Sports Car Club will hold its monthly meeting at the Seven Oaks Restaurant, 7501 W. Roosevelt, at 8:00 p.m.

Nominations for the board and members of the year are open. The annual banquet will be discussed, as well as plans for another rallye.

Membership applications are available and there may be some movies and giveaways.

Cardinals Weren't Opportunists

Some Odd Results In Even Season

by KEITH REINHARD

It was an even year that turned out a little odd.

Arlington went into the 1972 football campaign with an amazing ability to perform like champions in even numbered years. They had not, in fact, lost a ball game after 1964 and were quite naturally projected as conference winners for the '72 season as well.

Things didn't quite work out that way however. As Cardinal helmsman Bob Walther commented, "Perhaps the kids believed the pre-season ratings and didn't feel they needed to put that much effort into substantiating them. At any rate, we didn't make our own breaks this year. We weren't the opportunists we should have been and as a result we didn't come up to some people's expectations."

Arlington did play winning football this fall. They finished 5-3 overall and were among a knot of teams in contention for the North Division crown most of the Mid-Suburban League season.

The Redbirds were also the best overall defensive club in the entire 12-team circuit according to statistics. Their average yield of 140.4 yards per contest places them seventh on the league's all-time list of outstanding defensive units as well.

But unbeaten again in another even year Arlington was not.

"We really weren't that far away from it though," noted the Card mentor. "We lost those three games by a total of 17 points and I felt that we played well enough to win a couple of them."

Only against Fremd, which served up a 10-0 setback that was Arlington's first shutout loss in three years, did Walther concede that his team had been outplayed. "There again though we didn't make the breaks that might have turned things around. We were beaten but never actually overpowered."

If the key to Cardinal success was defense, the key to the team's defense was with tackles Dave Kubik and Greg Hauptly and end Doug Everhart who, not coincidentally were tagged for all-conference honors along with fiery halfback Bob Harth.

"We had a number of other talented performers but these four kids emerged a little in front probably on the strength of their consistency more than anything else," Walther pointed out. "They were all great on enthusiasm too."

Unfortunately this quartet along with John Norton and Steve Frankovic, the ninth and eleventh best rushers in the conference, standout receiver Dave Sherrow and a raft of others will be missing from the roster next autumn and the coach sees a little rebuilding work ahead during the up-coming odd numbered year.

"Putting together a line will be one of our major jobs in 1973. We're losing a number of key personnel up front and I'm not certain yet just what we've got to fill in there."

A couple of certainties are veteran junior linemen Chris Johnstin and Pat Hourigan. End Jeff Cleveland and guard Mike DeMarr are also underclassmen who've gained solid varsity experience this year and could help anchor down that forward wall along with center Jim Stanczak, who was up with the main team as a sophomore and is rated by Walther to eventually become one of the league's outstanding linemen.

Another darkhorse candidate for future standout conference billing according to the coach, is end Doug Betters. "He stands about 6-4 now, goes at around 225 pounds and has really started to hit. By next year he could blossom into something great."

As far as the backfield goes, Arlington will have quarterback Ward Schell returning, a little more mature and experienced, to direct the attack. Around him Walther can groom such potential offensive threats as Scotty Bittner and sophomore John Yeazel.

Perhaps with all these prospects in tow the Arlington pilot can change another facet of the school's football program around.

Now that the Card string of unbeaten seasons in even years has been snapped, he can come up with one of them in an odd numbered year, like 1973.

DISCUSSING HOW to challenge Hersey's defenses with quarterback Jeff Stewart over drinks and dinner would have been impossible last Thursday.

Talking about whether a zone or man-to-man coverage would be used by Elk Grove with end Marty Friel over a few beers would have been out of the question.

You just don't take high school athletes in bars and night clubs.

If they were professionals, this could have been done. That's what the Monday Night Football boys — Howard, Don and Frank — do each week. A few glasses of booze and the pros open up a little.

During lulls in the game, they toss out timely bits of trivia which often prove refreshing.

That was just one thing I didn't have going for me Friday night as I replaced my boss, Sports Editor Bob Frisk, as a football "color man" on WWMM-FM. Being Sportscaster Dick Thomas' sidekick for two hours doesn't seem too tough, right? You just explain each play, right?

Wrong!

My first assignment was JUST the biggest game of the season — the Super Bowl. Playing for the Mid-Suburban League championship were Hersey and Elk Grove, the latter being highly ranked in the state and holder of a perfect record.

Both teams had explosive offenses. My binoculars had to always be ready for the big play.

Then there was the mud. Although it held the score down (9-0), it also obliterated uniforms to the point where it was hard to tell not only who a player was but what team he played for.

Finally, I didn't go into the game 100 per cent. It was more like 66 per cent. I was nearly sidelined by a sore throat and head cold. They weren't bad enough to keep me at home in bed, but they bugged me just enough to make it a disastrous debut.

I spent the early part of the week gulping medicine and throat lozenges while compiling information on each team. Friday was cramming day — reviewing my notes and popping more pills.

Several times during the day my wife asked me what I wanted, but I wasn't speaking to her. Instead, I was saying such things as, "No. 75 . . . Rich O'Leary . . . 6-6, 255-pound senior left end on defense and left tackle on offense."

She thought I was crazy.

If I really wanted to be cool like Cosell, I could have looked up where the players attended grade school. Then I could have fired out over the airways ala Howard, "No. 15 . . . Jeff Stewart . . . Out of Queen of the Rosary Grade School in Elk Grove Village. . ."

Thinking I was well prepared and laden with notes, I arrived at the Hersey field. From my press box perch I had a fine view of the quagmire field. The binoculars tested out fine as I settled down on my stool. It was only 7:30.

I began wishing my boss hadn't been called out of town as the seconds slowly ticked off . . . 7:35 . . . 7:38 . . . 7:42 .

Then came the word from the station that it was time — 7:55 That's when things got really tense.

While Thomas gave the usual pre-game information, I tried to keep my body warm and my voice in shape. For five minutes I didn't talk to anybody. I just kept clearing my very dry throat and blowing my nose as a sort of pre-interview exercise.

When he finally aimed the microphone my way to ask me a question, the ultimate embarrassment occurred — my voice cracked. And it happened when I was explaining my ailments.

If my five-year-old daughter's reaction to the squeak was anything like the rest of the listeners, it must have been good for a laugh.

Another blow to my pride came shortly after. Thomas didn't see who won the toss, so I explained to both him and the listeners. However, I got mixed up on directions and said Hersey would be defending the south goal instead of the north.

My final major mistake came in the first half. I feared Hersey on offense because three of the four players in the backfield were named Mark and the primary receiver was named Marty. After a pass from Mark Zakula to Marty Friel went incomplete, I transposed first names. Although I quickly corrected the goof, the rest of the game was always tense when Hersey was in a passing situation.

As far as funny things happening, they didn't. It was a sobering experience. Something like walking into the front room in your underwear to shockingly find the neighbor lady sitting there.

Filling in as a "color man" is okay once in a while, but there's one thing I miss. When you're writing about a game and make a mistake, you can "X" it out. When you squeak out a line over the air, you can only grit your teeth. . .

. . . But don't do it too loud.

Sports Car Club To Meet Nov. 22

On Wednesday, Nov. 22, Chicagoland Sports Car Club will hold its monthly meeting at the Seven Oaks Restaurant, 7501 W. Roosevelt, at 8:00 p.m.

Nominations for the board and members of the year are open. The annual banquet will be discussed, as well as plans for another rallye.

Membership applications are available and there may be some movies and giveaways.

Evanston won this game, 2-1. Among area entries Rolling Meadows and Palatine triumphed and St. Viator played to a tie.

Saxons Lacked Size—And Numbers

by LARRY EVERHART

Most losing teams hate to make excuses, but when there are legitmate ones Schaumburg won only two of eight games this season on the gridiron, but it wasn't for lack of effort. It was more due to lack of size, lack of numbers and too many wounded bodies.

As valid as these reasons are, they were meaningless to the Saxons because they still did not put any more games on the win side of the ledger. However, it is very few teams that can get through a season with the enormous handicaps Schaumburg had to contend with, survive all the injuries and still win a majority of games. Unfortunately, District 211's newest school was not an exception this year.

The only bright spots came in games one and four, when the Saxons pulled out a pair of pulsating victories — 32-27 over McHenry and 24-21 over Conant. Otherwise . . . well, the sooner forgotten, the better.

This was only the second season of varsity ball for this relatively new school and the growing pains are still there. Coach Bob Ferguson faced a mammoth challenge when he greeted barely 30 varsity candidates. And that wasn't the real bite. Most of them weighed no more than 180; many a lot less.

Still, the Saxons were able to shrug off the shortage of bodies and pounds . . . that is, until the injury plague hit. There followed times when the training area of the locker room resembled an emergency ward in a hospital.

Being no alibi-maker, though, Fergjson never said too much about the wounds — until after the season.

"It was not only the injuries themselves that hurt us," said the head man. "It was the fact that the kids started thinking about them too much instead of forgetting it and playing football.

"Sure, we had a lot of guys out at different times but I got tired of them dwelling on it. It does no good to make excuses. But now that the season's over, I'd have to say it was a terrible year for injuries."

He still liked the attitude of his squad. "They were spirited in practice and games most of the time, or at least seemed like it," he remarked.

If Ferguson had the season to do over, there's not much he could or would change. "I think we got about everything we could out of them potential-wise," he said. "We were fighting a real size disadvantage. We realized our inadequacies."

He felt that key games included losses to Glenbard North, 7-0 ("We outplayed them but gave it away on fumbles") and a 5-0 heartbreaker to Rolling Meadows ("that one could have gone either way"). He didn't feel too bad about the one-sided losses to Elk Grove and Forest View because "we knew all along that they were just too good for us."

On the bright side, he said, "The games we did win gave us a great feeling. We came from behind against McHenry and the one we really wanted was the arch-rivalry game against Conant. That one we got."

Unfortunately after that big win, Ferguson said the Saxons "were too relaxed and went flat. We lost our next couple and that killed our goal of a .500 season."

There were no individuals ranking high in the league statistically. Team leaders were Andy Jones and Wayne Morgan in rushing yardage, Bob Cummings in receiving and quarterback Dave Hill, who in spots looked promising in running an option offense. Hill, only a junior, should pose a solid running and passing threat next year.

Defensively, Ferguson singled out a pair of departing seniors for outstanding play — back Bob Nomellini and tackle Brian Wicklund. He also said Ken Jaffke showed much potential in the line despite being only a sophomore and being out with injuries about half the season.

Other promising personnel expected back next year are tackle Dave Landacker, linebacker Joe Calabrea and center Dave Motisi.

"We'll have seven starters back and plenty of help from the younger squads," said Ferguson. "Our underlevels are starting to win now which they were not in the past. Our freshman team won the South Division title. In a few seasons we'll be known.

"Our program is developing down the line. This year we had 67 freshmen out as opposed to 30-some last year.

"Look at it this way. Elk Grove only won two games in their second year and didn't win any their third year. Now look what they've done the last years 15 straight games and two straight league championships).

"And look at Forest View. They're well-established now but it took them a lot of time too. This is their 11th year and they just broke .500 overall (since the school opened).

"I'm not taking anything away from those schools, but they show that you don't reach success instantly. We still feel good about our program here."

That's the first step. Now . . . a few more 200-pounders and a few less injuries and Schaumburg football will be in business.

IT'S OVER THERE. Players from Evanston and Prosser high schools hit the ice and watch puck slide away in opening action Sunday of the Chicago Metropolitan High School Hockey League at the Arlington Ice Spectrum. Evanston won this game, 2-1. Among area entries Rolling Meadows and Palatine triumphed and St. Viator played to a tie.

Saxons Lacked Size—And Numbers

by LARRY EVERHART

Most losing teams hate to make excuses, but when there are legitmate ones Schaumburg won only two of eight games this season on the gridiron, but it wasn't for lack of effort. It was more due to lack of size, lack of numbers and too many wounded bodies.

As valid as these reasons are, they were meaningless to the Saxons because they still did not put any more games on the win side of the ledger. However, it is very few teams that can get through a season with the enormous handicaps Schaumburg had to contend with, survive all the injuries and still win a majority of games. Unfortunately, District 211's newest school was not an exception this year.

The only bright spots came in games one and four, when the Saxons pulled out a pair of pulsating victories — 32-27 over McHenry and 24-21 over Conant. Otherwise . . . well, the sooner forgotten, the better.

This was only the second season of varsity ball for this relatively new school and the growing pains are still there. Coach Bob Ferguson faced a mammoth challenge when he greeted barely 30 varsity candidates. And that wasn't the real bite. Most of them weighed no more than 180; many a lot less.

Still, the Saxons were able to shrug off the shortage of bodies and pounds . . . that is, until the injury plague hit. There followed times when the training area of the locker room resembled an emergency ward in a hospital.

Being no alibi-maker, though, Fergjson never said too much about the wounds — until after the season.

"It was not only the injuries themselves that hurt us," said the head man. "It was the fact that the kids started thinking about them too much instead of forgetting it and playing football.

"Sure, we had a lot of guys out at different times but I got tired of them dwelling on it. It does no good to make excuses. But now that the season's over, I'd have to say it was a terrible year for injuries."

He still liked the attitude of his squad. "They were spirited in practice and games most of the time, or at least seemed like it," he remarked.

If Ferguson had the season to do over, there's not much he could or would change. "I think we got about everything we could out of them potential-wise," he said. "We were fighting a real size disadvantage. We realized our inadequacies."

He felt that key games included losses to Glenbard North, 7-0 ("We outplayed them but gave it away on fumbles") and a 5-0 heartbreaker to Rolling Meadows ("that one could have gone either way"). He didn't feel too bad about the one-sided losses to Elk Grove and Forest View because "we knew all along that they were just too good for us."

On the bright side, he said, "The games we did win gave us a great feeling. We came from behind against McHenry and the one we really wanted was the arch-rivalry game against Conant. That one we got."

Unfortunately after that big win, Ferguson said the Saxons "were too relaxed and went flat. We lost our next couple and that killed our goal of a .500 season."

There were no individuals ranking high in the league statistically. Team leaders were Andy Jones and Wayne Morgan in rushing yardage, Bob Cummings in receiving and quarterback Dave Hill, who in spots looked promising in running an option offense. Hill, only a junior, should pose a solid running and passing threat next year.

Defensively, Ferguson singled out a pair of departing seniors for outstanding play — back Bob Nomellini and tackle Brian Wicklund. He also said Ken Jaffke showed much potential in the line despite being only a sophomore and being out with injuries about half the season.

Other promising personnel expected back next year are tackle Dave Landacker, linebacker Joe Calabrea and center Dave Motisi.

"We'll have seven starters back and plenty of help from the younger squads," said Ferguson. "Our underlevels are starting to win now which they were not in the past. Our freshman team won the South Division title. In a few seasons we'll be known.

"Our program is developing down the line. This year we had 67 freshmen out as opposed to 30-some last year.

"Look at it this way. Elk Grove only won two games in their second year and didn't win any their third year. Now look what they've done the last years 15 straight games and two straight league championships).

"And look at Forest View. They're well-established now but it took them a lot of time too. This is their 11th year and they just broke .500 overall (since the school opened).

"I'm not taking anything away from those schools, but they show that you don't reach success instantly. We still feel good about our program here."

That's the first step. Now . . . a few more 200-pounders and a few less injuries and Schaumburg football will be in business.

Rolling Meadows 'Far Exceeded Expectations'

'We're Here To Stay' Says A Proud Coach

by JIM COOK

"This team far exceeded my wildest expectations," Rolling Meadows head coach Angelo Barro said about the Mustangs' first varsity football team ever.

"I'm glad these boys laid such a deep foundation, because now our team next year has something to shoot for and pass," he added.

Barro was justified in saving a special niche in his highly successful 15-year coaching career for the 1972 Mustangs. Rolling Meadows more than held its own against what Barro called "the toughest and most balanced league I've ever seen."

Meadows jumped off to a remarkable 3-0 record and gained immediate acclaim for blanking its first three victims — Maine North (17-0), Schaumburg (5-0) and Prospect (12-0).

Then came the "turning point in our season," according to Barro. The Mustangs battled a bigger Palatine squad ("we were smaller than every club we played") to a virtual standstill before yielding, 14-13.

"That one-point loss was the heartbreaker of the season," Barro said. "I'm not trying to make excuses, but you give us that Palatine game back and we'll turn the whole season around."

The Pirates wouldn't renege and it was entirely up to the Mustangs to pull themselves off the floor from the shock of the season's first defeat.

Patting the shield that reads "Mustang Pride" and hangs obtrusively on the wall near the door of the lockerroom, Meadows reorganized a week later and contributed to Wheeling's winless conference record, 10-7.

A blocked punt within the final four minutes of play against Arlington produced only Meadows' second setback of the campaign, 14-7.

"We were just eight points from going up against Hersey with a 6-0 record," Barro lamented. As it was, the Mustangs were an impressive 4-2, but Hersey was about the only one who wasn't impressed.

The Huskies blanked Meadows, 27-0, discouraging Barro & Co. from making further Super Bowl plans. "To be in contention for six games was more than I could have asked these kids," the Mustang coach said, "And don't forget, we were picked to finish last in our division."

Fremd's 23-0 triumph leveled Rolling Meadows' record at 4-4 and prompted Barro to say, "You know, we had to be sky high for every one of our games. There was no breather for us at all. The pressure was on us to win our first varsity game against Maine North and on us through our game with Fremd which would have given us a winning season."

Individually, Barro poured praise on every player who donned a purple and white jersey. Special mention was heaped on all-conference and potential all-state linebacker Jack Lloyd who registered a whopping 117 tackles on the year, three interceptions and a blocke punt.

Also nominated to the all-league squad were center Jim Harrington and fullback-noseman Don Bobac while near misses included quarterback Bill Geegan and defensive ends Jim Freres and George Kocian.

"I can't ever remember a fall that was this wet," Barro said. "I think it particularly hurt our team because we relied on speed and quickness and we lost some of it in the mud.

"The fact that we didn't have the ability to throw as often as we would have liked probably hurt us too," Barro continued. "It seemed like everybody we played came prepared to stop our triple option and specifically Bill Geegan."

That was part of the reason Meadows was only able to put seven touchdowns on the board with Pat Geegan and Joe Brightwell leading the way with two apiece.

Placekicker Stan Hilty earned the team's scoring honors with six conversions and four field goals for 18 points.

Defensively, Meadows, or the Apaches as they were appropriately called since their faces were painted prior to each ball game, finished a strong third in the entire league against stopping both the rush and pass.

"I can't say for sure that the Apaches will carry over to next year," Barro said. "Our defense will have to earn it, just like these kids did."

Returning for the Mustangs in 1973 will be some key players in key positions. Pat Geegan and Mike Anderson are back as are two-way performer Brian Wiebe, Steve Breitbeil, Lance Pressl, John Verdico, Jim Wa[illegible]wo, Ed Lachner, injured Gary Olson, [illegible]ll Ventura, Don Schmidt, Bill Stutzman, Chuck Peters, Keith Goeske, Greg Rubinkowski and Dave Thorstensen.

"And we had our sophomores go 3-3-2 with their four best players on the junior varsity and varsity levels," Barro reminded. "We're here to stay."

Pro-Am Sunday To Kick Off $85,000 Brunswick Tourney

The second annual $85,000 Brunswick World Open at Northern Bowl in west suburban Glendale Heights kicks off this Sunday with the Pro-Am event.

The world's top bowlers, including the ten leading money winners on the professional bowler's tour, will be in the Pro-Am with squad times set for 2:30, 4:30, 7, 9 and 11 p.m.

Bowlers participating in the Pro-Am receive a handicap of two-thirds of 200 and bowl three games, each with a different pro. Their final scores are based on their three-game totals, plus handicap, and the scratch scores of the three pros. The Pro-Am is open to both men and women, who will be shooting for a $1,000 first prize.

The entry fee for the Pro-Am is $50 and each participant receives a new Brunswick 8583 bowling ball which has a retail value of $50.00.

Last minute entries can be obtained at Brunswick Northern Bowl, 558 E. North Ave., Glendale Hts., 858-1300, or by calling Tournament Director Nick Hondros at 982-6000, Ext. 6156 or 469-8834.

The Celebrity squad is scheduled for 7 p.m. Among the sports stars, newsmen, civic and bowling officials scheduled to bowl are Milt Pappas, Chicago Cub pitcher of no-hit fame; George Mikan, former pro basketball star; sportswriters Dick Dozer and Jim Fitzgerald of the Chicago Tribune; Jim Cook of Paddock Publications; and many more.

Action in the pro portion begins on Monday, Nov. 20, when the 192 bowlers, including 15 foreign champions, will begin bowling qualifying games.

Each of the pros will bowl 24 qualifying games over three days when the field will be cut to the top 64. On Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 23), they will bowl eight more games and the field will be cut to the 24-man finals.

St. Joseph Cage Report

The Chargers of St. Joseph the Worker made it a clean sweep with three victories on all levels against St. Emily of Mount Prospect.

The sixth-game team won a hard-fought non-conference game, 31-28, for their second win in as many games. Leading the way were Dave Glueck with 12 points and Marty Schuetz with nine.

The seventh grade, coming off a 22-4 record last year as sixth graders, opened with an easy 47-21 rout over St. Emily. The Charger defense held St. Emily to 11 points for three quarters. Jim Kennedy and Scott Steiner led a balanced scoring attack with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

The Charger varsity won its second game without a loss with a close 43-36 victory. Brian Bergrowicz turned in another of his typical impressive performances with 25 points scored and domination of the boards at both ends of the court. Brian has 46 points in his first two games.

The seventh grade team later joined the other two St. Joseph squads in making their record 2-0 with a 44-20 conquest of St. Catherine of Dundee. Jim Lockefeer led the scoring with 23 points.

The varsity also added a third win, 45-36 over St. Catherine. This time the Chargers had to do without Begrowicz, who was out with the flu. Lockefeer led a balanced offense with 12 points, Mark Lyne had 10 and Scott Mulford eight.

The sixth-grade team did not play against St. Catherine.

Rolling Meadows 'Far Exceeded Expectations'

'We're Here To Stay' Says A Proud Coach

by JIM COOK

"This team far exceeded my wildest expectations," Rolling Meadows head coach Angelo Barro said about the Mustangs' first varsity football team ever.

"I'm glad these boys laid such a deep foundation, because now our team next year has something to shoot for and pass," he added.

Barro was justified in saving a special niche in his highly successful 15-year coaching career for the 1972 Mustangs. Rolling Meadows more than held its own against what Barro called "the toughest and most balanced league I've ever seen."

Meadows jumped off to a remarkable 3-0 record and gained immediate acclaim for blanking its first three victims — Maine North (17-0), Schaumburg (5-0) and Prospect (12-0).

Then came the "turning point in our season," according to Barro. The Mustangs battled a bigger Palatine squad ("we were smaller than every club we played") to a virtual standstill before yielding, 14-13.

"That one-point loss was the heartbreaker of the season," Barro said. "I'm not trying to make excuses, but you give us that Palatine game back and we'll turn the whole season around."

The Pirates wouldn't renege and it was entirely up to the Mustangs to pull themselves off the floor from the shock of the season's first defeat.

Patting the shield that reads "Mustang Pride" and hangs obtrusively on the wall near the door of the lockerroom, Meadows reorganized a week later and contributed to Wheeling's winless conference record, 10-7.

A blocked punt within the final four minutes of play against Arlington produced only Meadows' second setback of the campaign, 14-7.

Pro-Am Sunday To Kick Off $85,000 Brunswick Tourney

The second annual $85,000 Brunswick World Open at Northern Bowl in west suburban Glendale Heights kicks off this Sunday with the Pro-Am event.

The world's top bowlers, including the ten leading money winners on the professional bowler's tour, will be in the Pro-Am with squad times set for 2:30, 4:30, 7, 9 and 11 p.m.

Bowlers participating in the Pro-Am receive a handicap of two-thirds of 200 and bowl three games, each with a different pro. Their final scores are based on their three-game totals, plus handicap, and the scratch scores of the three pros. The Pro-Am is open to both men and women, who will be shooting for a $1,000 first prize.

The entry fee for the Pro-Am is $50 and each participant receives a new Brunswick 8583 bowling ball which has a retail value of $50.00.

Last minute entries can be obtained at Brunswick Northern Bowl, 558 E. North Ave., Glendale Hts., 858-1300, or by calling Tournament Director Nick Hondros at 982-6000, Ext. 6156 or 469-8834.

The Celebrity squad is scheduled for 7 p.m. Among the sports stars, newsmen, civic and bowling officials scheduled to bowl are Milt Pappas, Chicago Cub pitcher of no-hit fame; George Mikan, former pro basketball star; sportswriters Dick Dozer and Jim Fitzgerald of the Chicago Tribune; Jim Cook of Paddock Publications; and many more.

Action in the pro portion begins on Monday, Nov. 20, when the 192 bowlers, including 15 foreign champions, will begin bowling qualifying games.

Each of the pros will bowl 24 qualifying games over three days when the field will be cut to the top 64. On Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 23), they will bowl eight more games and the field will be cut to the 24-man finals.

St. Joseph Cage Report

The Chargers of St. Joseph the Worker made it a clean sweep with three victories on all levels against St. Emily of Mount Prospect.

The sixth-game team won a hard-fought non-conference game, 31-28, for their second win in as many games. Leading the way were Dave Glueck with 12 points and Marty Schuetz with nine.

The seventh grade, coming off a 22-4 record last year as sixth graders, opened with an easy 47-21 rout over St. Emily. The Charger defense held St. Emily to 11 points for three quarters. Jim Kennedy and Scott Steiner led a balanced scoring attack with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

The Charger varsity won its second game without a loss with a close 43-36 victory. Brian Bergrowicz turned in another of his typical impressive performances with 25 points scored and domination of the boards at both ends of the court. Brian has 46 points in his first two games.

The seventh grade team later joined the other two St. Joseph squads in making their record 2-0 with a 44-20 conquest of St. Catherine of Dundee. Jim Lockefeer led the scoring with 23 points.

The varsity also added a third win, 45-36 over St. Catherine. This time the Chargers had to do without Begrowicz, who was out with the flu. Lockefeer led a balanced offense with 12 points, Mark Lyne had 10 and Scott Mulford eight.

The sixth-grade team did not play against St. Catherine.

C&NW Acquires Eleven Diesel Locomotives For Its Suburban Service

Eleven diesel locomotives which formerly hauled transcontinental streamliners between Chicago and the West Coast have been acquired by the Chicago and North Western Transportation Co. for its suburban service.

Larry S. Provo, president of the employe-owned company, said the diesel units, each rated at 2,250 horsepower, will soon replace an equal number of 1,500 horsepower suburban locomotives. "The heavier power," he said, "will substantially strengthen our ability to maintain the high dependability and on-time performance of our suburban train fleet."

The locomotives were formerly operated in Union Pacific transcontinental streamliners and were purchased by the North Western when they became surplus after the takeover of intercity passenger operations by Amtrak. The locomotives are being processed through the North Western's shops in Oelwein, Iowa, where they will be overhauled and receive substantial modifications. All are scheduled to be in service in the first quarter of 1973.

Provo said the cost of the locomotives, including modifications, will be approximately $1,500,000. Purchased new, such locomotives would cost about $3,500,000.

Principal modifications the locomotives will receive include: installation of auxiliary power plants to provide electricity for heating, lighting and air conditioning of coaches; electrical equipment for remote control of the diesel units in push-pull operations; electronic speedometers; automatic train control and automatic train stop safety equipment; two-way radio equipment for instant communication between trains and between trains and dispatchers; North Western's standard flashing safety beacons and construction of new cabs for six of the locomotives.

The Spacious Multi-Level

For those who require maximum living space on minimum foundation, the multi-level has become the accepted answer for thousands of large, active families in the Northwest Suburban area.

Designed to accent liveable space, the multi-level features compact styling of room planning with minimized traffic pattern to allow for maximum living space. The spacious family room is planned as a connecting wing to the kitchen to offer double room atmosphere while it allows for the flowing convenience of the nearby kitchen, ideal for entertaining and family traffic flow.

The entire top level can be developed into 3, 4 or 5 bedrooms with adequate space arrangement for multi-baths and closets. The Multi-level exteriors vary and can be designed to reflect many architectural moods, from contemporary, to Cape Cod to Chalet styling and the unique roof line is well suited to the addition of gables and fireplace brickwork while lending itself graciously to colorful landscaping.

Baird & Warner Report Earnings

Baird & Warner Mortgage and Realty Investors (OTC), Chicago, reported recently at its annual meeting that preliminary figures for the quarter ended Oct. 31 show net earnings to be $410,000 or 48 cents per share, compared with $233,134 or 32 cents per share for the same quarter a year earlier.

Immediately before the annual meeting the trust's board of trustees declared an extra dividend of 14 cents per share for the fiscal year ended July 31, bringing total dividends for the year to $1.60 per share, and declared a first quarter dividend of 47 cents per share, payable on Dec. 15 to shareholders of record Nov. 14.

John W. Baird, president of the short-term mortgage and equity trust, told the meeting, held at the Northern Trust Bank, Chicago, that he expects the trust will "grow in volume and earnings in the year ahead" to exceed the net earnings of $1,332,841, or $1.66 per share, for the last fiscal year.

The preliminary earnings of 48 cents per share for the first quarter, he noted, are higher than the 32 cents per share reported for the first quarter a year ago. It also "compares favorably" with the 56 cents reported for the fourth quarter of last year, which included 10 cents reflecting certain year-end adjustments.

"During the first quarter, the trust's total amount of loan commitments grew by $6,524,000, and now stands at $80,074,000 compared to $47,072,000 at the end of the first quarter a year ago," he said.

Looking ahead to the climate of the construction loan market in coming months, Baird said he expects it to be more competitive than it has been up to now. He attributes this to the slowdown of apartment construction in the Chicago area and elsewhere in the Midwest coupled with the amount of new office space coming on the market, all dampening demand for construction loans.

While these factors are temporary, Baird said they emphasize the need for aggressive action to obtain additional loan commitments. In addition, the trust may find it expedient to make new equity investments during this period.

On the subject of what effect a change in the prime interest rate would have, Baird noted that the vast majority of the trust's loans are variable. If the prime rate changes, so will the interest rate on the loans outstanding, thus preserving the original spread.

Baird stressed the importance of regarding year-to-year upward trends in volume and earnings as the most important indicators of growth. With a solid foundation established during its first year, the trust expects to grow in volume and earnings in the year ahead, he said.

Relator Bob Love, manager of the new Hoffman Estates sales office of Continental Real Estate, Inc., has just announced the appointment of three sales associates.

Nick Chandler

Leo Vorlicky

Bob Zay

They are Bob Zay, Leo Vorlicky, and Nick Chandler. Bob Zay lives at 1805 Jamestown Circle in Hoffman Estates with his wife, Vicky, joins the new office staff following a year's experience in Continental's Rolling Meadows office. He is a native Chicagoan and an army veteran of the Korean war.

Vorlicky, an army veteran, who earned four battle stars in the South Pacific during World War II, has been a printer craftsman for more than thirty years. He is past president of Lodge Sionilli, the oldest fraternal order in the United States, and currently serves on the executive committee of American Legion Post 422.

Chandler, a native of the northwest suburbs, is a graduate of Northwestern University with a degree in education. For a number of years he has owned and operated a north shore restaurant.

The new Hoffman Estates office brings Continental's total in suburban Chicagoland to 21. Realtor Love said it was established at 150 W. Higgins Road (southern edge of Golf-Rose Shopping Center) to better serve the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area.

Eye Window Certification For Mobile Homeowners

The Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association (MHMA) is working on a window certification program with Associated Certification, Inc., Dallas, Tex., which will afford mobile homeowners greater protection inside their dwellings.

The window standard, developed by MHMA's standards subcommittee on windows, will guarantee stronger enforcement of The American National Standards Institute's A119.1 safety standard for mobile home construction. Manufacturers will be required to produce windows for mobile homes to specific standards.

"Agencies responsible for enforcing the A119.1 standard will now have another valuabel tool to use," said Henry Omson, director of the association's standards division. "This is a big boost to our inspection program," he added.

"All certified windows will display a label which can be clearly seen by a prospective homeowner when he or she visits a dealer lot to look at sample dwellings," said Omson.

The window certification program, recently gained momentum when ACI, Inc., a firm which manufactures and sells quality windows for mobile homes and factory-built housing, signed a contract with Associated Dallas Labs (ADL). The agreement established ADL as administrator of the certification program.

The program covers the testing and labeling of products which are certified to meet or exceed window standard requirements for mobile and factory built housing. MHMA-71, as outlined in A119.1.

John Orr, Hehr International, president of ACI, Inc., said the window certification program is open to all manufacturers of products which are required to meet the A119.1 standard for mobile and factory built housing. The window requiremente, known as MHMA 1-71, are also included in the National Fire Protection Agency (NFPA) 501-B.

The window certification program includes independent unannounced in plant inspections at least three times a year to assure continued compliance with the standard. According to Orr, seven corporations and 35 window plants have been given approval to test and label windows.

Electric Appliances Taken For Granted

Today's electric appliances are often taken for granted. That is, until the day when they balk, thump or grind to a halt. Then, too often, the housewife trying to dry some clothes or run the dishwasher runs to the phone and calls the appliance serviceman and issues a frantic cry for help.

Too often this call is unnecessary. Most performance problems result from minor cricks that the man of the house, or the homemaker, can fix.

It's a wise owner who learns how to care for that machine before a servicemen's cure is required.

All that's needed are the manufacturer's directions or the care and use booklet, and common sense; advises the Electric Energy Association.

However, like any complex equipment your washer, dryer, refrigerator or range may sometimes need the services of a skilled repairman. An automatic washer, for instance, will require about one service call in five years. When this occurs, you can find the name of a reliable repairman in the classified section of your phone book under "Appliances."

Baird & Warner Report Earnings

Baird & Warner Mortgage and Realty Investors (OTC), Chicago, reported recently at its annual meeting that preliminary figures for the quarter ended Oct. 31 show net earnings to be $410,000 or 48 cents per share, compared with $233,134 or 32 cents per share for the same quarter a year earlier.

Immediately before the annual meeting the trust's board of trustees declared an extra dividend of 14 cents per share for the fiscal year ended July 31, bringing total dividends for the year to $1.60 per share, and declared a first quarter dividend of 47 cents per share, payable on Dec. 15 to shareholders of record Nov. 14.

John W. Baird, president of the short-term mortgage and equity trust, told the meeting, held at the Northern Trust Bank, Chicago, that he expects the trust will "grow in volume and earnings in the year ahead" to exceed the net earnings of $1,332,841, or $1.66 per share, for the last fiscal year.

The preliminary earnings of 48 cents per share for the first quarter, he noted, are higher than the 32 cents per share reported for the first quarter a year ago. It also "compares favorably" with the 56 cents reported for the fourth quarter of last year, which included 10 cents reflecting certain year-end adjustments.

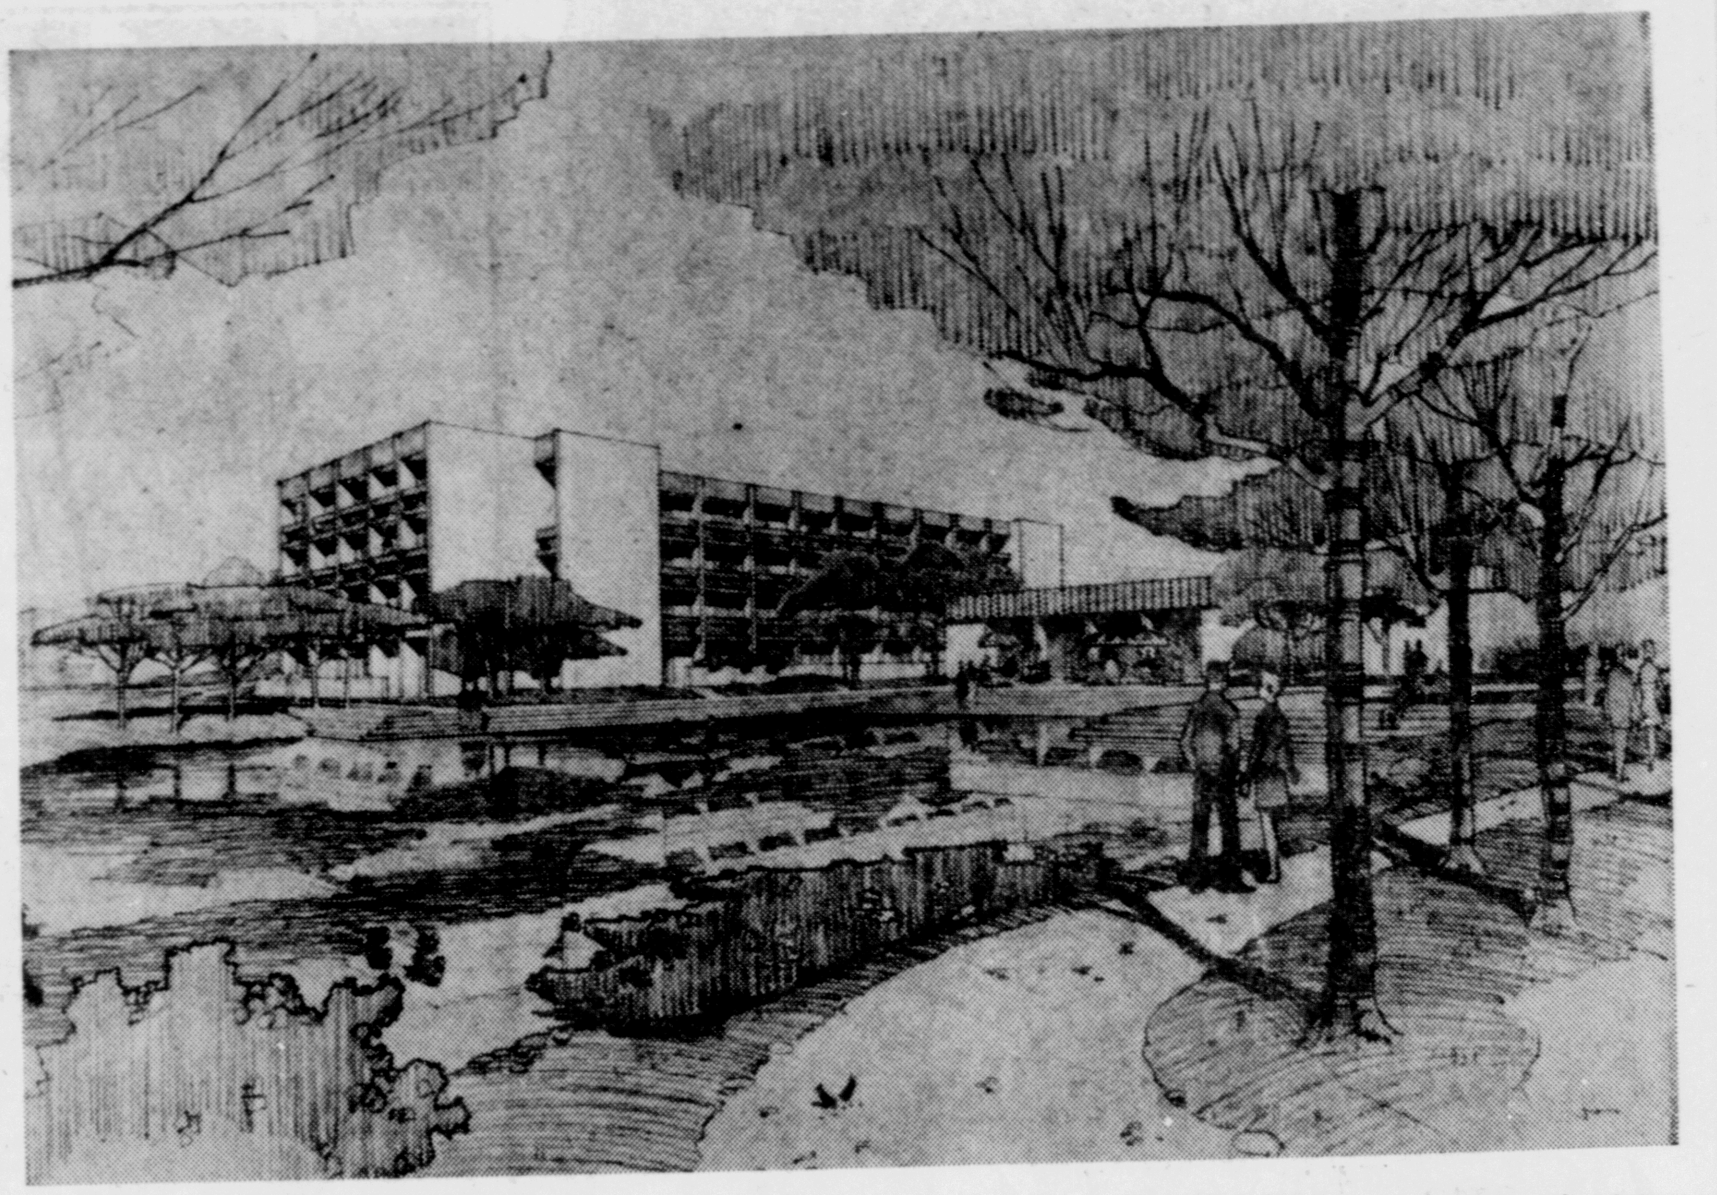
"During the first quarter, the trust's total amount of loan commitments grew by $6,524,000, and now stands at $80,074,000 compared to $47,072,000 at the end of the first quarter a year ago," he said.

Looking ahead to the climate of the construction loan market in coming months, Baird said he expects it to be more competitive than it has been up to now. He attributes this to the slowdown of apartment construction in the Chicago area and elsewhere in the Midwest coupled with the amount of new office space coming on the market, all dampening demand for construction loans.

While these factors are temporary, Baird said they emphasize the need for aggressive action to obtain additional loan commitments. In addition, the trust may find it expedient to make new equity investments during this period.

On the subject of what effect a change in the prime interest rate would have, Baird noted that the vast majority of the trust's loans are variable. If the prime rate changes, so will the interest rate on the loans outstanding, thus preserving the original spread.

Baird stressed the importance of regarding year-to-year upward trends in volume and earnings as the most important indicators of growth. With a solid foundation established during its first year, the trust expects to grow in volume and earnings in the year ahead, he said.



NEARING COMPLETION in Schaumburg, the Sheraton Walden Inn is shown above in artist's sketch. The 203-room facility is slated to open in mid-November. The $5 million project is a development of the Walden Investment Corp., Chicago. It is located near the intersection of Rt. 62 and Meacham Road A seafood restaurant will be featured at the hotel.

Continental Announces 3 Sales Appointments

Nick Chandler

Leo Vorlicky

Bob Zay

They are Bob Zay, Leo Vorlicky, and Nick Chandler. Bob Zay lives at 1805 Jamestown Circle in Hoffman Estates with his wife, Vicky, joins the new office staff following a year's experience in Continental's Rolling Meadows office. He is a native Chicagoan and an army veteran of the Korean war.

Vorlicky, an army veteran, who earned four battle stars in the South Pacific during World War II, has been a printer craftsman for more than thirty years. He is past president of Lodge Sionilli, the oldest fraternal order in the United States, and currently serves on the executive committee of American Legion Post 422.

Chandler, a native of the northwest suburbs, is a graduate of Northwestern University with a degree in education. For a number of years he has owned and operated a north shore restaurant.

The new Hoffman Estates office brings Continental's total in suburban Chicagoland to 21. Realtor Love said it was established at 150 W. Higgins Road (southern edge of Golf-Rose Shopping Center) to better serve the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area.

Eye Window Certification For Mobile Homeowners

The Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association (MHMA) is working on a window certification program with Associated Certification, Inc., Dallas, Tex., which will afford mobile homeowners greater protection inside their dwellings.

The window standard, developed by MHMA's standards subcommittee on windows, will guarantee stronger enforcement of The American National Standards Institute's A119.1 safety standard for mobile home construction. Manufacturers will be required to produce windows for mobile homes to specific standards.

"Agencies responsible for enforcing the A119.1 standard will now have another valuabel tool to use," said Henry Omson, director of the association's standards division. "This is a big boost to our inspection program," he added.

"All certified windows will display a label which can be clearly seen by a prospective homeowner when he or she visits a dealer lot to look at sample dwellings," said Omson.

The window certification program, recently gained momentum when ACI, Inc., a firm which manufactures and sells quality windows for mobile homes and factory-built housing, signed a contract with Associated Dallas Labs (ADL). The agreement established ADL as administrator of the certification program.

The program covers the testing and labeling of products which are certified to meet or exceed window standard requirements for mobile and factory built housing. MHMA-71, as outlined in A119.1.

John Orr, Hehr International, president of ACI, Inc., said the window certification program is open to all manufacturers of products which are required to meet the A119.1 standard for mobile and factory built housing. The window requiremente, known as MHMA 1-71, are also included in the National Fire Protection Agency (NFPA) 501-B.

The window certification program includes independent unannounced in plant inspections at least three times a year to assure continued compliance with the standard. According to Orr, seven corporations and 35 window plants have been given approval to test and label windows.

Electric Appliances Taken For Granted

Today's electric appliances are often taken for granted. That is, until the day when they balk, thump or grind to a halt. Then, too often, the housewife trying to dry some clothes or run the dishwasher runs to the phone and calls the appliance serviceman and issues a frantic cry for help.

Too often this call is unnecessary. Most performance problems result from minor cricks that the man of the house, or the homemaker, can fix.

It's a wise owner who learns how to care for that machine before a servicemen's cure is required.

All that's needed are the manufacturer's directions or the care and use booklet, and common sense; advises the Electric Energy Association.

However, like any complex equipment your washer, dryer, refrigerator or range may sometimes need the services of a skilled repairman. An automatic washer, for instance, will require about one service call in five years. When this occurs, you can find the name of a reliable repairman in the classified section of your phone book under "Appliances."

There are also facilities for private or semi-private entertainment of residents' guests, in game or meeting rooms.

The interior decor and furnishings of the new Versailles Club are attractively done in brilliant reds.

Inter-City Relocation Service Business Booms

The national Inter-City Relocation Service has reported assisting more families move to new communities so far this year than in any comparable period in its 12-year history, as reported by Robert W. Starck, president of Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors which represents ICRS in this area.

Members of Inter-City Relocation Service served 27 per cent more families on the move and sold half again as many houses through the organization's referral program in August, 1972, as in the same 1971 month. Cumulatively, Nov. 1, 1971 through Aug. 31, 1972, ICRS members produced 18.65 per cent more referrals — names and needs of people on the move sent to members at destination, so help in finding new homes can be provided — than in the year-earlier period.

ICRS members sold 39.14 per cent more homes to these relocating families through August, 1972, than in the 10-month period ending Aug. 31, 1971. Reflecting higher house prices, total dollar value of the referral transactions was 46.89 per cent higher this year.

Members of Inter-City, the nation's leading not-for-profit Real Estate referral organization, have direct access to information about a family's new community and the homes available for sale among more than 6,000 communities throughout the United States.

"When one of our sales associates contacts an about-to-move family, he uses his directory to put the family in immediate contact with an ICRS member in its destination community," Starck said. "Usually, this is done in a collect telephone call from the family home, to save time.

"By using instant communication to an ICRS member at destination recommendeded by the family's hometown broker, the family's question about the new community can be answered immediately," Starck added. "By knowing the family's housing needs, the destination broker can preselect suitable homes long before the family's first visit there. Days or even weeks can be saved in house-hunting in a strange new city."

Starck Appoints Office Manager

Lois Anderson was recently appointed as manager of the Mount Prospect office of Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors, according to Robert W. Starck, the company president. Mrs. Anderson began as a secretary with the firm in 1965; earned her Broker's License and has been an accomplished sales associate for the last four years, achieving a million dollars in sales for each of the past two years.

Lois Anderson

Affiliated with the N. W. Panhellenic Assn., Mrs. Anderson is also an active member of the N. W. Suburban Alumn. Club of Alpha Gamma Delta. She and her family reside in Palatine.

Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors, have additional offices in Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Arlington Heights.

In Million Dollar Sales Category

Arlington Realty has announced that Edward Joyce has qualified for the Million Dollar sales award for the second consecutive year.

Edward Joyce

Joyce, who holds a salesman's license plus a broker's license, reached the million dollar figure during the month of October. He is the third Arlington Realty associate to qualify in 1972, along with Evelyn Hines and Lorraine Larsen.

Joyce is associated with the firm's North Office at 550 W. Northwest Highway in Arlington Heights. He is a 20-year resident of Arlington Heights and has been in real estate sales for 10 years. Joyce has attended the Realtors' Institute in Peoria and is a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors. He is active in local musical theater groups.

Arlington Realty now has four area offices with the newest office recently opened to serve the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. The newest office is located in the Crossroads Commons Shopping Center at 719 W. Golf Rd. in Hoffman Estates.

Arlington Realty has announced that Edward Joyce has qualified for the Million Dollar sales award for the second consecutive year.

Edward Joyce

Joyce, who holds a salesman's license plus a broker's license, reached the million dollar figure during the month of October. He is the third Arlington Realty associate to qualify in 1972, along with Evelyn Hines and Lorraine Larsen.

Joyce is associated with the firm's North Office at 550 W. Northwest Highway in Arlington Heights. He is a 20-year resident of Arlington Heights and has been in real estate sales for 10 years. Joyce has attended the Realtors' Institute in Peoria and is a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors. He is active in local musical theater groups.

Arlington Realty now has four area offices with the newest office recently opened to serve the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. The newest office is located in the Crossroads Commons Shopping Center at 719 W. Golf Rd. in Hoffman Estates.

Open Retirement Living Community

Leisure Technology-Midwest, Inc./Richard J. Brown, Inc. has announced the opening of Leisure Village, a major planned condominium community for retirement living, near Fox Lake, Illinois. The first large-scale development of its type in the midwest area, Leisure Village is a 250-acre community designed to appeal to retired families, 52 years of age and older, who desire to remain in the Chicago area near friends, relatives and a familiar environment. All amenities, and recreational facilities have been completed for the opening, per company policy.

Leisure Technology-Midwest, Inc./Richard J. Brown, Inc. is a subsidiary of Leisure Technology Corp. of Lakewood, N. J., leading developers of retirement and recreational communities throughout the United States. Leisure Village at Fox Lake is the eighth retirement community developed by the company and will eventually accommodate some 1,700 families in spacious, ranch-style homes.

According to Richard J. Brown, president of Leisure Technology-Midwest, Inc., "Our goal here is to provide a safe, comfortable and fulfilling way of life for persons of retirement age. Careful planning allowed us to preserve the ecology of the beautiful Fox Lake area and to enhance the natural environment."

TO INSURE THE CONCEPT of total living as a new beginning for retirees, the community is designed with complete recreational and social facilities. The centrally located recreation center houses an auditorium with stage; a complete kitchen; well-appointed lounge and card rooms; billiard facilities; and an arts and crafts center, offering fully-equipped workshops and studios for painting, sculpturing, ceramics, woodworking, lapidary and sewing.

A year-round activities program coordinated by a full-time social director features movies, dances, tournaments, lectures, adult-education courses, a variety of clubs and short-range and long-distance tours.

Outdoor amenities include a large swimming pool and patio, shuffleboard and horseshoe-pitching facilities, a year-round greenhouse and gardening area and a fully stocked lake for fishing and boating.

Leisure Village homeowners have the exclusive use of a private nine-hole, par 27 golf course on the premises. In addition all residents hold free social memberships to the Fox Lake Country Club, entitling them to use of the Club facilities and charge privileges for food and beverages. They may also take advantage of reduced resident golf membership rates for the 18-hole PGA championship golf course, which is within walking distance of Leisure Village homes.

Special security procedures at Leisure Village include a round-the-clock gatekeeper to screen visitors and a supplemental security patrol. Additional amenities provided residents are a maintenance service providing exterior painting, landscape upkeep, snow removal and grass cutting for a modest monthly fee and private bus service which makes regularly scheduled trips to points of interest.

Leisure Village is located immediately northeast of Fox Lake. Entrance is on Grass Lake Road, one-quarter mile east of State Park Road, accessible from U.S. Route 12. The Milwaukee Road commuter train in Fox Lake offers regular services to and from Chicago. Five model homes with designer-decorated interiors by Rita Brown are open Sunday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

New Sales Personnel At Starck Realtors

Charlene Hallihan and Anthony DiCosola recently became sales associates with Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors, at their main office in Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Hallihan and her husband, who is a patrolman with the Mount Prospect Police Department, reside in Mount Prospect with their two children. For the past two years Mrs. Hallihan has taught first grade religion classes for St. Raymond's Church.

DiCosola, a graduate of Loyola University and a native of Chicago, recently moved with his wife and two boys to Mount Prospect from Kankakee.

Robert W. Starck & Co., with additional offices in Arlington Heights, Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates, recently began offering a plan by the American Homeowners Association, Inc., the first comprehensive home protection service entitled Palace Guard.

Break Ground For School In 'Greenbrook Country'

Ground has been broken and construction is underway on a new elementary school in Greenbrook Country, Hanover Park.

Joseph Moran, president of Keeneyville School District 20 Board of Education, said the school could be completed within three months with good weather.

"We look forward to opening the semester next September with the new school in full operation," Moran added.

With Moran at the groundbreking was Burton R. Binenfeld, who will be the new school's principal, and Richard Van Dyke, Keeneyville superintendent of schools.

"The groundbreaking for the first school to be located in Greenbrook Country is an important and welcome milestone in the growth of this community," commented Sam Korn, president of Larwin-Illinois, developer of Greenbrook.

As yet unnamed, the single-story school is designed for an initial capacity of 240 students. The building will include eight classrooms and a kindergarten, learning center, multi-purpose room, and special education room in addition to offices.

Architect Gerald W. Barry, of Barry & Kay, Inc., Chicago, said the new school will be expandable so that both enrollment and faculty can be increased as Greenbrook Country and the Keeneyville School District continue to grow.

The structure is designed to permit at least three additions in the future.

The school is located in a section of Tempo Village that now is under construction, but will be largely completed by December.

Home Heating Terms Explained In Language For The Layman

Home heating terms, formerly used almost exclusively by technical people, are more and more coming into everyday language. You probably are hearing about "BTU's" and "Kilowatthours," or seeing them in newspaper and magazine stories on energy and about "R-values" on stories about how to insulate your home. And you may hear about the number of "degree days" in your area on local weather reports.

What do these terms mean? Here's a brief run-down giving you simple explanations of these and other home heating terms.

BTU (British thermal unit): A measure of heat. A BTU is the amount of heat necessary to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Farenheit or, roughly, the amount of heat produced by the burning of a wooden kitchen match.

Convection heating: A form of heating in which the heat produced by the equipment is distributed through the natural movement of room air resulting from warm air rising.

DEGREE DAYS. A number based on the local U.S. Weather Bureau data, which is a measure of the severity of winter weather. It is used in determining the estimated annual heating requirements of a home.

The number of degree days for each winter day is determined by subtracting the mean temperature for the day from 65 degrees Fahrenheit. If the mean is 50 degrees, for example, the degree days for that particular day would be 15.

Heat loss: The amount of heat that a home loses to the outdoors through walls, ceilings, windows, etc., when the outdoor temperature is lower than the indoor temperature. This represents the amount of heat that must be added to a home by its heating system.

Hydronic heating: A type of heating in which heat is circulated through the house in the form of hot water or steam.

Kilowatthour (KWHR): A measure of the use of electric energy equal to 1,000 watts of electricity used steadily for one hour. One KWHR will power a 100-watt light bulb for ten hours.

R-Value: A measure of insulating quality. The higher the R-Value, the better the insulation and the less heat paid for and lost.

Radiant heating: A kind of heating that operates as the sun does by transferring heat directly to people and objects without using an intermediary, such as air or water, to carry it.

Mobile Home Industry Shipment Gains Are Up

Like a pennant contender with an eye toward the World Series, the mobile home industry is compiling a consecutive month shipment record that is carrying it to another banner year.

When mobile home shipments from manufacturers totaled 60,849 dwellings in August, an all-time industry high for a single month, it marked the 20th consecutive month shipment gains have been recorded over the corresponding month the previous year.

The Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association (MHMA) doesn't feel the streak is in jeopardy. MHMA, which predicted an 18 per cent growth for this year, has estimated that shipments from manufacturers will reach 600,000 by the end of the year.

"We feel the industry will continue to enjoy significant growth patterns over the next several years," said Robert A. DeRose, DeRose Industries, chairman of the MHMA board of directors. "This is a tribute to our manufacturers who have worked hard to make the industry the success it is," he added.

SHIPMENTS OVER the past 20 months have eclipsed the 50,000 mark in seven months, including August's record 60,849 units. Deliveries have surpassed the 50,000 level in the past five months — 53,380 in April, 51,500 in May, 54,700 in June, 50,556 in July and 60,849 in August.

Since January, 1971, there have been 13 months when shipments from manufacturers totaled 40,000 or more homes.

With 392,805 dwellings having been shipped by manufacturers thus far in 1972, the industry is looking ahead to the delivery of the 500,000th mobile home to a retailer sometime later this fall.

"The delivery of the 500,000th unit will certainly make a commendable achievement in the industry's history," said Donald W. Techentien, Conchemco Homes Group, chairman of MHMA's marketing committee. "We should be right on target for our projection of 600,000 homes by the end of the year."

Speakers Discuss Multi-family Housing

A triple feature of speakers and events will be featured at the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago's general membership meeting on today, November 16, according to president Ned Simon of I. Simon and Son, Inc.

Cocktails will be served at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. at the Lake Shore Club.

On the evening's program are Rob Cuscaden, Real Estate Editor and Architecture Critic of the Chicago Sun-Times; Dr. Hans Adolph Heinrich or Argonne National Laboratory; and election of Apartment Council officers and directors for 1973.

Cuscaden will present an overview of recent developments in multi-family housing in two other major midwest cities — from both architectural and real estate angles. Dr. Heinrich's topic will be "Science, Is It All Nonsense?"

Sponsoring the social hour for the evening will be Edelberg-Mayer & Associates, Inc. and Republic Realty Mortgage Company.

Reservations for the meeting may be made by calling Maria Svaldi at the Apartment Council office, 782-8657. Tickets are $8.00 with advance reservation and $9.00 at the door.

McCall Joins Sales Staff At Starck

Dolores McCall recently joined the sales staff of Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors at their Arlington Heights office. Realtor Pres. Robert W. Starck felt additional personnel are necessary as greater emphasis is placed upon customer service.

Dolores brings to Starck Realty a professional critique with nine years experience as a licensed real estate broker. A resident of Arlington Heights for the past ten years, Dolores is an apartment owner.

Robert W. Starck & Co. has their main office in Mount Prospect with additional branch offices in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates. They are also consultants for EARAC, a corporation designed to fulfill the needs of transferring personnel of the member corporations.

Open Retirement Living Community

Leisure Technology-Midwest, Inc./Richard J. Brown, Inc. has announced the opening of Leisure Village, a major planned condominium community for retirement living, near Fox Lake, Illinois. The first large-scale development of its type in the midwest area, Leisure Village is a 250-acre community designed to appeal to retired families, 52 years of age and older, who desire to remain in the Chicago area near friends, relatives and a familiar environment. All amenities, and recreational facilities have been completed for the opening, per company policy.

Leisure Technology-Midwest, Inc./Richard J. Brown, Inc. is a subsidiary of Leisure Technology Corp. of Lakewood, N. J., leading developers of retirement and recreational communities throughout the United States. Leisure Village at Fox Lake is the eighth retirement community developed by the company and will eventually accommodate some 1,700 families in spacious, ranch-style homes.

According to Richard J. Brown, president of Leisure Technology-Midwest, Inc., "Our goal here is to provide a safe, comfortable and fulfilling way of life for persons of retirement age. Careful planning allowed us to preserve the ecology of the beautiful Fox Lake area and to enhance the natural environment."

TO INSURE THE CONCEPT of total living as a new beginning for retirees, the community is designed with complete recreational and social facilities. The centrally located recreation center houses an auditorium with stage; a complete kitchen; well-appointed lounge and card rooms; billiard facilities; and an arts and crafts center, offering fully-equipped workshops and studios for painting, sculpturing, ceramics, woodworking, lapidary and sewing.

A year-round activities program coordinated by a full-time social director features movies, dances, tournaments, lectures, adult-education courses, a variety of clubs and short-range and long-distance tours.

Outdoor amenities include a large swimming pool and patio, shuffleboard and horseshoe-pitching facilities, a year-round greenhouse and gardening area and a fully stocked lake for fishing and boating.

Leisure Village homeowners have the exclusive use of a private nine-hole, par 27 golf course on the premises. In addition all residents hold free social memberships to the Fox Lake Country Club, entitling them to use of the Club facilities and charge privileges for food and beverages. They may also take advantage of reduced resident golf membership rates for the 18-hole PGA championship golf course, which is within walking distance of Leisure Village homes.

Special security procedures at Leisure Village include a round-the-clock gatekeeper to screen visitors and a supplemental security patrol. Additional amenities provided residents are a maintenance service providing exterior painting, landscape upkeep, snow removal and grass cutting for a modest monthly fee and private bus service which makes regularly scheduled trips to points of interest.

Leisure Village is located immediately northeast of Fox Lake. Entrance is on Grass Lake Road, one-quarter mile east of State Park Road, accessible from U.S. Route 12. The Milwaukee Road commuter train in Fox Lake offers regular services to and from Chicago. Five model homes with designer-decorated interiors by Rita Brown are open Sunday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

New Sales Personnel At Starck Realtors

Charlene Hallihan and Anthony DiCosola recently became sales associates with Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors, at their main office in Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Hallihan and her husband, who is a patrolman with the Mount Prospect Police Department, reside in Mount Prospect with their two children. For the past two years Mrs. Hallihan has taught first grade religion classes for St. Raymond's Church.

DiCosola, a graduate of Loyola University and a native of Chicago, recently moved with his wife and two boys to Mount Prospect from Kankakee.

Robert W. Starck & Co., with additional offices in Arlington Heights, Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates, recently began offering a plan by the American Homeowners Association, Inc., the first comprehensive home protection service entitled Palace Guard.

Break Ground For School In 'Greenbrook Country'

Ground has been broken and construction is underway on a new elementary school in Greenbrook Country, Hanover Park.

Joseph Moran, president of Keeneyville School District 20 Board of Education, said the school could be completed within three months with good weather.

"We look forward to opening the semester next September with the new school in full operation," Moran added.

With Moran at the groundbreking was Burton R. Binenfeld, who will be the new school's principal, and Richard Van Dyke, Keeneyville superintendent of schools.

"The groundbreaking for the first school to be located in Greenbrook Country is an important and welcome milestone in the growth of this community," commented Sam Korn, president of Larwin-Illinois, developer of Greenbrook.

As yet unnamed, the single-story school is designed for an initial capacity of 240 students. The building will include eight classrooms and a kindergarten, learning center, multi-purpose room, and special education room in addition to offices.

Architect Gerald W. Barry, of Barry & Kay, Inc., Chicago, said the new school will be expandable so that both enrollment and faculty can be increased as Greenbrook Country and the Keeneyville School District continue to grow.

The structure is designed to permit at least three additions in the future.

The school is located in a section of Tempo Village that now is under construction, but will be largely completed by December.

Home Heating Terms Explained In Language For The Layman

Home heating terms, formerly used almost exclusively by technical people, are more and more coming into everyday language. You probably are hearing about "BTU's" and "Kilowatthours," or seeing them in newspaper and magazine stories on energy and about "R-values" on stories about how to insulate your home. And you may hear about the number of "degree days" in your area on local weather reports.

What do these terms mean? Here's a brief run-down giving you simple explanations of these and other home heating terms.

BTU (British thermal unit): A measure of heat. A BTU is the amount of heat necessary to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Farenheit or, roughly, the amount of heat produced by the burning of a wooden kitchen match.

Convection heating: A form of heating in which the heat produced by the equipment is distributed through the natural movement of room air resulting from warm air rising.

DEGREE DAYS. A number based on the local U.S. Weather Bureau data, which is a measure of the severity of winter weather. It is used in determining the estimated annual heating requirements of a home.

The number of degree days for each winter day is determined by subtracting the mean temperature for the day from 65 degrees Fahrenheit. If the mean is 50 degrees, for example, the degree days for that particular day would be 15.

Heat loss: The amount of heat that a home loses to the outdoors through walls, ceilings, windows, etc., when the outdoor temperature is lower than the indoor temperature. This represents the amount of heat that must be added to a home by its heating system.

Hydronic heating: A type of heating in which heat is circulated through the house in the form of hot water or steam.

Kilowatthour (KWHR): A measure of the use of electric energy equal to 1,000 watts of electricity used steadily for one hour. One KWHR will power a 100-watt light bulb for ten hours.

R-Value: A measure of insulating quality. The higher the R-Value, the better the insulation and the less heat paid for and lost.

Radiant heating: A kind of heating that operates as the sun does by transferring heat directly to people and objects without using an intermediary, such as air or water, to carry it.

Mobile Home Industry Shipment Gains Are Up

Like a pennant contender with an eye toward the World Series, the mobile home industry is compiling a consecutive month shipment record that is carrying it to another banner year.

When mobile home shipments from manufacturers totaled 60,849 dwellings in August, an all-time industry high for a single month, it marked the 20th consecutive month shipment gains have been recorded over the corresponding month the previous year.

The Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association (MHMA) doesn't feel the streak is in jeopardy. MHMA, which predicted an 18 per cent growth for this year, has estimated that shipments from manufacturers will reach 600,000 by the end of the year.

"We feel the industry will continue to enjoy significant growth patterns over the next several years," said Robert A. DeRose, DeRose Industries, chairman of the MHMA board of directors. "This is a tribute to our manufacturers who have worked hard to make the industry the success it is," he added.

SHIPMENTS OVER the past 20 months have eclipsed the 50,000 mark in seven months, including August's record 60,849 units. Deliveries have surpassed the 50,000 level in the past five months — 53,380 in April, 51,500 in May, 54,700 in June, 50,556 in July and 60,849 in August.

Since January, 1971, there have been 13 months when shipments from manufacturers totaled 40,000 or more homes.

With 392,805 dwellings having been shipped by manufacturers thus far in 1972, the industry is looking ahead to the delivery of the 500,000th mobile home to a retailer sometime later this fall.

"The delivery of the 500,000th unit will certainly make a commendable achievement in the industry's history," said Donald W. Techentien, Conchemco Homes Group, chairman of MHMA's marketing committee. "We should be right on target for our projection of 600,000 homes by the end of the year."

Speakers Discuss Multi-family Housing

A triple feature of speakers and events will be featured at the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago's general membership meeting on today, November 16, according to president Ned Simon of I. Simon and Son, Inc.

Cocktails will be served at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. at the Lake Shore Club.

On the evening's program are Rob Cuscaden, Real Estate Editor and Architecture Critic of the Chicago Sun-Times; Dr. Hans Adolph Heinrich or Argonne National Laboratory; and election of Apartment Council officers and directors for 1973.

Cuscaden will present an overview of recent developments in multi-family housing in two other major midwest cities — from both architectural and real estate angles. Dr. Heinrich's topic will be "Science, Is It All Nonsense?"

Sponsoring the social hour for the evening will be Edelberg-Mayer & Associates, Inc. and Republic Realty Mortgage Company.

Reservations for the meeting may be made by calling Maria Svaldi at the Apartment Council office, 782-8657. Tickets are $8.00 with advance reservation and $9.00 at the door.

McCall Joins Sales Staff At Starck

Dolores McCall recently joined the sales staff of Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors at their Arlington Heights office. Realtor Pres. Robert W. Starck felt additional personnel are necessary as greater emphasis is placed upon customer service.

Dolores brings to Starck Realty a professional critique with nine years experience as a licensed real estate broker. A resident of Arlington Heights for the past ten years, Dolores is an apartment owner.

Robert W. Starck & Co. has their main office in Mount Prospect with additional branch offices in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates. They are also consultants for EARAC, a corporation designed to fulfill the needs of transferring personnel of the member corporations.

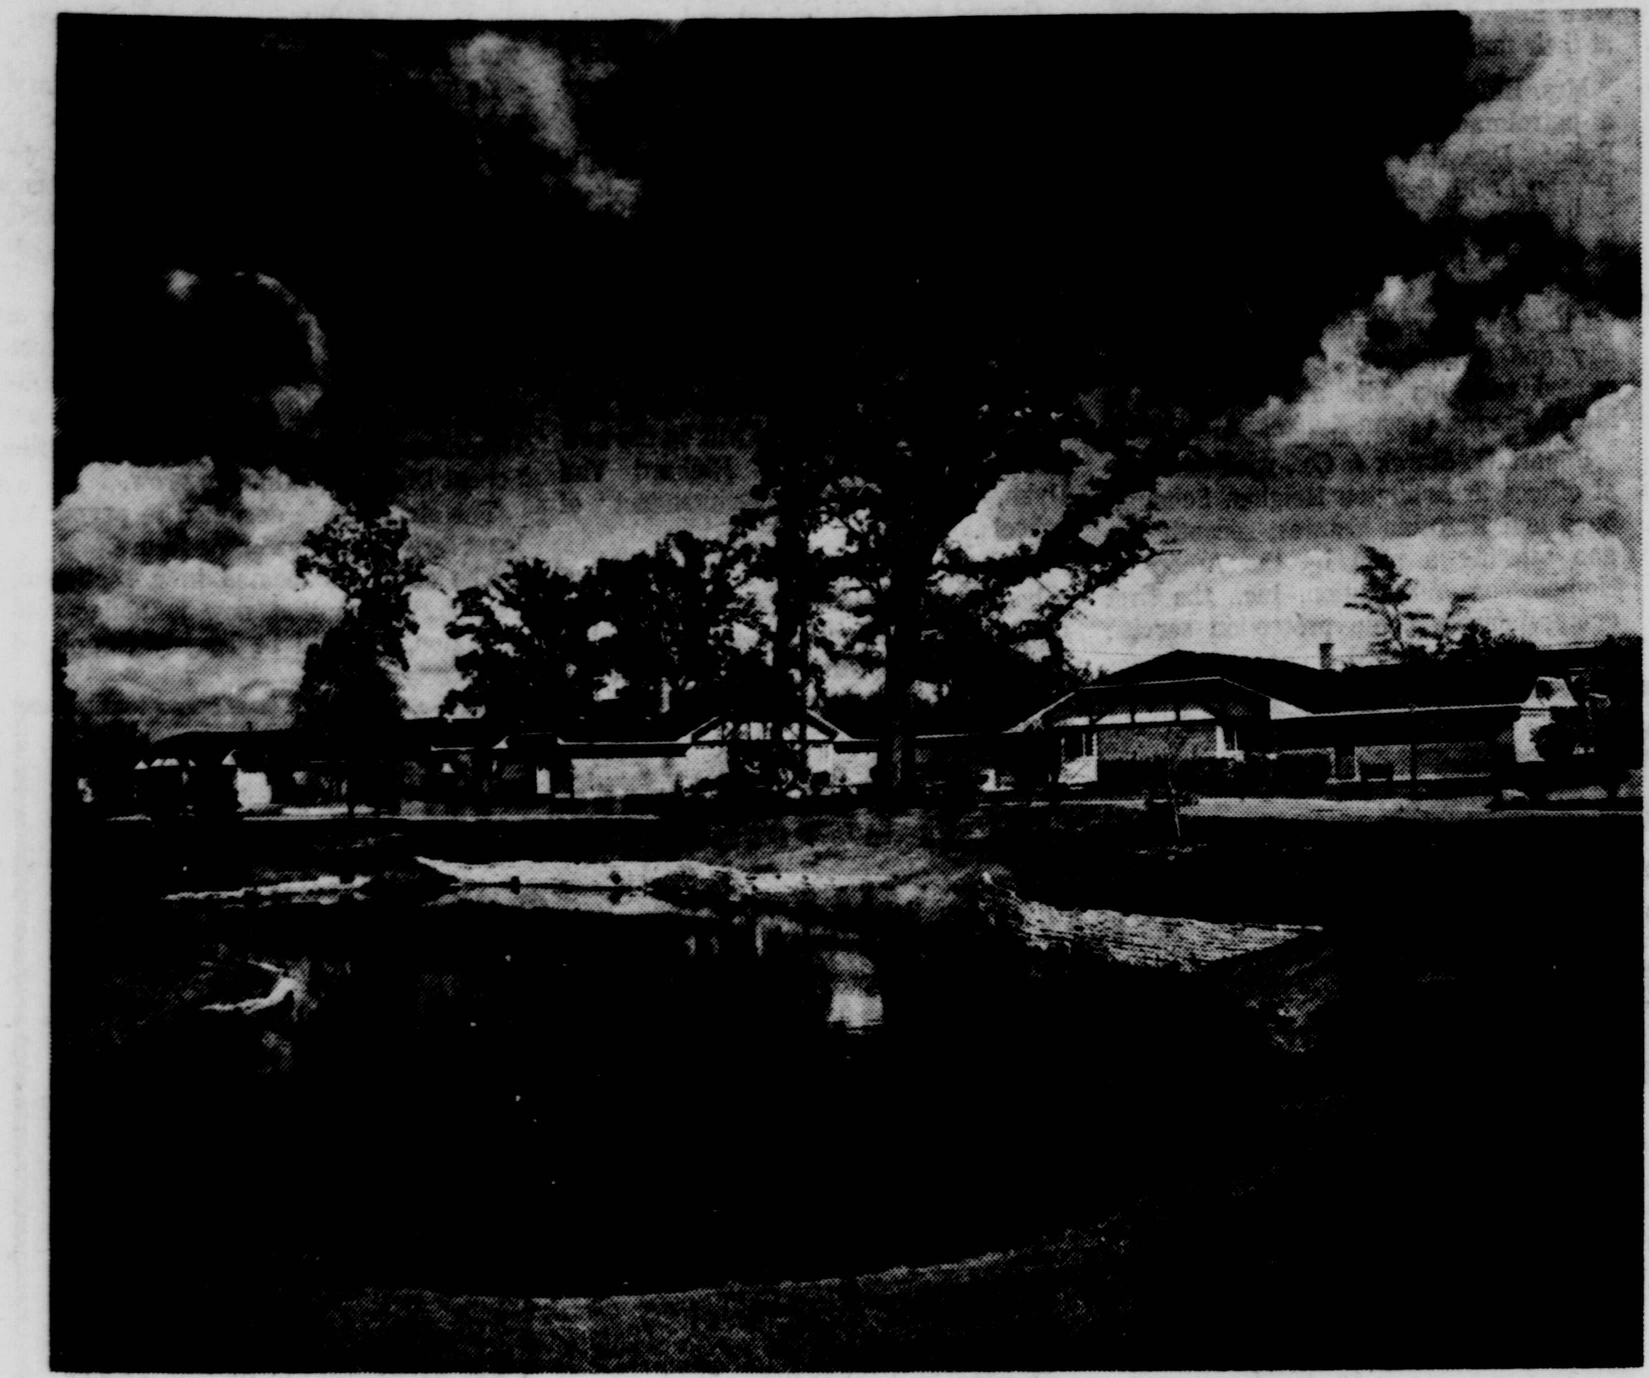
Environment Of Communities



SMALL LAKES, WINDING roadways, and complete landscaping are part of the new environmental communities being created within existing established suburbs. Typical of these are Fairfax Village in Rolling Meadows and Dartmouth Village of Wheaton, both built by Albert Riley, builder.

O'HARE TraveLodge
CONFERENCE ROOMS
3003 MANNHEIM ROAD
DES PLAINES
296-5541
TWX 312-296-2370

Carefully planned environmental communities are the latest idea in home building.

These are new communities which spring virtually fully grown from the land. All the amenities of pleasant living are provided from the start: well-designed homes, lush natural surroundings, sparkling lakes and streams — with nothing left to chance for the residents to complete.

One of the Chicago area pioneers in the development of environmentally planned communities is Albert E. Riley, builder. His current communities of Fairfax Village in Rolling Meadows and Dartmouth Village and The Trees of Wheaton are good examples of what it's all about.

Instead of the conventional side-by-side layout of the homes, the structures in these new communities are sited in attractive random fashion, blended into the extensively re-contoured land with visually appealing mounds and swales. Small lakes and ponds, winding roads, and abundant landscaping complete the picture of an ideal residential environment.

TO MAKE THIS sort of community a reality, Riley relies on an interdisciplinary team of experts representing the fields of architecture, landscape design, engineering, accounting, marketing, corporate planning and zoning law.

"There's too much involved in planning a community of this kind for one man to know and do everything," explains Riley, chairman of the Institute of Environmental Design of the National Association of Home Builders. "We have to make sure that the community we propose will make sense from every angle.

"First, there's our prospective buyer. He has to be attracted by a pleasant environment and a home that's tailored to his needs. Then there's the community which wants to make sure that any development will be an asset to the town, and not become an eyesore or a tax burden, or a slum of the future. And then there's our own corporate concern: We must be able to deliver the product, satisfy everyone, and come out with a reasonable profit."

That's where the team of specialists is most helpful. Acting by himself, the architect, for example, may come up with an attractive design that could be unsuited for the land plan or uneconomical to build. As another example, the consulting engineers acting alone may be unaware of landscape considerations that are vital to make the community attractive.

"We get our specialists to work together, to thrash out problems in common, to offer mutual constructive criticism, and to come up with answers that are tailor-made for the development we want to produce," Riley said. "It's difficult and trying, but it works."

RILEY'S TEAM of experts consists of Burton Frank of Schiller and Frank, architects; Thomas A. Moody, of Murry and Moody, consulting engineers; Lee Circle of Lee Circle & Associates, site planners and landscape architects; Richard Houpt of Petersen & Houpt, zoning attorneys; Donald Hausman of Touche Ross & Co., accountants; Nathaniel Sack of D'Ancora, Pfalum, Wayatt & Kiskind, corporate planning attorneys; and Perry Bigelow, Riley's marketing vice president.

Riley's environmental approach is all the more unusual because he applies it to developments within existing and well-established communities. Other builders, he notes, have an easier time of it because they buy huge tracts of farm land, 300 or 400 acres or more, have it zoned to their needs, and then develop it unencumbered by many community controls.

Because Riley's developments are comparatively small, 30 or 40 acres, and aimed at a class rather than a mass market, he looks for tracts of land in established towns and villages.

Buyers interested in Riley's environmental approach might do well to visit his three community developments now being marketed. Fairfax Village in Rolling Meadows is on west Frontage Road west of Route 53 one half mile south of Kirchoff Road. Dartmouth Village is located in Wheaton on Westhaven Drive, 1½ miles west of Naperville Road and two blocks south of Roosevelt Road.

Both are adult communities, consisting of one and two-story traditionally styled structures with four individual single-family attached homes in each. Prices range from $42,900 to $58,900; the homes are sized from 1,400 to 2,100 square feet.

The Trees of Wheaton, the third community, is on Roosevelt Road, 1½ miles west of Naperville Road. This is a community of 248 "country cluster" homes — four individual homes in a single building each with private entrance and garage — priced at $23,490.

Fully furnished models in each community are open for inspection from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., seven days a week.

Small lakes and ponds, winding roads, and abundant landscaping complete the picture of an ideal residential environment.

TO MAKE THIS sort of community a reality, Riley relies on an interdisciplinary team of experts representing the fields of architecture, landscape design, engineering, accounting, marketing, corporate planning and zoning law.

"There's too much involved in planning a community of this kind for one man to know and do everything," explains Riley, chairman of the Institute of Environmental Design of the National Association of Home Builders. "We have to make sure that the community we propose will make sense from every angle.

"First, there's our prospective buyer. He has to be attracted by a pleasant environment and a home that's tailored to his needs. Then there's the community which wants to make sure that any development will be an asset to the town, and not become an eyesore or a tax burden, or a slum of the future. And then there's our own corporate concern: We must be able to deliver the product, satisfy everyone, and come out with a reasonable profit."

That's where the team of specialists is most helpful. Acting by himself, the architect, for example, may come up with an attractive design that could be unsuited for the land plan or uneconomical to build. As another example, the consulting engineers acting alone may be unaware of landscape considerations that are vital to make the community attractive.

"We get our specialists to work together, to thrash out problems in common, to offer mutual constructive criticism, and to come up with answers that are tailor-made for the development we want to produce," Riley said. "It's difficult and trying, but it works."

RILEY'S TEAM of experts consists of Burton Frank of Schiller and Frank, architects; Thomas A. Moody, of Murry and Moody, consulting engineers; Lee Circle of Lee Circle & Associates, site planners and landscape architects; Richard Houpt of Petersen & Houpt, zoning attorneys; Donald Hausman of Touche Ross & Co., accountants; Nathaniel Sack of D'Ancora, Pfalum, Wayatt & Kiskind, corporate planning attorneys; and Perry Bigelow, Riley's marketing vice president.

Riley's environmental approach is all the more unusual because he applies it to developments within existing and well-established communities. Other builders, he notes, have an easier time of it because they buy huge tracts of farm land, 300 or 400 acres or more, have it zoned to their needs, and then develop it unencumbered by many community controls.

Because Riley's developments are comparatively small, 30 or 40 acres, and aimed at a class rather than a mass market, he looks for tracts of land in established towns and villages.

Buyers interested in Riley's environmental approach might do well to visit his three community developments now being marketed. Fairfax Village in Rolling Meadows is on west Frontage Road west of Route 53 one half mile south of Kirchoff Road. Dartmouth Village is located in Wheaton on Westhaven Drive, 1½ miles west of Naperville Road and two blocks south of Roosevelt Road.

Both are adult communities, consisting of one and two-story traditionally styled structures with four individual single-family attached homes in each. Prices range from $42,900 to $58,900; the homes are sized from 1,400 to 2,100 square feet.

The Trees of Wheaton, the third community, is on Roosevelt Road, 1½ miles west of Naperville Road. This is a community of 248 "country cluster" homes — four individual homes in a single building each with private entrance and garage — priced at $23,490.

Fully furnished models in each community are open for inspection from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., seven days a week.

Mor-Well Building Condos In Area

Grand opening was recently held at Randville when two furnished models went on display at the new condominium community being developed by Mor-Well Builders in an unincorporated area of Cook County adjacent to Palatine.

The first phase of the $7 million complex will comprise 216 units in three 24-unit two-story buildings and three 48-unit three-story buildings. When completed, the community will comprise approximately 500 condominium residences. Phase I, with initial occupancy scheduled for November, should be completed by March, 1973.

The furnished models include a large one-bedroom and a two-bedroom condominium. Seven floor plans are available, priced from $25,500 for a one-bedroom, from $28,500 for a two-bedroom, and $40,000 for the three-bedroom condominium. In all plans, except the smaller one-bedroom unit, the master bedroom has a private bathroom or half-bath, and a large walk-in closet. There is closet space for linens and storage throughout every residence, including an outside storage room connected to each patio or balcony.

Balconies and patios are included in every floor plan also, depending upon floor level. Each balcony or patio can be reached through insulated sliding glass doors.

SPACIOUSNESS IS a key feature in all condominiums. The developrs have built Randville to offer all the advantages of single-family home ownership. Each condominium apartment has an extra large living room, separate dining room, and spacious kitchen and hallway areas.

The appliances included in each luxury kitchen are a dishwasher, range with eye-level double oven, flip-top exhaust hood, double-door refrigerator/freezer with automatic ice maker, double-bowl stainless steel sinks with garbage disposal, simulated leather or suede counter tops and a choice of five styles of custom cabinets.

Other attractive features of Randville are the security intercom system, wall-to-wall carpeting in a wide choice of colors and styles, individually controlled central heating and air-conditioning, and more.

Laundry rooms are included in each building on every floor for convenience, and extra storage space is provided also. All buildings have elevators. Underground heated parking is available on an optional basis, but outdoor parking is provided for every condominium.

Randville is located on Rand Road, one-half mile south of Dundee Road. It is easily accessible from the Northwest Tollway or the Northwest Highway (U.S. Rte. 14), reached from both via the Ill. Rte. 53 exit north. The Chicago and North Western R.R. is also conveient for commuting to Chicago's Loop from Palatine.

Model condominiums are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on weekends from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

RANDVILLE IS A CONDOMINIUM community of one, two, and three-bedroom units, being developed by Mor-Well Builders. When completed, there will be approximately 500 condominiums and a recreation building with swimming pool. Initial occupancy is scheduled for November.

Appliances Give Little Trouble

There is nothing more annoying to the housewife who is in the kitchen preparing the evening meal, in the basement or laundry room doing the washing, or using one of her other work-saving appliances, than to suddenly have it go on the blink.

Although today's electric appliances are almost completely trouble-free, there may come a time when something goes wrong. But there is one way to cut down this possibility. According to the Electric Energy Association, by taking certain steps when the appliance is installed, you'll cut down on repair calls later.

1. Have your appliance installed by a responsible dealer.

2. Be at home when the appliance is intalled.

3. Read the manufacturer's directions on proper use and maintenance. Also read the warranty to familiarize yourself with the manufacturer's obligations regarding service and repair.

4. Before the serviceman leaves, run the appliance yourself. Be sure it performs to your satisfaction and that you know exactly how to operate it.

5. If you have any questions and the serviceman cannot answer them, call your dealer.

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

THE IMPORTANCE OF YOUR MORTGAGE

Aside from the actual selection of your home, probably the most important transaction involved when purchasing a home is the determination of the mortgage loan. The selection of the "best" mortgage loan is of prime importance, especially in today's fast changing economical situation.

There are many hidden factors involved when you as a home buyer attempts to arrange financing by yourself, factors such as acquiring the best interest rate, overall term of the mortgage, open end mortgages, and, of course, your ability to know and trust the loan institution you deal with.

Your M.A.P. Multiple Listing Service Real Estate Companies are expert at coordinating your purchase through the most reputable mortgage companies available. M.A.P. salespeople know the current market conditions, the current interest rate situation, and the best, most equitable mortgage institutions for your particular mortgage.

The tremendous sales volume of the M.A.P. organization reflects the constant activity with Banks and Savings and Loan institutions, and the same institutions in turn know the value of catering to an active, progressive organization such as M.A.P. Multiple Listing Real Estate Companies.

When you get ready to buy, let M.A.P. help you get the best mortgage for you . . . and your future happiness.

LANDSCAPING AROUND the final apartment building of Walden's Phase II has marked completion of about half the green belt — lakes and adjoining landscaped lawns — that will stretch diagonally through the 155-acre planned unit development in Schaumburg. The green belt will provide a broad corridor for strolling, starting at Walden Office Square through already built and future residential areas.

PHASE II OF RAND Center is designed to serve 13 tenants and contains a total area of 30,523 sq. ft. Developer of the property is Joseph Lumber Co. and the architect is Babbin & Associates.

Eileen Rodgers Hits $2 Million Mark

Eileen Rodgers, sales associate of Annen & Busse, Inc. in their Arlington Heights office, passed the two million dollar mark in residential sales the first week in November.

Eileen Rodgers

Mrs. Rodgers, associated with Annen & Busse, Inc. for the past four years, has repeatedly exhibited her outstanding sales abilities. She has twice received the firm's Million Dollar Sales Award, and was cited as Top Salesman of the Year from her office in 1971.

SHE IS ACTIVE in her community both civically and socially, and is a homemaker and mother of five daughters. Eileen, a licensed Broker, will be attending the Graduate Realtors Institute in Peoria this December, along with ten other Annen & Busse associates.

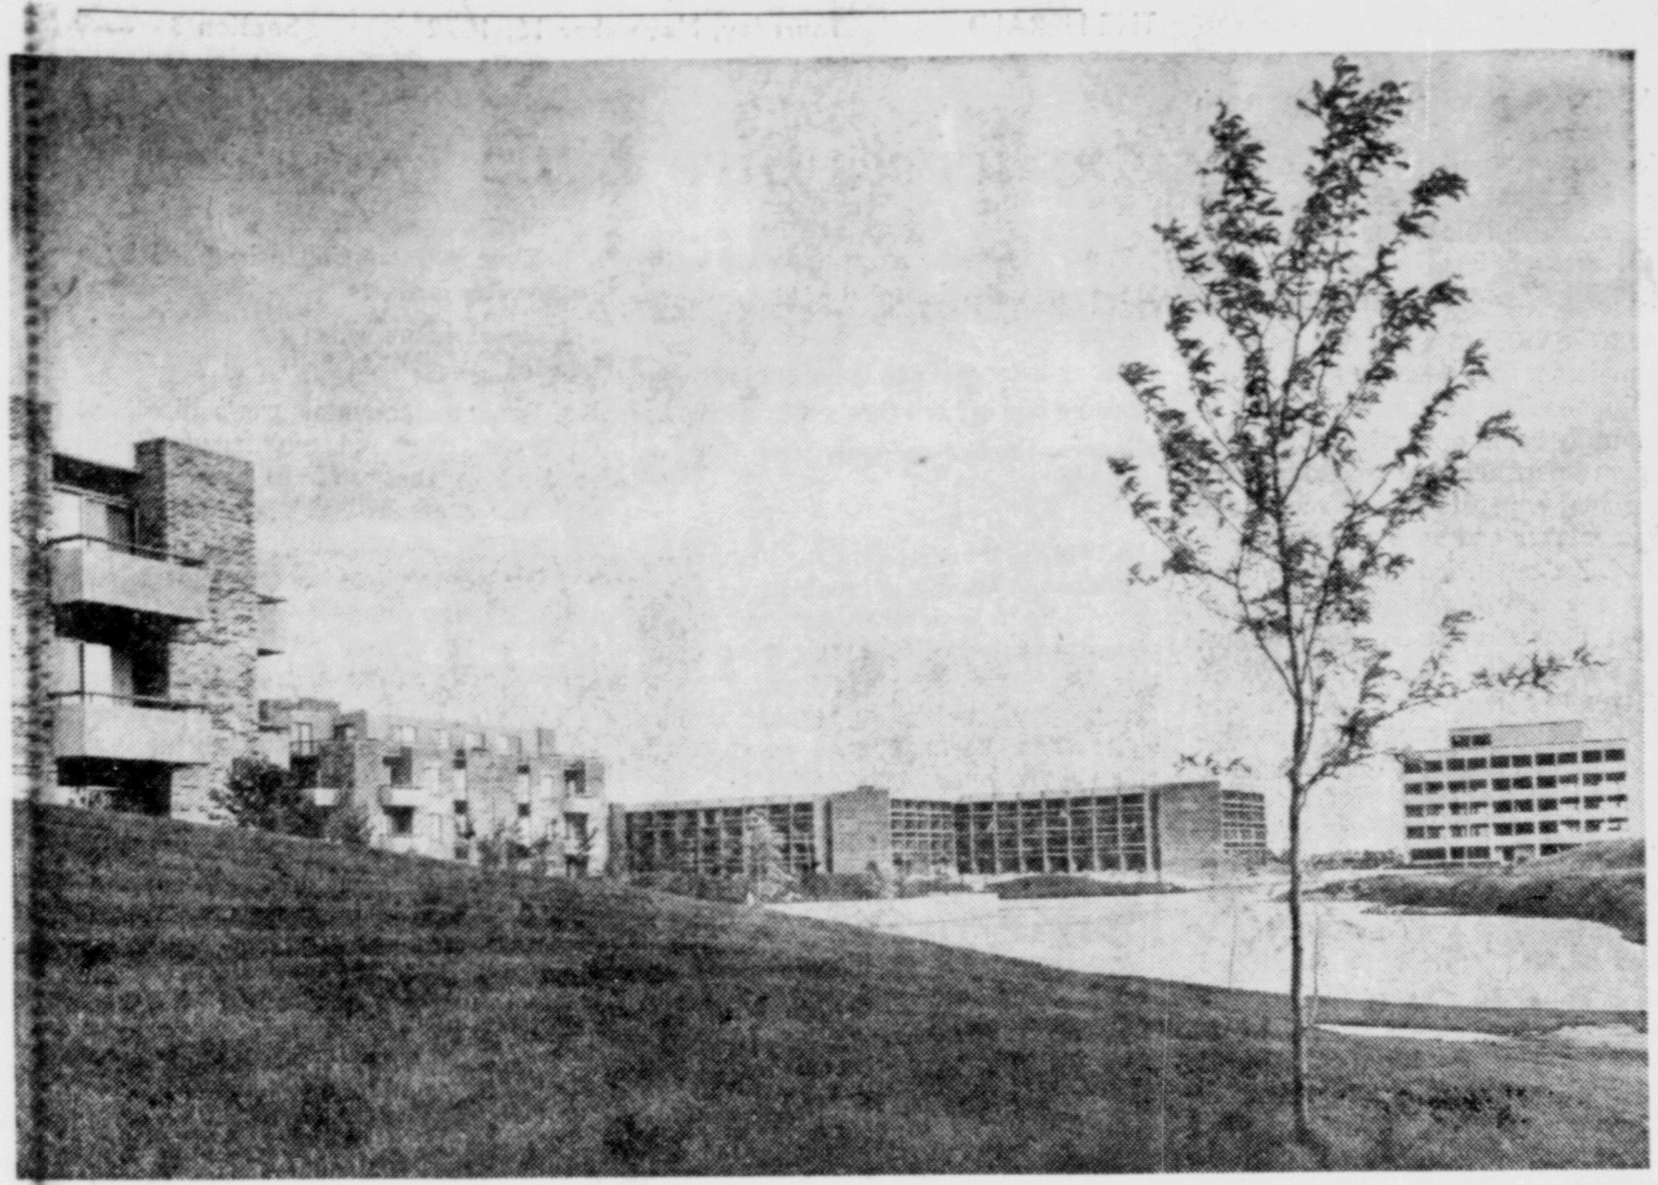
Covering the Great Northwest Suburbs



LANDSCAPING AROUND the final apartment building of Walden's Phase II has marked completion of about half the green belt — lakes and adjoining landscaped lawns — that will stretch diagonally through the 155-acre planned unit development in Schaumburg. The green belt will provide a broad corridor for strolling, starting at Walden Office Square through already built and future residential areas.

PHASE II OF RAND Center is designed to serve 13 tenants and contains a total area of 30,523 sq. ft. Developer of the property is Joseph Lumber Co. and the architect is Babbin & Associates.

Eileen Rodgers Hits $2 Million Mark

Eileen Rodgers

Eileen Rodgers, sales associate of Annen & Busse, Inc. in their Arlington Heights office, passed the two million dollar mark in residential sales the first week in November.

Mrs. Rodgers, associated with Annen & Busse, Inc. for the past four years, has repeatedly exhibited her outstanding sales abilities. She has twice received the firm's Million Dollar Sales Award, and was cited as Top Salesman of the Year from her office in 1971.

SHE IS ACTIVE in her community both civically and socially, and is a homemaker and mother of five daughters. Eileen, a licensed Broker, will be attending the Graduate Realtors Institute in Peoria this December, along with ten other Annen & Busse associates.

Mrs. Rodgers is a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, and along with all members of the Annen & Busse, Inc. organization, works through the MAP Multiple Listing Service.

MEREDITH ZEIGLER, director of interior design at Meritex Corp., leads a discussion about the interiors of the model custom single-family homes at Tarrington in Naperville. The series of Wednesday luncheon discussion/tours has recently been introduced at the new Meritex community.

Is Cash Leaking From Your Pocket?

There's a famous cartoon showing a bewildered wife holding a checkbook in front of her husband and saying: "There's too much month left at the end of the money!"

Which is another way of saying that hidden leaks may be draining away more money from your family treasury than you realize, according to Penny Scott, family finance advisor of Oak Park Federal Savings.

HERE, FOR EXAMPLE, is a list of the 10 most common money leaks as compiled by Sidney Margolius in his book, "How To Make The Most Of Your Money":

—Payment of large finance charges on installment purchases. This can cost a family five per cent of its total income.

—Overspending on food, and failing to take advantage of specials. Some families can live well for $1 a day per person for food. Other families in the same neighborhood and income bracket spend twice as much.

—High household and operating costs. Families may inadvertently be paying more than they need to for utilities, fuel, household supplies, and home insurance.

—Excessive car operating expenses. The safe limit for all car expenses, including depreciation, is 12 per cent of your family's after-tax income. Many families spend much more than this.

—Larger than necessary insurance costs. If you're paying premiums monthly instead of annually, or buying many small policies instead of combining them, you're spending more than you have to.

—Big spending for commercial recreation, including hoggies, sports, movies, and vacations.

—Overpayment of income taxes. Failure to understand the tax rules, including deductions and exclusions, and poor record keeping are often at fault.

—Failure to take advantage of shopping opportunities for lower prices. This may be due to lack of planning or inability to build up funds in advance to take advantage of these opportunities.

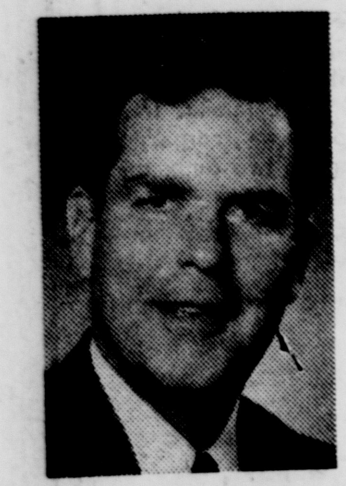
—Random spending for toiletries, cosmetics, and household drugs, especially by teenagers. These products are growing in popularity and their prices are climbing.

—Poor savings management. Some families who score well on smart buying don't know what interest rates their local savings and loan association is paying. They may lack a systematic savings plan, and fail to take advantage of easily available savings opportunities.

"In these days of inflation, with prices climbing and many paychecks failing to keep up, every family owes it to itself to review its spending and savings practices regularly," Miss Scott advises. "The above list is a good place to start if, despite your best intentions, there's still too much month left when your money runs out."

Kemmerly Tells Sales Increase

Jack L. Kemmerly, president of Jack L. Kemmerly Real Estate Inc., announced that his firm has had an across-the-board 40 per cent increase in sales over 1971. His firm has participated in more sales and had a higher gross volume of sales than any other real estate firm or organization that is a member of MAP Multiple Listing Service with offices and sales in that organization.



Jack Kemmerly

MAP Multiple Listing Service has over 90 firms and over 950 sales associates. Kemmerly announced that many sales were in cooperation with his fellow Brokers of MAP.

After the first of the year, new offices will be opened in Lake Zurich and in the Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect area. With the addition of the two new offices that will bring his total to ten.

What Redwood To Use For Interior Jobs

Two grades of California redwood are recommended for interior applications such as paneling, cabinetry, trim, and ceilings. They are clear all heart and clear grade redwood. The latter contains splashes of cream-colored sapwood which contrast with the familiar reddish-brown redwood.

—Overpayment of income taxes. Failure to understand the tax rules, including deductions and exclusions, and poor record keeping are often at fault.

—Failure to take advantage of shopping opportunities for lower prices. This may be due to lack of planning or inability to build up funds in advance to take advantage of these opportunities.

—Random spending for toiletries, cosmetics, and household drugs, especially by teenagers. These products are growing in popularity and their prices are climbing.

—Poor savings management. Some families who score well on smart buying don't know what interest rates their local savings and loan association is paying. They may lack a systematic savings plan, and fail to take advantage of easily available savings opportunities.

"In these days of inflation, with prices climbing and many paychecks failing to keep up, every family owes it to itself to review its spending and savings practices regularly," Miss Scott advises. "The above list is a good place to start if, despite your best intentions, there's still too much month left when your money runs out."

Kemmerly Tells Sales Increase

Jack L. Kemmerly, president of Jack L. Kemmerly Real Estate Inc., announced that his firm has had an across-the-board 40 per cent increase in sales over 1971. His firm has participated in more sales and had a higher gross volume of sales than any other real estate firm or organization that is a member of MAP Multiple Listing Service with offices and sales in that organization.

Jack Kemmerly

MAP Multiple Listing Service has over 90 firms and over 950 sales associates. Kemmerly announced that many sales were in cooperation with his fellow Brokers of MAP.

After the first of the year, new offices will be opened in Lake Zurich and in the Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect area. With the addition of the two new offices that will bring his total to ten.

What Redwood To Use For Interior Jobs

Two grades of California redwood are recommended for interior applications such as paneling, cabinetry, trim, and ceilings. They are clear all heart and clear grade redwood. The latter contains splashes of cream-colored sapwood which contrast with the familiar reddish-brown redwood.

MAP Announces Record Sales

A cooperative sales volume of $11,076,425 marked the highest October in MAP Multiple Listing Service history, a volume that topped the previous 1971 October sales by more than $5 million and an increase of almost $2 million more than the previous month.

The record October, 1972, $11,076,425 sales volume was the result of 264 cooperative property sales between participating MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Companies. The sales total reflects an average per-home sale price of $39,959.

For the first 10 months of 1972, MAP has recorded a total cooperative sales volume of $176,094,802, resulting from 2,853 unit sales.

When disclosing the current sales figures at the MAP Board of Directors Meeting, Bill Kleiner, MAP president, related the general attitude of the Real Estate market with the projection that the outlook for the remainder of the year shows every indication of remaining brisk with customer interest remaining quite active.

"We in the business are unanimous in our feeling that 1973 will continue to show substantial gains in home buying enthusiasm. We at MAP are doing everything necessary to develop all the latest technical and sales skills to maintain our position as real estate professionals, capable of answering the needs of today's demanding customers," says Bill Kleiner.

712 S. Nawata, Mt. Prospect, sold by Lois Anderson

. . . this says it all!

Yes, another home both listed and sold by Starck. Sure, some of our listings are sold by other brokers through MAP Multiple Listing Service, Inc. BUT, we sell a whole bunch of our listings and we do it FAST!

How?

In any successful business the most valuable resource is people. We are very proud of all the salesmen, managers and office personnel in our organization. We select them carefully, train them well and keep retraining so that our clients and customers get total real estate service.

In addition, our advertising and merchandising is aggressive and combines both quantity and quality. Every home we list has its own merchandising campaign put into writing. You are kept informed of all details and progress every step of the way until the property is sold.

An important part of merchandising is establishing the proper selling price for your property. Using established and accurate appraisal techniques we prepare a Value Analysis on your property. This results in a fast sale at top market price for you.

We offer three exclusive extras that greatly assist us in selling your property:

1. Inter-City Relocation Service Inc. 650 nationwide Realtors constantly are referring their transferred clients to us. In 1972 this has resulted in over $2,000,000 in additional sales.
2. Palace Guard, Inc. In this age of consumerism buyers expect to purchase things and know that they will work properly or will be fixed so that they do. Palace Guard Service is only offered through us.
3. The Starck Home Guarantee Purchase Plan and Potere PET Equity Program Permits us to sell a buyer your property and "take his home in trade" anywhere in the country.

Since 1960 Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors have sold thousands of homes in the great Northwest Suburbs. We have grown to four offices with over fifty associates.

We'd love to spotlight your home with our SOLD sign!

Real Estate Investment Vs. Limited Partnership

Intrigued by the continuing rise in real estate values, and undaunted by soft spots that crop up here and there, many would-be investors are wondering how to participate in the action.

The scope of most new real estate ventures is so large that few investors — and certainly not the average one — can afford to go it alone. That leaves the limited partnership and the real estate investment trust as the most likely participation vehicles.

"We get many questions from people seeking to know which is best, and we answer that it all depends on the particular opportunity and the individual's own investment objectives," states John W. Baird, president of Baird & Warner Mortgage and Realty Investors, a Chicago-based real estate investment trust.

Baird also heads Baird & Warner, Inc., a major Chicago real estate firm which acts as adviser to the trust. The firm, acting as a real estate sales, management, and mortgage organization, also takes part in many limited partnership arrangements. Baird is in a good position to answer questions about real estate investments.

FROM AN INVESTMENT standpoint, most limited partnerships are viewed primarily as tax shelters for their investors. Real estate investment trusts, or REITs as they're commonly called, are primarily vehicles for investors interested in high current income.

This is an important distinction for the investor to keep in mind and to relate to his own tax status and investment objectives. Another point to remember is that limited partnerships generally require substantial sums for participation. The REIT, on the other hand, is open to participation by anyone via a stock purchase, which can cost very little.

Biard offered this elaboration to point out the differences:

Limited partnerships are so called because the investing partners have limited liability; they stand only to lose the amount of their original investment.

RECENTLY, SOME stock brokerage houses have begun to offer participations in limited partnerships. Most other partnerships are put together by developers, attorneys, and accountants who bring in individual investors. Partnerships are usually kept small, fewer than 25 people, to avoid the complicated registration requirements of government securities agencies.

Because the typical limited partnership is private and the shares of ownership are relatively large, it is not easy to buy or sell ownership shares. Investors are typically invited to participate, and each investor must put up a relatively large amount of money. The exact amount depends on the total investment which the partnership must provide, the number of investors, and the allocation of shares.

Many arrangements and allocations are possible, but in general, the limited partner can be expected to invest several thousand dollars. The investor shares in the income and losses of the property in proportion to his investment.

If the investor decides to sell out, he must find a buyer who can pay for the large amount involved. Thus, a limited partner is relatively frozen into the deal, compared with a REIT shareowner who can get a stock broker to sell his shares at any time.

In many respects, the limited partnership has some of the advantages of a corporation. The liability of the partners is limited. In addition, the partnership can use centralized management. One of the partners can serve as a manager or this function can be delegated to an outside agent.

HOWEVER, THE partnership cannot have too many of the characteristics of a corporation, or else it will lost the partnership's tax advantage.

The primary advantage of the partnership is that it gives the individual partner or investor the right to use the partnership's tax losses directly. These losses arise largely from interest during construction and depreciation. The investor can utilize his share of the partnership's losses as deductions on his own income tax return to offset income from other sources.

Depreciation refers to the ageing, wear, and tear on the property. Under today's conditions of inflation and rising real estate values, the property may become more valuable over the years. Nevertheless, the government allows a deduction for an erosion of value caused by depreciation; this deduction amounts to a book loss which can produce substantial tax savings.

The higher an owner's tax bracket, the more he benefits from these book losses. Typical limited partners are in the 50 per cent bracket. People in lower brackets do not usually have enough of a tax liability to take full advantage of book losses.

AT SOME POINT, the partnership may decide to sell the property. In that case, the individual investors will receive their proportionate share of the sale proceeds. If there are any gains, they will be taxed at capital gains rates.

The basic point to keep in mind is that unless you're in a relatively high tax bracket and can afford to freeze an investment ranging from several thousand dollars to hundreds of thousands, a limited partnership is not for you.

REITs are trusts formed as investment vehicles by banks, insurance companies, mortgage bankers, and other organizations to attract funds from the public and put them to work in meeting the seemingly insatiable need for money to finance real estate development.

Money for REITs come from the public which buys REIT stock and bonds on the market. You can make purchases through your stockbroker. Some shares can be purchased for as little as $15 or $20, depending on market price, and there normally is no restriction on how many shares you can buy.

Like a limited partnership, if the REIT meets certain requirements, it can pass through all of its income (but not losses) to shareholders without the REIT itself first being taxed. To accomplish this, the REIT must pay out 90 per cent of income to shareholders and 75 per cent of its income must come from real estate investments. These two requirements are the most significant tests, although there are others that must be met.

IF YOUR REIT does well, you can expect quarterly payments as income. In addition, if the price of your REIT shares go up and you sell, you will enjoy a capital gain. Of course, any income or capital gain is subject to income taxes.

Unlike limited partnerships, REITs offer no tax advantages to shareholders. The primary advantages are income and capital appreciation. A normal yield of 7 to 9 per cent is typical.

There are three basic kinds of REITs: those that lend money for short-term construction loans to finance the building of properties; those that lend money for long-term mortgages on completed properties; and those that make equity investments in real estate. Many funds engage in all three activities, although one objective usually predominates.

Many REITs are highly attractive to pension funds, profit-sharing plans, and other non-profit organizations which are not subject to taxes and can benefit from the REIT's generally high yields. Depending on the management of the REIT, and the quality of the REIT's loans and equity purchases, there should be limited risk involved.

THE GOOD return on REITs, coupled with the ease of buying and selling shares, makes these vehicles ideal for the typical investor who is not concerned with tax shelter as a primary goal.

In short, according to John Baird, REITs are more suited to the average investor than are limited partnerships.

The question for most investors is academic, since the average investor has no access to buying into a limited partnership, and probably hasn't enough funds to participate. He's better off buying shares of an REIT and then, as he accumulates funds over the years, seeks out a good limited partnership investment.

Starck Names The Salesman Of Month

Lois Anderson, Dick Williams, sales associates of Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors in Mount Prospect, Dorthy Bogdas of their Arlington Heights office, Judy Burton of their Schaumburg office, and Bill Cowin, manager of their Hoffman Estates office were announced as the Starck Salesmen of the Month for October.

Each headed their respective office in number of listings combined with sales. Each receives the Salesmen of the Month trophy for their desk and have their names engraved in the annual plaque.

The company sold and listed a record seventy-one homes for the month of October. A new program called Palace Guard Homes, a comprehensive buyer protection plan for pre-used homes, and a record year for Inter-City Relocation Service, a not-for-profit nationwide referral organization designed to facilitate families moving to a strange city, are being credited for the record month for Starck.

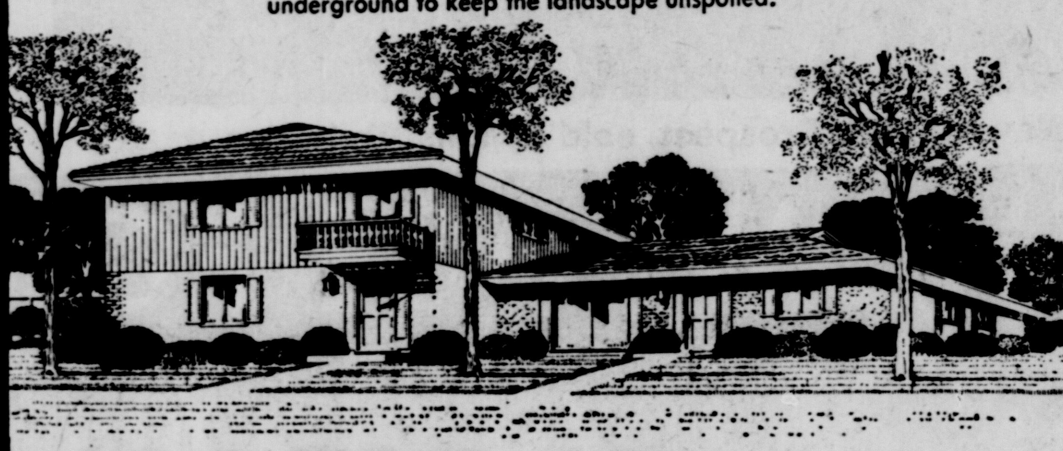
Quadro-Homes
in Schaumburg by Campanelli, Inc.

Until a few years ago, Weathersfield in Schaumburg was farmland. Following careful plans, the picturesque community grew. Gently rolling hills, trees and wooded glens — the area's natural beauty was preserved. Winding paved roads were laid out over the land's natural contours. Homesites were well spaced to avoid crowding. Utilities were sent underground to keep the landscape unspoiled.

To this setting now comes the clean, crisp architectural lines of the Quadro-Homes. Elegance and privacy are emphasized in each two-bedroom unit — with unshared entrance, individual garage with direct entry, solid masonry walls between units plus the private use of the Cape Cod Club and large heated outdoor swimming pool. These added features make Campanelli Quadro-Homes your best buy:



- Walking distance to shopping and schools.
- Weathersfield is a complete community.
- Near Expressway and Milwaukee Road for commuting.
- Tax deductible interest.
- Mortgage payments lower than rent.
- Mowing, snow shoveling, exterior painting all provided.
- Completely equipped wood cabinet kitchen.
- Self-cleaning oven, range, hood.
- Large ice-maker refrigerator, dishwasher, disposer.
- Trash compactor, washer, dryer.
- Carpeting throughout and much more.

Real Estate Investment Vs. Limited Partnership

Intrigued by the continuing rise in real estate values, and undaunted by soft spots that crop up here and there, many would-be investors are wondering how to participate in the action.

The scope of most new real estate ventures is so large that few investors — and certainly not the average one — can afford to go it alone. That leaves the limited partnership and the real estate investment trust as the most likely participation vehicles.

"We get many questions from people seeking to know which is best, and we answer that it all depends on the particular opportunity and the individual's own investment objectives," states John W. Baird, president of Baird & Warner Mortgage and Realty Investors, a Chicago-based real estate investment trust.

Baird also heads Baird & Warner, Inc., a major Chicago real estate firm which acts as adviser to the trust. The firm, acting as a real estate sales, management, and mortgage organization, also takes part in many limited partnership arrangements. Baird is in a good position to answer questions about real estate investments.

FROM AN INVESTMENT standpoint, most limited partnerships are viewed primarily as tax shelters for their investors. Real estate investment trusts, or REITs as they're commonly called, are primarily vehicles for investors interested in high current income.

This is an important distinction for the investor to keep in mind and to relate to his own tax status and investment objectives. Another point to remember is that limited partnerships generally require substantial sums for participation. The REIT, on the other hand, is open to participation by anyone via a stock purchase, which can cost very little.

Biard offered this elaboration to point out the differences:

Limited partnerships are so called because the investing partners have limited liability; they stand only to lose the amount of their original investment.

RECENTLY, SOME stock brokerage houses have begun to offer participations in limited partnerships. Most other partnerships are put together by developers, attorneys, and accountants who bring in individual investors. Partnerships are usually kept small, fewer than 25 people, to avoid the complicated registration requirements of government securities agencies.

Because the typical limited partnership is private and the shares of ownership are relatively large, it is not easy to buy or sell ownership shares. Investors are typically invited to participate, and each investor must put up a relatively large amount of money. The exact amount depends on the total investment which the partnership must provide, the number of investors, and the allocation of shares.

Many arrangements and allocations are possible, but in general, the limited partner can be expected to invest several thousand dollars. The investor shares in the income and losses of the property in proportion to his investment.

If the investor decides to sell out, he must find a buyer who can pay for the large amount involved. Thus, a limited partner is relatively frozen into the deal, compared with a REIT shareowner who can get a stock broker to sell his shares at any time.

In many respects, the limited partnership has some of the advantages of a corporation. The liability of the partners is limited. In addition, the partnership can use centralized management. One of the partners can serve as a manager or this function can be delegated to an outside agent.

HOWEVER, THE partnership cannot have too many of the characteristics of a corporation, or else it will lost the partnership's tax advantage.

The primary advantage of the partnership is that it gives the individual partner or investor the right to use the partnership's tax losses directly. These losses arise largely from interest during construction and depreciation. The investor can utilize his share of the partnership's losses as deductions on his own income tax return to offset income from other sources.

Depreciation refers to the ageing, wear, and tear on the property. Under today's conditions of inflation and rising real estate values, the property may become more valuable over the years. Nevertheless, the government allows a deduction for an erosion of value caused by depreciation; this deduction amounts to a book loss which can produce substantial tax savings.

The higher an owner's tax bracket, the more he benefits from these book losses. Typical limited partners are in the 50 per cent bracket. People in lower brackets do not usually have enough of a tax liability to take full advantage of book losses.

AT SOME POINT, the partnership may decide to sell the property. In that case, the individual investors will receive their proportionate share of the sale proceeds. If there are any gains, they will be taxed at capital gains rates.

The basic point to keep in mind is that unless you're in a relatively high tax bracket and can afford to freeze an investment ranging from several thousand dollars to hundreds of thousands, a limited partnership is not for you.

REITs are trusts formed as investment vehicles by banks, insurance companies, mortgage bankers, and other organizations to attract funds from the public and put them to work in meeting the seemingly insatiable need for money to finance real estate development.

Money for REITs come from the public which buys REIT stock and bonds on the market. You can make purchases through your stockbroker. Some shares can be purchased for as little as $15 or $20, depending on market price, and there normally is no restriction on how many shares you can buy.

Like a limited partnership, if the REIT meets certain requirements, it can pass through all of its income (but not losses) to shareholders without the REIT itself first being taxed. To accomplish this, the REIT must pay out 90 per cent of income to shareholders and 75 per cent of its income must come from real estate investments. These two requirements are the most significant tests, although there are others that must be met.

IF YOUR REIT does well, you can expect quarterly payments as income. In addition, if the price of your REIT shares go up and you sell, you will enjoy a capital gain. Of course, any income or capital gain is subject to income taxes.

Unlike limited partnerships, REITs offer no tax advantages to shareholders. The primary advantages are income and capital appreciation. A normal yield of 7 to 9 per cent is typical.

There are three basic kinds of REITs: those that lend money for short-term construction loans to finance the building of properties; those that lend money for long-term mortgages on completed properties; and those that make equity investments in real estate. Many funds engage in all three activities, although one objective usually predominates.

Many REITs are highly attractive to pension funds, profit-sharing plans, and other non-profit organizations which are not subject to taxes and can benefit from the REIT's generally high yields. Depending on the management of the REIT, and the quality of the REIT's loans and equity purchases, there should be limited risk involved.

THE GOOD return on REITs, coupled with the ease of buying and selling shares, makes these vehicles ideal for the typical investor who is not concerned with tax shelter as a primary goal.

In short, according to John Baird, REITs are more suited to the average investor than are limited partnerships.

The question for most investors is academic, since the average investor has no access to buying into a limited partnership, and probably hasn't enough funds to participate. He's better off buying shares of an REIT and then, as he accumulates funds over the years, seeks out a good limited partnership investment.

Happiness Is–Stonebridge For Kids

Little children, the bane of most rental unit landlords are welcomed and catered to by Hollywood Builders Stonebridge Hill luxury apartment management.

Stonebridge Hill in Arlington Heights provides more amenities for children than most developments provide for adults. The children from the 390 unit building complex, had their own Halloween Party on the premises.

The recreation center was reserved for the children on Halloween. The owners provided apples, pop, ice cream and games for the children.

THE CHILDREN of Stonebridge are shown free movies every Monday and Friday night in the recreation center. They feature popular cartoons and classic movies. In addition Stonebridge will have its own movie camera and projector to make home movies, Hoffman said.

The acres of grass and lawn are open to the children for running and playing, and the landscaped hills make "cowboys and Indians" more exciting. Next spring there will be a fort and Indian village available for summer playtime.

Every month Stonebridge hosts a free party with pop and ice cream, and also on special holidays like the Fourth of July and Halloween.

There are bicycle racks and storage areas for toys and athletic gear. Stonebridge also features bus tours to Santa's Village, the museums and other points of interest in the area.

A school bus is available for bad weather but most of the children walk two blocks to Ivy Hill Grade School or Rand Junior High School. There are no streets or highways for the children to cross on their way to and from school.

In the summer there are baseball teams for the older boys and year around sports and games for all ages.

STONEBRIDGE IS expanding its building to add a facility of 200 more units which will be available in April, May and June of 1973.

The two bedroom units all have two baths, a 16 by 12 master bedroom, a large living room, a 13 by 9 kitchen and a large family size dining room.

The apartments have all of the amenities plus super special extras, like an outlet for master TV antennas for reception of all Bear games.

Tennis courts, swimming pools, billiard tables, saunas and every type of recreation facility are also available.

3 Become Sales Associates With Starck Realtors

Nancy Jordan, Judy Szabo and Anthony Pavia recently became sales associate with Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors at the Schaumburg office. According to Robert W. Starck, the firm's president, the addition was necessary to supplement their service to the public in the area.

Mrs. Jordan and her husband Gary, who is the office manager for Schirmer Engineering in Niles, have resided in Schaumburg with their two sons for the last five years. A member of the Schaumburg Women's Club where she has served as their public relations secretary, Nancy majored in elementary education at Elmhurst College.

Mrs. Szabo and her family have lived in Schaumburg for the last four years. A graduate of Ball State Teachers College, Mrs. Szabo has donated time working as a volunteer for Saint Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove.

Raised on a Michigan farm Pavia still enjoys gardening at his residence in Rosemont. A member of the Loyola Community Theater Actors Club, he participated in a musical review of Backstage Onstage and was campaign manager for their interpretation of Hello Dolly.

Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors had additional offices in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates. They are members of Inter-City Relocation Service, a non-profit nationwide organization designed to facilitate people moving to another city.

Try The New Electronic Air Cleaners

For many people who suffer from allergies, sneezing doesn't stop when the ragweed season is past.

Mold spores, house dust, and the family pet can be troublemakers at any time of the year. Tree pollens cause runny noses during the spring, and grass pollens are a problem in early summer.

Avoiding these causes can help alleviate hay fever. It's not always possible, but the new electronic air cleaners on the market can help.

The West Bend Company has developed a unit that removes up to 99 per cent of pollens and 90 per cent of all airborne dust, smog, and smoke, from the air passing through it.

Placed in an area where the allergic person spends most of his time — in the living room or bedroom, perhaps — the air cleaner can help reduce sneezing.

West Bend's electronic air cleaner needs no special wiring to operate. It simply plugs into an electric outlet and runs on less current than an ordinary 100-watt light bulb.

Ram Golf Leases Building In Centex

Ram Golf Corp. has leased the one-story 150,000 square feet office and warehouse building located at 1501 Pratt Blvd., Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village.

Ram, one of the world's largest manufacturers of golf equipment, is in the process of moving into the building.

According to Vito Scopa of Ram, this new facility will enable them to increase their factory operations in Pontotoc, Mississippi and Melrose Park, Ill. The corporate offices and distrubution operations will be moving from their Melrose Park plant to this facility. At the present time, Ram will only occupy 108,000 square feet and will lease the balance of 42,000 square feet on a short term basis.

The total consideration in this transaction was in excess of $3,500,000 and represents the largest deal in Centex Industrial Park this year.

Howard G. Krafsur of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates represented the lessor, Robin Construction Co., and Robert A. Relocation Service Business On Rise

Members of Inter-City Relocation Service served 27 per cent more families on the move and sold half again as many houses through the organization's referral program in August, as in the same month last year.

In doing so, they pushed results for the year through August past record-breaking totals for transferees referred, number of homes sold and dollar value of transactions reached in all of fiscal 1971. ICRS, the nation's leading real estate referral organization, has a Nov. 1-Oct. 31 fiscal year.

Record breaking activity so far in 1972 was reported by Stuart Edinoff of Gladstone Realtors, which represents ICRS in this area.

Cumulatively, Nov. 1, 1971, through Aug. 31, 1972, ICRS members produced 18.65 per cent more referrals — names and needs of people on the move sent to members at destination, so help in finding new homes can be provided — than in the year-earlier period.

ICRS members sold 39.14 per cent more homes to these relocating families, through August, 1972, than in the 10-month period ending August 31, 1971. And, reflecting higher house prices, total dollar value of the referral transactions was 46.89 per cent higher this year.

Happiness Is–Stonebridge For Kids

Little children, the bane of most rental unit landlords are welcomed and catered to by Hollywood Builders Stonebridge Hill luxury apartment management.

Stonebridge Hill in Arlington Heights provides more amenities for children than most developments provide for adults. The children from the 390 unit building complex, had their own Halloween Party on the premises.

The recreation center was reserved for the children on Halloween. The owners provided apples, pop, ice cream and games for the children.

THE CHILDREN of Stonebridge are shown free movies every Monday and Friday night in the recreation center. They feature popular cartoons and classic movies. In addition Stonebridge will have its own movie camera and projector to make home movies, Hoffman said.

The acres of grass and lawn are open to the children for running and playing, and the landscaped hills make "cowboys and Indians" more exciting. Next spring there will be a fort and Indian village available for summer playtime.

Every month Stonebridge hosts a free party with pop and ice cream, and also on special holidays like the Fourth of July and Halloween.

There are bicycle racks and storage areas for toys and athletic gear. Stonebridge also features bus tours to Santa's Village, the museums and other points of interest in the area.

A school bus is available for bad weather but most of the children walk two blocks to Ivy Hill Grade School or Rand Junior High School. There are no streets or highways for the children to cross on their way to and from school.

In the summer there are baseball teams for the older boys and year around sports and games for all ages.

STONEBRIDGE IS expanding its building to add a facility of 200 more units which will be available in April, May and June of 1973.

The two bedroom units all have two baths, a 16 by 12 master bedroom, a large living room, a 13 by 9 kitchen and a large family size dining room.

The apartments have all of the amenities plus super special extras, like an outlet for master TV antennas for reception of all Bear games.

Tennis courts, swimming pools, billiard tables, saunas and every type of recreation facility are also available.

3 Become Sales Associates With Starck Realtors

Nancy Jordan, Judy Szabo and Anthony Pavia recently became sales associate with Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors at the Schaumburg office. According to Robert W. Starck, the firm's president, the addition was necessary to supplement their service to the public in the area.

Mrs. Jordan and her husband Gary, who is the office manager for Schirmer Engineering in Niles, have resided in Schaumburg with their two sons for the last five years. A member of the Schaumburg Women's Club where she has served as their public relations secretary, Nancy majored in elementary education at Elmhurst College.

Mrs. Szabo and her family have lived in Schaumburg for the last four years. A graduate of Ball State Teachers College, Mrs. Szabo has donated time working as a volunteer for Saint Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove.

Raised on a Michigan farm Pavia still enjoys gardening at his residence in Rosemont. A member of the Loyola Community Theater Actors Club, he participated in a musical review of Backstage Onstage and was campaign manager for their interpretation of Hello Dolly.

Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors had additional offices in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates. They are members of Inter-City Relocation Service, a non-profit nationwide organization designed to facilitate people moving to another city.

Try The New Electronic Air Cleaners

For many people who suffer from allergies, sneezing doesn't stop when the ragweed season is past.

Mold spores, house dust, and the family pet can be troublemakers at any time of the year. Tree pollens cause runny noses during the spring, and grass pollens are a problem in early summer.

Avoiding these causes can help alleviate hay fever. It's not always possible, but the new electronic air cleaners on the market can help.

The West Bend Company has developed a unit that removes up to 99 per cent of pollens and 90 per cent of all airborne dust, smog, and smoke, from the air passing through it.

Placed in an area where the allergic person spends most of his time — in the living room or bedroom, perhaps — the air cleaner can help reduce sneezing.

West Bend's electronic air cleaner needs no special wiring to operate. It simply plugs into an electric outlet and runs on less current than an ordinary 100-watt light bulb.

Ram Golf Leases Building In Centex

Ram Golf Corp. has leased the one-story 150,000 square feet office and warehouse building located at 1501 Pratt Blvd., Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village.

Ram, one of the world's largest manufacturers of golf equipment, is in the process of moving into the building.

According to Vito Scopa of Ram, this new facility will enable them to increase their factory operations in Pontotoc, Mississippi and Melrose Park, Ill. The corporate offices and distrubution operations will be moving from their Melrose Park plant to this facility. At the present time, Ram will only occupy 108,000 square feet and will lease the balance of 42,000 square feet on a short term basis.

The total consideration in this transaction was in excess of $3,500,000 and represents the largest deal in Centex Industrial Park this year.

Howard G. Krafsur of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates represented the lessor, Robin Construction Co., and Robert A. Stone, also of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates, represented the lessee, Ram Golf Corp. Ben Ordower was the attorney for Robin and Jim Congur was legal counsel for Ram Golf. Financing was arranged by Al Behnke of Republic Mortage Co.

NI-Gas Offers Winter Tips

The north wind is beginning to blow — your cue to get your home ready for winter.

Besides your own comfort and the fuel dollars saved, you will be part of the current nationwide effort to conserve energy.

Winterizing your home can be as simple as arranging furniture so that registers and cold air returns aren't blocked.

Take advantage of days when the winter sun shines. Open shades, drapes and blinds and let the sun shine in — it will help heat the house and cut down on fuel bills. On those cold, gray days, however, minimize draft around windows by closing them tightly, pulling down shades and closing blinds and drapes to keep the heat indoors.

THE THERMOSTAT is the control center of your heating system and, used properly, can save you many dollars in annual heating costs. Unnecessary dial switching uses more gas. When the first cool days arrive, adjust the thermostat until you find a comfortable temperature, and then leave it there. Settings for each degree above the normal home comfort zone can increase your fuel bill as much as three per cent each month.

One of the most difficult heat-saving hints, but one worth remembering, is controlling the "traffic" in the house during cold weather. Remind children to close outside doors behind them and to keep the number of in and out trips within reason.

Though we all have fond memories of the warm cook stove, remember that today's gas ranges are for food preparation, not for heating the room.

If your basement, garage, attics or perhaps extra rooms aren't being used regularly, turn off registers and keep the doors closed. There is no need to heat unused space.

Fireplaces are a great addition to any home, but they can also add to the regular fuel bill if the damper is not closed when there is no fire. Just as a fireplace "draws" air up the chimney when in use, it also draws your heated air up and out — unless the damper is closed. If there is no damper, place a piece of insulating board or plywood in front of the fireplace opening.

Look In Phone Book For A Repair Shop

Although most of the times when something goes wrong with your electric appliance you can fix it yourself, there will be those times when you'll need the services of a trained appliance serviceman.

If you don't have a regular repairman you can find one in the classified section of your phone book under the name of the manufacturer who makes your appliance, or under "Appliances."

If there is no authorized dealer or service representative in your area, call the service department of your local electric utility.

However, before you call the serviceman check your manufacturer's warranty to see if it covers the cost of adjustments or repairs.

While the service department of an authorized dealer or manufacturer will do its best to give you prompt, efficient service, if you don't feel the results are satisfactory, don't hesitate to relay your dissatisfaction to the dealer. He's interested in keeping you as a customer.

If you don't get satisfaction from your dealer, however, as a final recourse you can write directly to the manufacturer or to MACAP — Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel — at 20 N. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

Before you leap for the phone, though, don't underestimate the power of the manufacturer's directions to keep you and your electric appliance happy. If you did not receive an instruction booklet, or have lost it, just ask your dealer or manufacturer for another copy. When you do, be sure to state the model number of your appliance, advises the Electric Energy Association.

REAL ESTATE FORECLOSURE sales for the first three-quarters of 1972 more than doubled over the same period two years ago, Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod said. His office handled 1,662 foreclosure sales through September.

This compares to 827 sales for the first nine months of 1970 and 1,247 sales for the first nine months of 1971. Bernard L. Stone, real estate supervisor for the sheriff, said that for the entire year of 1971 there were 1,695 foreclosure sales. "This means that we have almost equalled last year's foreclosure sales during the first nine months of this year," Stone said. "These foreclosures are a tragic commentary on our present economy. The majority of these sales involved single family residences owned by poor people who obtained federal financing during the past three years."

Briefly on Business

by LEA TONKIN

GUEST SPEAKER at today's meeting of the Northwest Suburban Manufacturers Association will be J. Terrence Brunner, executive director of the Better Government Association (BGA). The luncheon meeting will be held at the River Forest Country Club. Brunner was appointed to the BGA post in September, 1971. Since then, he has personally supervised investigations of waste on Cook County government, sheltered care facilities for the mentally ill, vote fraud in the 1972 primary election and other activities. He has a degree in political science from the University of Wisconsin and a law degree from Loyola University. Brunner has held positions as assistant U.S. attorney in Chicago; corporate attorney for Johnsons Wax; corporation counsel for Wausau County, Wis.; special attorney for the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section of the U.S. Department in Washington, D.C. Reservation information is available at the association office, 678-4366.

PALATINE SAVINGS AND LOAN Association recently passed the $50,000,000 mark in assets, according to Tony DiBenedetto, executive vice president and chief operating officer. Palatine Savings showed assets of $50,494,610 for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30. This is almost an $11 million increase from $39,850,717 a year ago. Located at 100 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, the association is offering a holiday catalog to encourage saving. Items vary from children's toys to jade carvings and genstone tables. Additional information on the catalog and a marketing test of jade and gemstone pieces is available at the association.

LAND TRUST SEMINAR was recently sponsored by the First National Bank of Des Plaines. The meeting, hosted by bank president Arthur R. Weiss, is among a series of community events planned by the bank to commemorate its 60th year of service. The principal speakers for the seminar were James S. Sheldon, bank vice president and trust officer; and Bruce McPhee, assistant vice president of the bank. Approximately 100 persons attended the Des Plaines seminar.

JOANNA WESTERN Mills Co. recently broke ground for a one-story 16,000 square foot building, at 1515 Louis Ave., Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village. The new facility will replace their present north side Chicago location. Robert A. Stone of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates was the sole broker for the long term build-to-suit lease transaction. The total consideration was in excess of $325,000. Missner Construction Co. of Skokie is the general contractor.

REAL ESTATE FORECLOSURE sales for the first three-quarters of 1972 more than doubled over the same period two years ago, Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod said. His office handled 1,662 foreclosure sales through September.

This compares to 827 sales for the first nine months of 1970 and 1,247 sales for the first nine months of 1971. Bernard L. Stone, real estate supervisor for the sheriff, said that for the entire year of 1971 there were 1,695 foreclosure sales. "This means that we have almost equalled last year's foreclosure sales during the first nine months of this year," Stone said. "These foreclosures are a tragic commentary on our present economy. The majority of these sales involved single family residences owned by poor people who obtained federal financing during the past three years."

GUEST SPEAKER at the Nov. 27 meeting of the North Shore Chapter, Data Processing Management Association, will be George Ravazzolo. He is president of Advance Systems, Inc., Elk Grove Village. Data processing management in the seventies will be discussed by Ravazzolo. He is a former IBM employe and a permanent guest lecturer on the subject of financial management at the IBM Management Development Center. The meeting will be held at the O'Hare Officers Club, O'Hare International Airport. The session will begin at 5:15 p.m.

DANIEL LEVITAN of Tekton, Inc. in Hinsdale, was recently elected 1973 president of the Young Builders Council of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland. Levitan has served this year as vice president of the council. Others elected at the council's October meeting to serve in the new year are Michael Walsh of The Kennedy Co., first vice president; Ed Niemietz of Chicago Title Insurance Co., second vice president; Cliff Markee of the Kepler Co., treasurer; and Phil Markiewicz of Dell Corp., secretary. The new officers will be installed at an inaugural ball to be held on Friday, Nov. 17, at the Seven Eagles in Des Plaines. Cocktails will be served at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m., followed by the installation ceremony and dancing to the music of Sol Bobrov and his orchestra. Reservations for the inaugural ball may be made by calling Kate Jones at the Home Builders office, 782-8657.

J. W. Woodard Seeks Patent

John W. Woodward, 918 Sharon Ln., Schaumburg, of the switching laboratories of GTE Automatic Electric, Northlake, has applied for a United States patent.

Woodward is the inventor of a testing circuit for detecting and responding to the status of a called line in a telephone system.

Named General Accounting Head

Wayne H. Golwitzer of Arlington Heights, has been appointed superintendent of general accounting for Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, transmission subsidiary of Peoples Gas Co. of Chicago.

Wayne Golwitzer

In this new position, Golwitzer will be responsible for the daily accounting activities of one of the country's largest energy suppliers, which serves some 44 gas utility distributors in 12 Midwestern states.

Golwitzer became associated with the Peoples Gas system in 1954 in a training program for college graduates and has held various accounting positions on the controller's staff during his 18-year career. In 1970, he was appointed superintendent of the parent company's corporate accounting and budgeting department, the position he held prior to this recent appointment.

He earned a bachelor of arts degree with honors from Lake Forest College and holds a master's degree in business administration from Northwestern University.

Larrick Named Asst. Manager Distributor Sales

Richard A. Larrick of Schaumburg, has been named assistant manager of distributor sales for Dearborn Chemical Division, Chemed Corporation, and will be located at the Division's executive headquarters in Lake Zurich.

He has been associated with Dearborn Chemical since 1960, and has served as director of analytical services, product manager and regional specialist. For six years prior to joining Dearborn, he was employed by General Electric Company as a supervisor of material testing and analysis and an analytical chemist.

Larrick holds a bachelor of science degree in chemistry from Virginia Military Institute. He is a member of the American Chemical Society.

Agents Honored

Mr. and Mrs. John Stoltz of Arlington Heights attended a regional conference for outstanding Illinois State Farm Insurance agents recently at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

At the conference, 1,350 agents, agency managers and wives were guests at a special 50th anniversary celebration for Staze Farm's parent firm, State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., which was formed June 6, 1922, in Bloomington, Ill.

Lyle Schapler To Manage Sheraton Inn

Lyle D. Schapler of Elk Grove Village, has been appointed general manager of the Sheraton Inn-Walden, said Patrick J. McCann, vice president, Walden Investment Corp., developers.

Schapler will open the 200-room inn, first lodging facility in Schaumburg in early December. The inn is located at Walden, new residential-commercial community on Algonquin Road, just west of the Ill. Rte. 53 interchange at the Northwest Tollway.

Prior to joining Walden, Schapler was manager of Arlington Park Towers Hotel for three years.

He began his hotel management career at the Palmer House in Chicago where he worked for 10 years in managerial positions. In 1963 he joined the Albert Pick chain holding several posts including manager of Albert Pick Motel in Rockford and executive assistant manager of the Pick Congress Hotel, Chicago.

He is an alumnus of Amundsen Junior College and was the instructor of a hotel management course at the College of DuPage.

Among his affiliations are memberships in the Chicago Hotel Motel Association; Hotel Sales Management Association; Chicago and Illinois Restaurant Association, and Catering Executives of Greater Chicago.

Coin collectors can keep abreast of new issues and values, every Thursday in the HERALD.

WANT THE IMPOSSIBLE?
I strongly recommend contacting Faye Harris, Rich Port Realtors, 882-9200. Thanks to this charming lady's dedication, we've found & purchased a home that's ideal for our family; an exceptionally good value & with better financing than we ever believed possible. She'll probably perform a similar miracle for you. By the way, this public expression of gratitude was my own idea, my own words & at my own expense. Paul Fauteck, 296-2130.

WANT THE IMPOSSIBLE?

I strongly recommend contacting Faye Harris, Rich Port Realtors, 882-9200. Thanks to this charming lady's dedication, we've found & purchased a home that's ideal for our family; an exceptionally good value & with better financing than we ever believed possible. She'll probably perform a similar miracle for you. By the way, this public expression of gratitude was my own idea, my own words & at my own expense. Paul Fauteck, 296-2130.

Giraffes is big.

Cantilever had 2 big problems. He needed an apartment with LARGE rooms. And, he had Lochinvar.

On the second Tuesday in July, Lochinvar had fallen asleep standing up in the middle of Buckingham Fountain and deflected water in waves over Michigan Avenue, canceling the annual parade of the Boosters Of Old Barsongs, better known by their initials.

Lochnivar had, on more than one occasion, caused Cantilever to be hailed before the authorities as an accessory on a "Peeping Tom" charge.

Disgruntled beyond belief, Cantilever went apartment hunting and found: Brookwoods. Now, Cantilever has a very large apartment overlooking the woods. Lochnivar's head can hardly be seen among the maples. And, the neighbors have accepted his occasional glance through a kitchen window at mealtime. GOT SOMETHING TO SELL?
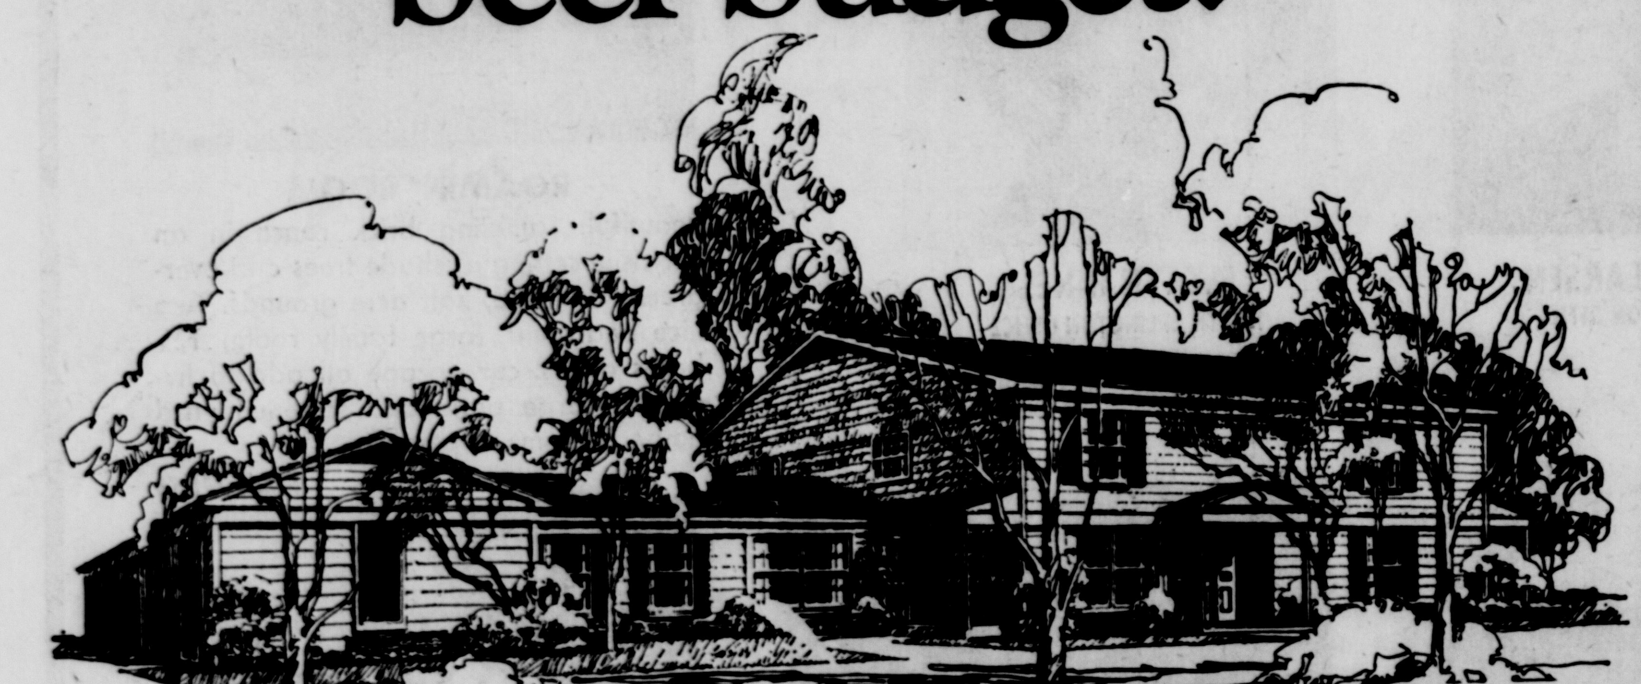
DON'T STORE IT . . . SELL IT
CALL OUR HELPFUL "AD-VISORS"

Own a champagne house on a beer budget.



If you've got a taste for the better things in life, but not the bankroll to match, this house is made for you.

For just $21,990. For real. Thanks to a revolutionary way of building that does for houses what Henry Ford did for cars.

We put five fabulous homes under just one roof. So they'd look like just one very big, very handsome house. And so we could split up the cost five ways.

We also manufactured all the parts we could. So they'd cost less and be made better. And we built all our houses in clusters. So every one would look out on a super-colossal front yard (instead of the typical, tiny front- and backyard). So we could even save you money on land.

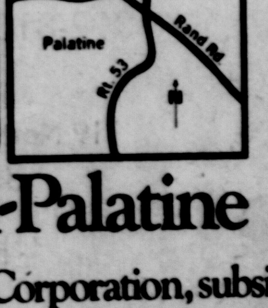
As for the inside, it's a dream. Big and cozy. Two bedrooms. Carpeting wall to wall. GE oven-range, refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher and disposer. Individual central heating and air conditioning. Storage space. Enclosed garage.

And privacy aplenty, from your own entrance to special sound-engineered walls that hush all the noise.

There's more. Something you'd hardly expect to get for $21,990. No maintenance. Nothing to interfere with the way you spend your free time. All for just $1100 down and a total monthly payment of $153.* And the closing costs are on us.

Of course, you may want another bedroom. Fine. You've also got your choice of three-bedroom floor plans. And four- or five-family homes, in ten exterior designs and one or two stories. (We think variety is the spice of homes, too.) Whatever, you can't spend more than $25,750.

You're welcome to see our model homes Sun.-Fri. 10 a.m.-8 p.m., Sat. 10 a.m.-6 p.m. We're in Palatine. On Baldwin Road, north of Dundee (Rt. 68) between Rand and I-53. At 1200 E. Gardenia Lane. Ivy Glen. Handsome two- and three-bedroom homes from $21,990. (312) 359-9212.



Ivy Glen-Palatine

A development of Building Systems Housing Corporation, subsidiary of Building Systems, Inc.

*Loan of $20,890 with 348 monthly payments of 7.78% simple interest, reflecting an 8.37% annual percentage rate. Payment includes principal and interest ($152.79) as well as mortgage insurance ($4.34). Condominium fee of $35.00 (est.) and taxes of $50.99 (est.) are extra per month.

This Traditional Home in Algonquin is Completely Furnished and Landscaped For Your Inspection

Our new 2 story model is traditional and we furnished it lovingly with lovely old furniture. We've included many of the priority items most desired by our customers through the years.

- 4 bedrooms
- 2½ baths
- Lots of closets
- 1st floor utility room
- clothes chute
- full basement
- 2-car plus garage
- Ceramic tiled entry hall
- Beautiful Antiqued wood cabinets in the kitchen
- Sunken family room with rough cedar paneling
- Fireplace and wet bar
- Living room and good size dining room (with Williamsburg windows)
- Deluxe KitchenAid dishwasher, disposer, deluxe Tappan range, huge pantry and broom closet.

The bay window eating area has a large built-in brick Bar-b-que and much. more, come see for yourselves as you have in the past.

CLIP THIS AD AND WATCH FOR HUNTINGTON HILLS SIGNS.

Our new subdivision is high up on the hills overlooking the Fox River Valley in the lovely town of Algonquin with its delightful old houses and huge trees. Robert Coffin, AIA of Barrington, has designed us a Bavarian style clubhouse to shelter the swimming pool and recreational areas. Stables are on the property and we plan tennis courts.
A golf course could come later if there is enough demand. The property is large and beautiful with lovely views, some wooded areas and a country feeling within the village limits of Algonquin.

Model house open Tues. thru Sun. 1-5 p.m. (closed Mon.)
It's truly country living, with the convenience of sewers and water, paved streets, and all the utilities underground.

GOT SOMETHING TO SELL?
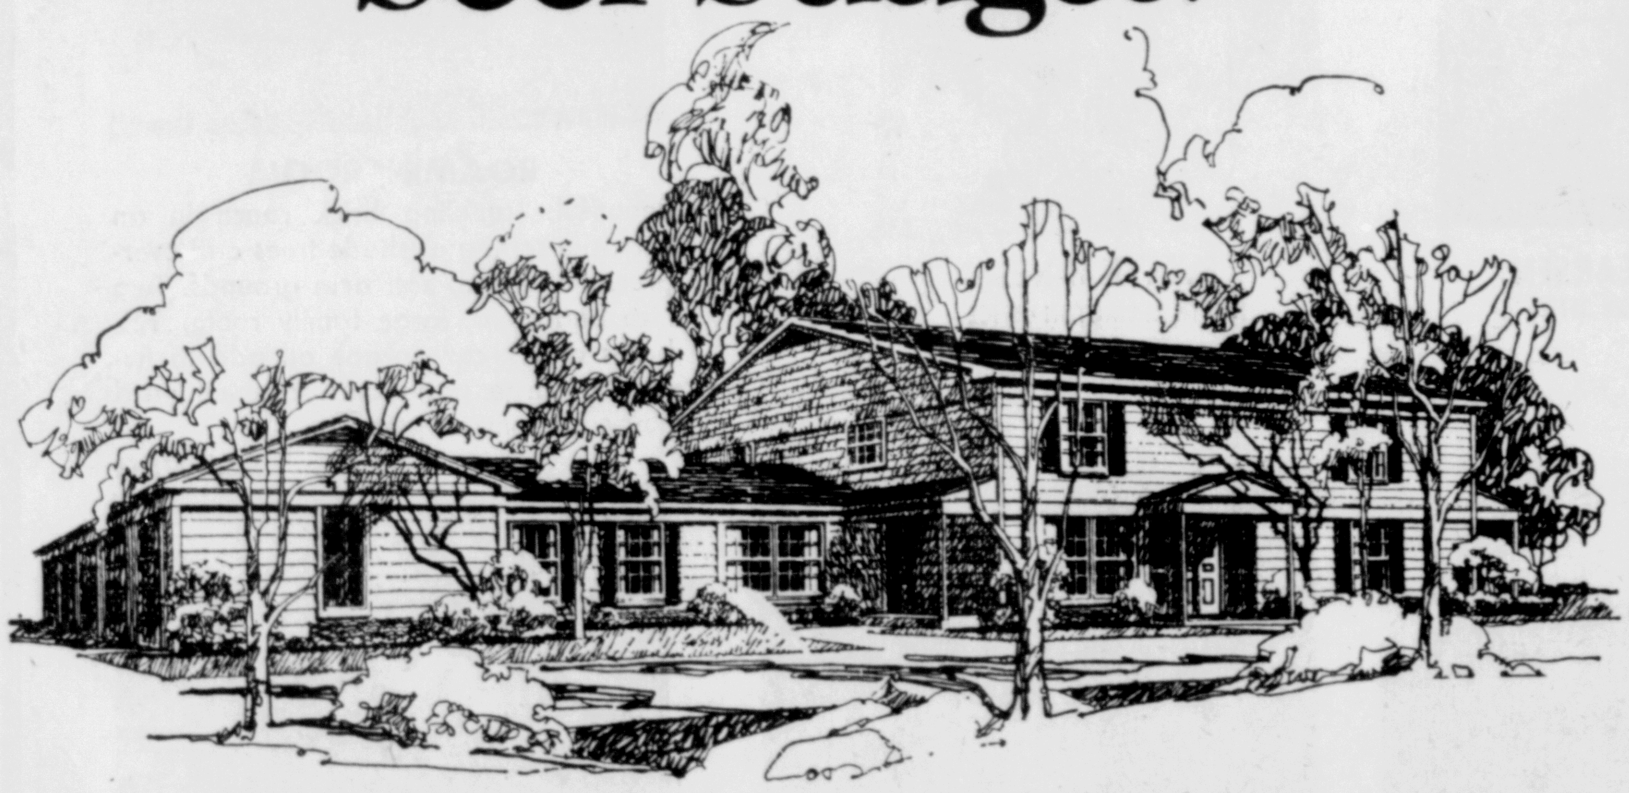
CALL OUR HELPFUL "AD-VISORS"

Own a champagne house on a beer budget.



If you've got a taste for the better things in life, but not the bankroll to match, this house is made for you.

For just $21,990. For real. Thanks to a revolutionary way of building that does for houses what Henry Ford did for cars.

We put five fabulous homes under just one roof. So they'd look like just one very big, very handsome house. And so we could split up the cost five ways.

We also manufactured all the parts we could. So they'd cost less and be made better. And we built all our houses in clusters. So every one would look out on a super-colossal front yard (instead of the typical, tiny front- and backyard). So we could even save you money on land.

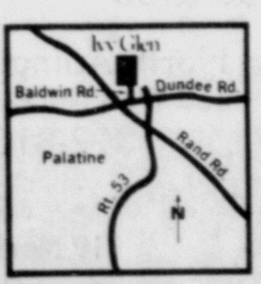
As for the inside, it's a dream. Big and cozy. Two bedrooms. Carpeting wall to wall. GE oven-range, refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher and disposer. Individual central heating and air conditioning. Storage space. Enclosed garage.

And privacy aplenty, from your own entrance to special sound-engineered walls that hush all the noise.

There's more. Something you'd hardly expect to get for $21,990. No maintenance. Nothing to interfere with the way you spend your free time. All for just $1100 down and a total monthly payment of $153.* And the closing costs are on us.

Of course, you may want another bedroom. Fine. You've also got your choice of three-bedroom floor plans. And four- or five-family homes, in ten exterior designs and one or two stories. (We think variety is the spice of homes, too.) Whatever, you can't spend more than $25,750.

You're welcome to see our model homes Sun.-Fri. 10 a.m.-8 p.m., Sat. 10 a.m.-6 p.m. We're in Palatine. On Baldwin Road, north of Dundee (Rt. 68) between Rand and I-53. At 1200 E. Gardenia Lane. Ivy Glen. Handsome two- and three-bedroom homes from $21,990. (312) 359-9212.



Ivy Glen-Palatine

A development of Building Systems Housing Corporation, subsidiary of Building Systems, Inc.

*Loan of $20,890 with 348 monthly payments of 7.78% simple interest, reflecting an 8.37% annual percentage rate. Payment includes principal and interest ($152.79) as well as mortgage insurance ($4.34). Condominium fee of $35.00 (est.) and taxes of $50.99 (est.) are extra per month.

Our New MODEL HOME is OPEN in HUNTINGTON HILLS

FULLY IMPROVED HOMESITES
— start at $9,500 (100'x150')
WOODED ACRES
— fully improved $15,000

CLIP THIS AD AND WATCH FOR HUNTINGTON HILLS SIGNS.

Our new subdivision is high up on the hills overlooking the Fox River Valley in the lovely town of Algonquin with its delightful old houses and huge trees.
Robert Coffin, AIA of Barrington, has designed us a Bavarian style clubhouse to shelter the swimming pool and recreational areas. Stables are on the property and we plan tennis courts.
A golf course could come later if there is enough demand. The property is large and beautiful with lovely views, some wooded areas and a country feeling within the village limits of Algonquin.

Model house open Tues. thru Sun. 1-5 p.m. (closed Mon.)
It's truly country living, with the convenience of sewers and water, paved streets, and all the utilities underground.

ANNOUNCEMENT

AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT.

HELP WANTED headings directed specifically toward either men or women are used merely for the convenience of our readers, to let them know which jobs have historically been more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. The placement of an ad under a heading is not in itself an expression of a preference, limitation, specification or discrimination based on sex. For further information contact the Wage and Hour Division Office of U.S. Department of Labor at 4032 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago, Illinois. Telephone (312) 736-2909.

GO-GO GIRLS NEEDED AT LITTELFUSE?

Not quite! But we are in need of energetic ladies for our Assembly Operations on the Second Shift (5 P.M. to 1 A.M.).

Experience isn't necessary, but a desire to earn money is.

Working conditions are not exotic but they are quite pleasant.

Perhaps you'll never have the opportunity to be a Go-Go Girl, but you certainly were offered a chance to be an ASSEMBLER with a company on the GO!

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

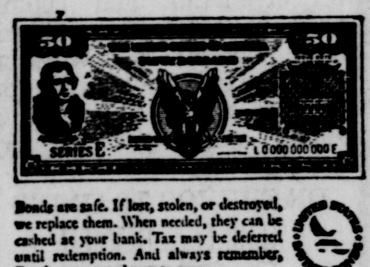
Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.



Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

CBS Confirms Cancellations

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — CBS-TV has confirmed the midseason cancellation of two weekly series that ran into ratings trouble despite their well known stars: Yul Brynner and Sandy Duncan.

At the same time, the network also announced that veteran trouper Buddy Ebsen, the father in CBS-TV's former hit series "The Beverly Hillbillies," will return at midseason starring in a new weekly hour as a private investigator.

Brynner's half-hour situation comedy series, "Anna and the King," in which he reprised his stage and movie role as the autocratic 19th century Siamese monarch who hires an attractive woman schoolteacher from the Western world for his royal household, has never caught on in the ratings. Handsomely mounted, it is a period situation comedy — a rarity for commercial video. Samantha Eggar portrays the teacher.

MISS DUNCAN also has a half-hour situation comedy, playing a young woman studying for a teaching degree who works part-time to support herself, with her jobs including appearances in television commercials.

Ebsen's new series, tentatively titled "Barnaby Cobb," will be seen Sunday nights beginning Jan. 28. Though known best on video for his role in the slapstick entry "The Beverly Hillbillies," he is a versatile performer, at home in drama and musical numbers as well as comedy.

CBS-TV's midseason changes will include some shuffling around of other series in hopes of strengthening its position. For example, Dick Van Dyke's weekly half-hour comedy, also in ratings trouble since being moved from Satudays to Sundays where it is up against ABC-TV's big movies and NBC-TV's Falk — Judson — Boone — Weaver combine, will take over Brynner's time slot, opposite the Disney series as of Jan. 7.

The "Mannix" private eye series, also currently being roughed up by ABC-TV's Sunday movies and the four-star combine on NBC-TV will be moved to an earlier time period the one Miss Duncan is vacating so it can start even with Falk, Hudson, Boone and Weaver, and get a half-hour jump on the motion pictures. This takes place Jan. 7 too.

Carol Burnett's variety series will be switched from its current Wednesday spot, where it leads off the network's prime time schedule, to the late Saturday night period now occupied by "Mission: Impossible," effective Dec. 16. "Mission: Impossible" moves to early Friday night, replacing the Sonny and Cher variety series on Dec. 22. and Sonny and Cher take over Miss Burnett's Wednesday time period on Dec. 20.

For the record, by the way, "All in the Family" is still the solid winner in the competition for television's no. 1-rated show in the national ratings for the week ending Nov. 5. ABC-TV's "Marcus Welby, M.D." is a distant second.

What's Ahead On TV

JIM HENSON'S Muppets will be part of the Perry Como special on CBS Dec. 6. Henson will present some new puppets as well as the familiar Muppets of "Sesame Street."

A FORTHCOMING made-for-video movie, "Tenafly," one of NBC's "World Premiere" films, has James McEachin playing a black private investigator involved in the murder of the wife of a controversial talk-show host.

FEB. 11 is the date for a 90-minute CBS special titled "Duke Ellington. . . We Love You Madly." The noted musician will appear on the show along with a couple of dozen stars paying tribute to his talent as a composer and orchestra leader during a career that began in 1916.

HOSTS FOR the annual New York City Thanksgiving Macy parade on NBC Nov 23 will be Joe Garagiola, Lorne Greene and Betty White, who are no strangers to such an assignment.

ONE OF THE JEWEL COMPANIES

The Hollywood Scene

by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Burl Ives has aptly cut a new recording titled "Stayin' Song."

Hardly anyone with a guitar and a repertoire of folk songs has stayed around as long as the portly troubadour who doubles as actor and cracker barrel philosopher.

Ives has been on the scene more than 35 years and has recorded no fewer than 800 songs, mostly ballads, chanties, children's songs and standards that have sprung from the people across the country. He hesitates to define folk music, however.

"The academic community defines folk music as that which comes from folk people with verses added to the original down through the years," he said. "That doesn't suit me.

"It's the texture of the song, not the genealogy of it, that makes the difference to me.

"WOODY GUTHRIE wrote a great deal of folk music. But he hasn't been tampered with much. And Bobby Dylan has the same kind of talent for writing folk songs. Old Leadbelly was a real singer of the people.

"My own songs are slicker and more knowing because of my background and education. That makes a difference."

Ives is well educated and musically knowledgeable, having studied at famed Juilliard. He is also a sophisticated man who has managed to amass a fortune and remain in the public eye long after his contemporaries have sunk without a trace.

"At one time my catalog of albums was 72 or 73 in record stores," he said in his Hollywood Hills home. "Now only five — the best five — are still on the market.

"The reason is that record stores are all beginning to look like head shops. Older people aren't buying records as they once did. The kids want to hear new groups and pop music, which is a different kettle of fish from folk music.

"I HAD A RUN of popular songs in the early 1960s: 'Little Bit of Tear,' 'Funny Way of Laughing,' 'Mr. Inbetween' and 'Pearly Shells.'

"They were country and western songs, mainly. Now the trend seems to be away from that area."

Ever the optimist, Ives bought his new house expecting his television series, "The Bold Ones," to be renewed. It wasn't. Now he's stuck with two homes. The other is south of Santa Fe, N.M.

"Hard work is the secret to my longevity in this business," he said. "I've always kept trying. Also, I enjoy what I'm doing and appreciate my modest success. It's propelled me on.

"But I don't look back very often. The future is what interests me because that's where I'm headed."

It's significant that Ives' newest album is titled "The Best Is Yet To Come."

The Lighter Side

A Star-tling Contradiction

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some months ago, I began experiencing deep inner conflicts, as though two opposing forces were tugging at my psyche.

From what little I had read from Freud, I feared this could be a sign of incipient schizophrenia. So I began examining my life style and habits to see if environmental pressures might be causing cleavage in my subconscious.

It took a while, but I think I have finally discovered the cause of my turmoil.

In my perusal of newspapers, I come in daily contact with two syndicated astrology columns. And although not exactly a devotee of zodiacal prescience — I'm more the Ouija type — I usually glance at the horoscopes to see what the stars have in store for us Capricorns.

Therein lies the rub.

Not long ago I started comparing the horoscopes prepared by Astrologist A with those charted by Astrologist B.

Curiously, I found that they rarely bore any similarity to each other. Indeed, more often than not they appeared to be at odds.

It was almost as if the two astrologists were using different zodiacs, so disparate were they about my fate on any given day.

Example: On one given day recently, Astrologist A advised me: "Expand horizons." Meanwhile, Astrologist B cautioned: "What seems clear to you may not look so to others."

THESE ADMONITIONS are contradictory to say the least. For how could it be a good day for horizon expanding if these activities left everybody else in the dark?

On the next given day, Astrologist B's unclearness forecast was expanded to include me as well. "What seemed well established turns out vague," she predicted.

But on that same given day, right in the face of Astrologist B's impending vagueness, Astrologist A assured me that "Aquarius and Leo persons will come into focus." No wonder I felt inwardly divergent and torn between antitheses.

Had I been deeply enmeshed in astrology, I probably would have noticed such discrepancies early on and discarded one or the other of the prophecies.

But as a casual glancer at horoscopes, I put them out of my conscious mind almost immediately. Just enough of the conflict seeped into my brain to start a tug of war in my psyche and give me the foreboding feeling of having mismatched destinies.

From now on, I'm sticking to Chinese fortune cookies.

Veterans' News

Q — How long can I go to school under the GI Bill?

A — You are entitled to 1½ months of schooling for every month of active duty after Jan. 31, 1955, up to a maximum of 36 months for 18 or more months of service. However, no educational assistance may be paid after eight years from date of your last discharge, or after May 31, 1974, whichever is later.

Q — I'm drawing VA compensation for a 100 per cent service connected disability, and the agency has granted a waiver on my GI life insurance premiums. Should I return the insurance dividend check I received recently, since I pay no premiums?

A — No. You are entitled to the dividend. Under the waiver provision of your policy, the insurance continues in force as though premiums are being paid.

Q — If my job requires transfer to another location can I be released from liability for a home purchased with a GI loan?

A — Yes if the loan is current, the buyer agrees to assume your liability, and VA accepts him as a good credit risk. A release from liability does not automatically restore your GI home loan entitlement, however. Entitlement may be restored only if the loan has been repaid in full.

Q. — Who approves schools or institutions for training under the GI Bill?

A — That responsibility falls to the states, each of which has an approving agency.

Q — Are women veterans eligible for VA pension?

A — Yes. Some 10,000, or about .9 per cent of the total number of veterans on VA pension rolls, are women.

Q — I have National Service Life Insurance that has been in force under the ordinary life plan since 1945. If I discontinue premiums and take out a paid-up policy, will my dividends be discontinued?

A — No, but dividends will not be as large as those on your present policy. If you take out a paid-up policy, the amount of insurance in force will be less than the present face value of your policy, and dividends will be computed on the reduced amount.

The Hollywood Scene

by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Burl Ives has aptly cut a new recording titled "Stayin' Song."

Hardly anyone with a guitar and a repertoire of folk songs has stayed around as long as the portly troubadour who doubles as actor and cracker barrel philosopher.

Ives has been on the scene more than 35 years and has recorded no fewer than 800 songs, mostly ballads, chanties, children's songs and standards that have sprung from the people across the country. He hesitates to define folk music, however.

"The academic community defines folk music as that which comes from folk people with verses added to the original down through the years," he said. "That doesn't suit me.

"It's the texture of the song, not the genealogy of it, that makes the difference to me.

"WOODY GUTHRIE wrote a great deal of folk music. But he hasn't been tampered with much. And Bobby Dylan has the same kind of talent for writing folk songs. Old Leadbelly was a real singer of the people.

"My own songs are slicker and more knowing because of my background and education. That makes a difference."

Ives is well educated and musically knowledgeable, having studied at famed Juilliard. He is also a sophisticated man who has managed to amass a fortune and remain in the public eye long after his contemporaries have sunk without a trace.

"At one time my catalog of albums was 72 or 73 in record stores," he said in his Hollywood Hills home. "Now only five — the best five — are still on the market.

"The reason is that record stores are all beginning to look like head shops. Older people aren't buying records as they once did. The kids want to hear new groups and pop music, which is a different kettle of fish from folk music.

"I HAD A RUN of popular songs in the early 1960s: 'Little Bit of Tear,' 'Funny Way of Laughing,' 'Mr. Inbetween' and 'Pearly Shells.'

"They were country and western songs, mainly. Now the trend seems to be away from that area."

Ever the optimist, Ives bought his new house expecting his television series, "The Bold Ones," to be renewed. It wasn't. Now he's stuck with two homes. The other is south of Santa Fe, N.M.

"Hard work is the secret to my longevity in this business," he said. "I've always kept trying. Also, I enjoy what I'm doing and appreciate my modest success. It's propelled me on.

"But I don't look back very often. The future is what interests me because that's where I'm headed."

It's significant that Ives' newest album is titled "The Best Is Yet To Come."

The Lighter Side

A Star-tling Contradiction

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some months ago, I began experiencing deep inner conflicts, as though two opposing forces were tugging at my psyche.

From what little I had read from Freud, I feared this could be a sign of incipient schizophrenia. So I began examining my life style and habits to see if environmental pressures might be causing cleavage in my subconscious.

It took a while, but I think I have finally discovered the cause of my turmoil.

In my perusal of newspapers, I come in daily contact with two syndicated astrology columns. And although not exactly a devotee of zodiacal prescience — I'm more the Ouija type — I usually glance at the horoscopes to see what the stars have in store for us Capricorns.

Crime Fight Tool-Automated Microfilm Speeds Process

by FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

A few years ago it often took police hours — even days — to retrieve fingerprint information from paper print cards that might be of aid in identifying a criminal suspect.

Recently, a police technician in Birmingham, Ala., matched a fingerprint found at the scene of a burglary to one on file in only eight seconds. A new crime fighting tool — automated microfilm information retrieval—made the difference.

Until 1968 the search and compare operation involving fingerprints, mug shots, and other identifying information was strictly manual. Then the Atlanta Police Department installed an electronic microfilm information retrieval system that opened a new era in crime detection. Fingerprints now can be scanned in the flash of an electronic eye.

'Recently a police technician matched a fingerprint found at the scene of a burglary to one on file in only 8 seconds.'

"WHEN WE SEARCHED manually, I spent as much as seven and a half hours on a single print," said Lloyd Hansen, senior fingerprint technician on the Birmingham force. "Not long ago we identified suspects in two burglary cases before the detective bureau had assigned men to begin investigations."

Today, nearly 80 law enforcement agencies from Florida to Alaska have the technical means of scanning up to 900 sets of fingerprints a minute. Several systems have been tested but the field is dominated by Miracode, developed by Eastman Kodak which has been in the microfilming business for nearly a quarter of a century.

Characteristics of fingerprints, such as pattern type and ridge count, are coded and fed into a Miracode machine by a technician using keyboard buttons similar to those on an adding machine. The machine scans microfilm file prints until it finds a print that matches the coded instructions. The print is flashed on a television-like screen where it is inspected visually by a police expert to confirm the identification.

"We have made 50 fingerprint identifications this year using the microfilm scanning system," reported J. W. Moore, senior supervisor of identification in the Atlanta police department. "That's the best we've ever done in the five years we have used the system.

"For one thing, we had only 1,100 filmed prints in our file in 1968 and now we have 34,000. For another, we can search prints back to 1967 now and clear up cases that might never have been cleared up. Within 18 months of installation the system helped clear up 200 unsolved felony cases through apprehension of 40 persons.

"We had a robbery-murder case the other day and one of those involved tore open an envelope to get the money. We got fingerprints from the envelope and within an hour and a half we knew who one of the perpetrators was. It's a terrific aid."

More pointed out that the quick scanning system makes it possible to make an identification with only one fingerprint knowledge of which finger it is — something that would have been too time consuming as a manual operation.

If the specific finger is known it makes identification faster because that information is coded on the microfilm. Coded information about the suspect's race, sex and criminal specialty can reduce the search to seconds.

One of the factors behind the switch to automation by city and state police is the availability of matching federal funds for the purchase of microfilm information retrieval equipment under the 1968 Omnibus Crime Control Act. Some $700 million was available this year.

'Not long ago we identified suspects in two burglary cases before the detective bureau had assigned men to begin investigations.'

The new systems have multiple uses which make them even more attractive to police agencies and can reduce file space required for records by 90 per cent.

For instance, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., police have fast access to microfilm information on 36,000 local auto licenses — who owns the car, whether it is stolen and whether the owner has an arrest record. In Baton Rouge, La., police use the system for record handling, resulting in the release of five patrolmen from paper work.

PALM BEACH, COUNTY, Fla., is the most sophisticated user of Miracode equipment, keeping microfilm files on fingerprints, mug shots, organized crime, vice and narcotics offenses, unsolved burglaries, confidential information, lost and stolen articles, jail records, routine offense reports, and unattended deaths. The sheriff's office also is planning files on unsolved robberies and sex crimes.

New York, with its vast police files, uses a computerized system that supplies about 10 possible suspects for each fingerprint or mug shot and the final determination is made through a visual search of print cards and photographs.

The FBI, which has the largest fingerprint file in the world — 196 million — currently is trying out a $1.25 million prototype system designed and built by Cornell Aeronautical Laboratories, Buffalo, N.Y. Fingerprint photos are not microfilmed but scanned for identifying data which is fed into a computer.

The bureau expects to eliminate 2,000 of the 3,300 technicians and clerks now used for processing 30,000 fingerprint cards a day and save $14 million annually when its identification system is fully automated and computerized.

Welfare Council Holds Meeting; Outlines Goals

The Northwest Suburban Welfare Council (NSWC) held its monthly meeting at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, Des Plaines, recently. Larry Renetsky, president of the NSWC and counselor for Niles Family Service, presided. The program was a presentation by the United States Social Security Administration on the services available at the Des Plaines office and the new Arlington Heights office.

The NSWC is composed of social, health, education, recreation and welfare agencies and departments of government engaged in activities, private or public, which are concerned with social services in the following townships; Maine, Wheeling, Palatine, Hanover, Barrington, Elk Grove and Schaumburg. Agencies may hold membership as may individuals.

The goals of the council are:

—To establish closer working relationships, to reduce duplication of effort, and to stimulate cooperation;

—To discover new or unmet needs of these communities and to seek ways in which improvement of existing services could be made;

—To inform the public regarding the work of the social and welfare agencies in these communities; and

—To publish a yearly directory of Social Services for the area.

THE COUNCIL MEETS monthly on the second Thursday of each month at the YMCA in Des Plaines. The next meeting of the council will be Dec. 14 and election of officers for 1973 will take pace.

Tom Jauck, Northwest Human Resources Development Center of Rolling Meadows, has been nominated president. Gary Rankin, Harper College counseling department has been nominated for 1st vice-president and program chairman. Two members are proposed for 2nd vice president and membership chairmen — Caryl Austin, Chicago Lung Association which was formerly the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County; and Esther Rabchuk, Volunteer Service Bureau, Northwest Cook County. George Theodore, Hweeling High School, will continue as secretary.

The Social Services Directory published by the council lists services such as ambulance, alcoholism, blood banks, child care institutes, counseling and mental health services, drug abuse resources, dental aid, emergency room medical services, services for handicapped, nursing and home care services, hospitals, hot lines, medical assistance (financial), mental retardation agencies, nurses club lending closets, nursing homes, poison control and information centers, post operative services, public health agencies, rehabilitation services, unwed mothers, venereal disease, and voluntary health agencies. A limited number of these directories are available for a small fee.

by FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

A few years ago it often took police hours — even days — to retrieve fingerprint information from paper print cards that might be of aid in identifying a criminal suspect.

Recently, a police technician in Birmingham, Ala., matched a fingerprint found at the scene of a burglary to one on file in only eight seconds. A new crime fighting tool — automated microfilm information retrieval—made the difference.

Until 1968 the search and compare operation involving fingerprints, mug shots, and other identifying information was strictly manual. Then the Atlanta Police Department installed an electronic microfilm information retrieval system that opened a new era in crime detection. Fingerprints now can be scanned in the flash of an electronic eye.

> 'Recently a police technician matched a fingerprint found at the scene of a burglary to one on file in only 8 seconds.'

"WHEN WE SEARCHED manually, I spent as much as seven and a half hours on a single print," said Lloyd Hansen, senior fingerprint technician on the Birmingham force. "Not long ago we identified suspects in two burglary cases before the detective bureau had assigned men to begin investigations."

Today, nearly 80 law enforcement agencies from Florida to Alaska have the technical means of scanning up to 900 sets of fingerprints a minute. Several systems have been tested but the field is dominated by Miracode, developed by Eastman Kodak which has been in the microfilming business for nearly a quarter of a century.

Characteristics of fingerprints, such as pattern type and ridge count, are coded and fed into a Miracode machine by a technician using keyboard buttons similar to those on an adding machine. The machine scans microfilm file prints until it finds a print that matches the coded instructions. The print is flashed on a television-like screen where it is inspected visually by a police expert to confirm the identification.

"We have made 50 fingerprint identifications this year using the microfilm scanning system," reported J. W. Moore, senior supervisor of identification in the Atlanta police department. "That's the best we've ever done in the five years we have used the system.

"For one thing, we had only 1,100 filmed prints in our file in 1968 and now we have 34,000. For another, we can search prints back to 1967 now and clear up cases that might never have been cleared up. Within 18 months of installation the system helped clear up 200 unsolved felony cases through apprehension of 40 persons.

"We had a robbery-murder case the other day and one of those involved tore open an envelope to get the money. We got fingerprints from the envelope and within an hour and a half we knew who one of the perpetrators was. It's a terrific aid."

More pointed out that the quick scanning system makes it possible to make an identification with only one fingerprint knowledge of which finger it is — something that would have been too time consuming as a manual operation.

If the specific finger is known it makes identification faster because that information is coded on the microfilm. Coded information about the suspect's race, sex and criminal specialty can reduce the search to seconds.

One of the factors behind the switch to automation by city and state police is the availability of matching federal funds for the purchase of microfilm information retrieval equipment under the 1968 Omnibus Crime Control Act. Some $700 million was available this year.

> 'Not long ago we identified suspects in two burglary cases before the detective bureau had assigned men to begin investigations.'

The new systems have multiple uses which make them even more attractive to police agencies and can reduce file space required for records by 90 per cent.

For instance, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., police have fast access to microfilm information on 36,000 local auto licenses — who owns the car, whether it is stolen and whether the owner has an arrest record. In Baton Rouge, La., police use the system for record handling, resulting in the release of five patrolmen from paper work.

PALM BEACH, COUNTY, Fla., is the most sophisticated user of Miracode equipment, keeping microfilm files on fingerprints, mug shots, organized crime, vice and narcotics offenses, unsolved burglaries, confidential information, lost and stolen articles, jail records, routine offense reports, and unattended deaths. The sheriff's office also is planning files on unsolved robberies and sex crimes.

New York, with its vast police files, uses a computerized system that supplies about 10 possible suspects for each fingerprint or mug shot and the final determination is made through a visual search of print cards and photographs.

The FBI, which has the largest fingerprint file in the world — 196 million — currently is trying out a $1.25 million prototype system designed and built by Cornell Aeronautical Laboratories, Buffalo, N.Y. Fingerprint photos are not microfilmed but scanned for identifying data which is fed into a computer.

The bureau expects to eliminate 2,000 of the 3,300 technicians and clerks now used for processing 30,000 fingerprint cards a day and save $14 million annually when its identification system is fully automated and computerized.

Welfare Council Holds Meeting; Outlines Goals

The Northwest Suburban Welfare Council (NSWC) held its monthly meeting at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, Des Plaines, recently. Larry Renetsky, president of the NSWC and counselor for Niles Family Service, presided. The program was a presentation by the United States Social Security Administration on the services available at the Des Plaines office and the new Arlington Heights office.

The NSWC is composed of social, health, education, recreation and welfare agencies and departments of government engaged in activities, private or public, which are concerned with social services in the following townships; Maine, Wheeling, Palatine, Hanover, Barrington, Elk Grove and Schaumburg. Agencies may hold membership as may individuals.

The goals of the council are:

—To establish closer working relationships, to reduce duplication of effort, and to stimulate cooperation;

—To discover new or unmet needs of these communities and to seek ways in which improvement of existing services could be made;

—To inform the public regarding the work of the social and welfare agencies in these communities; and

—To publish a yearly directory of Social Services for the area.

THE COUNCIL MEETS monthly on the second Thursday of each month at the YMCA in Des Plaines. The next meeting of the council will be Dec. 14 and election of officers for 1973 will take pace.

Tom Jauck, Northwest Human Resources Development Center of Rolling Meadows, has been nominated president. Gary Rankin, Harper College counseling department has been nominated for 1st vice-president and program chairman. Two members are proposed for 2nd vice president and membership chairmen — Caryl Austin, Chicago Lung Association which was formerly the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County; and Esther Rabchuk, Volunteer Service Bureau, Northwest Cook County. George Theodore, Hweeling High School, will continue as secretary.

The Social Services Directory published by the council lists services such as ambulance, alcoholism, blood banks, child care institutes, counseling and mental health services, drug abuse resources, dental aid, emergency room medical services, services for handicapped, nursing and home care services, hospitals, hot lines, medical assistance (financial), mental retardation agencies, nurses club lending closets, nursing homes, poison control and information centers, post operative services, public health agencies, rehabilitation services, unwed mothers, venereal disease, and voluntary health agencies. A limited number of these directories are available for a small fee.

Riot Brings Insight Into Causes

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, an institution for the mentally ill. Forest Hospital is an accredited 135-bed psychiatric hospital known for its programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

A riot on the adolescent unit of a Chicago psychiatric hospital has given psychiatrists insight into causes of riots in general.

"We had a riot on the research and demonstration unit at the Illinois State Psychiatric Institute (ISPI)," said Dr. Daniel Offer, associate director of the Institute for Psychosomatic and Psychiatric Research and Training at the Michael Reese Hospital, "where half of the hospitalized teens got hyperactive and things snowballed from verbal abuse to throwing furniture.

"The five teens took iron bars from the washroom and barricaded themselves at the end of the hall. They broke bottles and used them for weapons. They became quite aggressive and wanted to hurt staff members who were on the unit at the time. The staff couldn't control them so they had to call in campus (U. OF Illinois) police to quell the riot."

ACCORDING TO Dr. Offer, a study conducted immediately following the riot showed that the adolescents were "testing" staff members.

"Two weeks before the riot staff members took all the adolescents on a camping trip and the staff got very close to their charges. This was rather brave since these were disturbed adolescents and many had previous police records. On the camping trip many barriers were let down and there was a great deal of confusion by the teens since they were being treated as if they were the staffs' children. Staff became parental figures, not just therapeutic figures — which I think is something important to keep distinct.

"The patients became uncomfortable because they knew these people weren't their parents, they couldn't go home with them and they lived in a different social world. Back at the hospital the staff reverted and became cold and distant so the teens needed in an unconscious way to find where the staff was. Their riot was actually a test.

"Interestingly enough," Offer said, "the riot took place among only half of the hospitalized patients. The others were off the unit at the time and when they returned the rioting was already in progress and they refused to join. The teens who were involvd were more liked by the staff than those who weren't. The involved felt more betrayed and they felt staff wasn't honest with them because they had no intention of being social friends on the outside."

OFFER EXPLAINED the similarities between the teen riot and prison riots.

"We felt this kind of rioting at ISPI came from a blurring of roles. We can compare this to prisons. Any change in the prison system either when a more liberal or more stringent administration comes in would create a situation with staff or guards and prisoners. The prisoners are more uncomfortable with what's going on and what they can expect. They sometimes riot in order to find out where, exactly, the present administration stands.

"The current wave of prison riots, we feel," he said, "has to do with top administration which wants to liberalize prisons but hasn't communicated this to guards who are very much in the front line and uncertain as to what they can or can't do.

"Prison officials need to spend more time with lower eschelon staff so they have staff behind the new ideas. Before changes are made, guards should be told. The warden should be very visible to prisoners and able to talk with them and prisoners would have more meaningful relationships with their guards."

Looking to universities, Offer added: "I see no reason why a university administration should at any time refuse to talk to students. More dialogue would prevent university rioting. It doesn't take that much to listen."

Social Security and You

Q. I've been getting social security payments since I was nine. Next year when I'm 18, I plan to enroll in a trade school. A friend told me that my monthly payments will stop when I become 18 if I don't go to college. Is this true?

A. No. You don't have to go to college to continue to get your monthly payments after you're 18. However, you do have to be single and enrolled as a full-time student at an educational institution. Most trade schools qualify as educational institutions. You should check with your social security office to be certain the trade school you're planning to attend meets this qualification. You may call 255-7512 for this information rather than taking time to drive to your local office.

Q. My husband applied for black lung payments but he couldn't get them because all his work was in a surface coal mine. I hear there was a recent change in the black lung law that allows surface coal miners to get monthly payments. Is this true?

A. Yes. Under the new federal law, surface coal miners who are totally disabled by black lung may be eligible for monthly black lung payments. Since he has already applied, he need not do anything at this time. The Social Security Administration is reviewing all previous applications, and your husband will be notified about how his application is affected by the new law and if additional information is needed before a decision can be made. However, if your husband had not made an application, he should call, write, or visit any social security office promptly.

Q. My first husband, a coal miner all his life, died of black lung disease. I was getting black lung benefits as a widow until I remarried 3 months ago. My daugher from the first marriage is 18 now and she's now in college. Can she get black lung payments?

A. Under recent changes in the law, the child of a miner who died of black lung disease may get monthly checks even if the widow is not entitled to benefits. Eligible children also can get benefits if both parents are dead. Payments can continue up to age 18 — or to age 23 for full-time students. Your daughter should contact the social security office to file a claim.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

"The Blacksmith's Shop," a painting by Cornelius Kreighoff, is featured on a forthcoming Canadian stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the artist's death. The 8 cent issue will be released Nov. 29th.

Kreighoff emigrated to America in 1837 and then to Canada 9 years later where he was to become one of that country's leading pioneer artists.

"The Blacksmith's Shop" is considered one of his finest works.

Collector's desiring first day cancellations of the 8 cent Krieghoff stamp should send their requests to First Day Cover Service, Canada Post Office, Ottawa, Ontario K1A OB5 enclosing the proper remittance, which is the cost of the stamp itself (in Canadian funds) plus a 5 cent service fee for each cover.

Mint stamps are available through the Philatelic Service. Canada Post Office, Ottawa, Ontario K1A OB5. Twenty-eight million Kreighoff stamps will be printed in four color lithography by the British American Bank Note Company of Ottawa. Marginal inscriptions including the artist's name and the title of his painting will appear on the four corners of each pane of fifty stamps. Some of the stamps will be "Ottawa tagged" but there will be no marginal inscriptions on corner blocks of the tagged stamps.

Australia will release a 7 cent and a 35 cent Christmas stamp and a 12 cent aerogramme on Nov. 29th.

An official first day cover is available at 9 cents (51 cents with both stamps affixed) from the Philatelic Section, Australian Post Office Headquarters, Communications House, 199 William St., Melbourne, Australia, 3000. (Be sure to send your remittance by money order in Australian funds. Your local bank can provide you with the current rate of exchange.)

THE US. S. COMMEMORATIVE honoring stamp collecting, due to be released tomorrow, will experience a three week delay in delivery of mint stamps to local post office.

First day covers and release of mint stamps in the first day of issue city (New York City) will not be affected.

The delivery delay is due to a walkout of employes of the company which applies adhesive to the paper used in the production of many postage stamps by the bureau of Printing and Engraving.

Some delay has also been experienced in delivery of the Tom Sawyer stamp (released Oct. 13) and the Pharmacy stamp (issued Nov. 10).

AN ADDITIONAL 35 million copies of the Tom Sawyer stamp have been ordered from the Bureau of Printing and Engraving in response to large orders from U.S. postmasters. This brings the total print order to 170 million.

THE BUREAU HAS also noticed a slight defect in about 336,000 of the 6 cent Olympic stamps issued Aug. 17th.

The defect occurs uniformly on the middle stamp in the second row from the bottom of the upper left pane where cylinder numer 33313 was used.

Do-It-Yourself

You can buy louver doors everywhere. Not only are they available in the expected place — the lumber yard, but also in department stores, discount stores, mail order catalogues. Maybe you know them as shutters, because they have been used for that purpose for so long.

Whatever, they are versatile items that are both decorative and useful.

Louver doors are bought unfinished. They come in a wide variety of sizes. The rails at the top and bottom are solid. This makes them easy to trim for fitting.

If you plan to install door pulls or similar hardware, get louver panel with a solid rail across the middle.

WHAT DO you use louvers for? Shutters, closet doors, folding screens, interior doors between rooms, decorative doors, cabinet doors.

Shutters may go back a few hundred years but they remain attractive even if their function is no longer vital. You can nail them up on the sides of your windows for decoration. Or you can mount them with hinges and make them working shutters.

You can mount them on the inside of the window to serve as substitutes for shades. You can use them full size so that they cover the entire window or you can make them out of half-size louvers so that they only cover the lower half of the window.

Or you can make up separate sets for the tops and bottoms of the windows so that you can open and close them selectively. You can use narrow panels fastening them together with hinges, so that you can fold them back part way instead of all the way.

If your front door seems narrow, make it appear wider by mounting narrow, full-length louvers on both sides.

THREE OR more louvers make a screen. Use double-acting hinges so that you can fold each panel in either direction. It makes the screen easier to set up. Use six-foot panels for screens with at least three hinges between panels.

For use as shutters and doors and window blinds, use ordinary butt hinges.

Short cafe-type doors can be created for your kitchen entrance by using two-foot panels. Get hinges that allow them to swing either way.

Louver panels are popular for closet and cabinet doors since they allow ventilation while keeping out dust. Closet doors can be made by hanging the panels on conventional hinges.

If you prefer, you can slide them on overhead tracks, using several narrow panels hinged together so that when the door is open it does not extend so far into the room.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E, Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you explain a radio thyroid isotope scan study? Is a substernal thyroid cancerous? What would cause a substernal throid? If it is not creating any symptoms wouldn't it be better to leave well enough alone?

Dear Reader — The thyroid scan uses radioactive iodine and takes advantage of the thyroid gland's function in using iodine. The radioactive iodine will be concentrated in the thyroid gland area and by using a counter technique, which identifies where the radioactive iodine is, a map of the size of the thyroid gland can be made. It is a miniaturized version of using counter to find a uranium mine. If a portion of the thyroid gland is trapped under the sternum (breast bone) its location there can be identified.

If there are modules of active tissue in the thyroid gland which may be cancerous, these will pick up additional amounts of the radio active materials and represent hot spots or high density areas on the thyroid scan.

A substernal thyroid is merely one which is enlarged and a portion of it is trapped underneath the sternum. In other cases of thyroid enlargement all of the throid gland is in the neck, none of it is under the sternum, and its size can all be determined by physical examination usually without the necessity of using a thyroid scan. A substernal thyroid is not necessarily cancerous. In fact, it usually is not. It just defines where the enlargement of the thyroid gland is located.

Sometimes substernal thyroid glands, if they are large enough, will cause pressure against adjacent structures and will therefore need to be removed. Otherwise, ordinary enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck region merely increases the size of the neck without creating pressure on underlying structures.

Dear Dr. Lamb — The doctor says I have spasms of the stomach but he doesn't know what causes it. I have great pains in my stomach like cramps. I also have a bad heart. I have a pacemaker — this year makes my fourth year with it. It was exchanged in February of this year. It is doing okay but my stomach is not. I am 76. I would like you to give me some advice if you can.

Dear Reader — To have some idea of what is causing your problem, one would need to have X rays of your stomach and possibly even your gallbladder and lower digestive tract. If these are all normal there is a possibility that the pains you are experiencing in the area of your stomach are from your heart.

Some people have heart pain referred to the upper abdomen. If this should be the case your doctor could try nitroglycerine tablets under the tongue and see if it relieves your abdominal pain.

The body plays strange tricks on us. The pain is not always where the difficulty is. That is why a person with gallbladder difficulty will sometimes have referred pain to the shouder and a person with a heart attack may have pain in the arm instead of the chest. So, you can have trouble with the blood supply to your heart muscle and it may cause pain in the abdomen instead of the chest.

The Almanac

Today is Thursday, Nov. 16, the 321st day of 1972 with 45 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

Famed American Negro composer W. C. Handy, known as the "Father of the Blues," was born Nov. 16, 1873.

ON THIS DAY IN HISTORY

In 1907, Oklahoma became the 46th state to enter the Union.

In 1933, the United States and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations.

In 1966, Dr. Sam Sheppard was acquitted of the 1954 slaying of his wife. He had served more than 10 years on the original conviction.

In 1968, the Soviet Union orbited a 17-ton scientific satellite.

A THOUGHT for the day: Scottish novelist Robert Louis Stevenson said, "Mankind was never so happily inspired as when it made a cathedral."

Collecting Coins

There's Price Boom In Gold Coins

The United States citizen is the only person in the world denied the right to own gold in bullion form. As a matter of fact, he can legally hold only those U.S. gold coins dated prior to 1933. Possession of a 1933 $20 gold double eagle, while there are few left, could get one in serious trouble. Foreign gold coins dated before 1934 may be held, but from 1934 on a foreign gold piece must be legally declared a numismatic collector's item before it may be part of a collection.

Of necessity, this limits our investments in the gold market to coins whose value is largely dependent on their gold content. And considering the number of foreign and American gold pieces in existence, their sale and purchase is rightfully classified as the "common" gold commodity market. They are bought and sold with little concern for their numismatic value and the latest prices are quoted daily, reflecting the basic activities of the London and Paris gold bullion market.

When U.S. gold coins were first issued, a $20 piece contained $20 worth of gold; a $10 gold eagle consisted of $10 in gold value, and so on.

Since 1933, the price of gold has increased substantially, inflating the intrinsic values of gold coins.

THE FREE-MARKET price experienced a phenomenal raise in May of 1972, from $48 to $70 per ounce. While it has settled back slightly since, it is holding fairly solid in the $60 range, and experts predict it will go even higher eventually. John Kamin, editor of the "Forecaster," predicts a free-market price of $175 an ounce by 1980, which would have an incredible influence on the price of common commodity gold coins. But should the per ounce price only reach half of the predicted figure, at $85 the investor would still benefit considerably.

As a typical example, consider the gold content of a Double Eagle ($20) which is slightly less than one ounce, or .9675 to be exact. In May of this year, when gold was $48 per ounce, the Double Eagle had an intrinsic value of $46. When the world market soared to $70 per ounce, this intrinsic value soared similarly to more than $67. Anyone with a common date (non-numismatic) $20 gold piece could have realized a profit of $21 on the open market. This means that for every dollar increase in the price of gold bullion, the intrinsic value of a $20 gold piece increases accordingly by 97 cents.

If the bullion value does climb to $175 per ounce in 1980 as predicted, the Double Eagle will automatically earn an intrinsic value of roughly $169.31.

Common date (non-numismatic) $5, $10 and $20 gold coins are available for bullion investment in whatever quantities an investor feels he may wish to buy.

Fortunately, one who invests in common commodity gold coins may call several coin investment houses who will reserve any quantity of United States $10 and $20 gold pieces. Avoid any gold coin offers not readily substantiated as being of a date and issue considered legal as stipulated by the Office of Domestic Gold and Silver Operations, a Division of the U.S. Treasury.

When U.S. gold coins were first issued, a $20 piece contained $20 worth of gold; a $10 gold eagle consisted of $10 in gold value, and so on.

Since 1933, the price of gold has increased substantially, inflating the intrinsic values of gold coins.

THE FREE-MARKET price experienced a phenomenal raise in May of 1972, from $48 to $70 per ounce. While it has settled back slightly since, it is holding fairly solid in the $60 range, and experts predict it will go even higher eventually. John Kamin, editor of the "Forecaster," predicts a free-market price of $175 an ounce by 1980, which would have an incredible influence on the price of common commodity gold coins. But should the per ounce price only reach half of the predicted figure, at $85 the investor would still benefit considerably.

As a typical example, consider the gold content of a Double Eagle ($20) which is slightly less than one ounce, or .9675 to be exact. In May of this year, when gold was $48 per ounce, the Double Eagle had an intrinsic value of $46. When the world market soared to $70 per ounce, this intrinsic value soared similarly to more than $67. Anyone with a common date (non-numismatic) $20 gold piece could have realized a profit of $21 on the open market. This means that for every dollar increase in the price of gold bullion, the intrinsic value of a $20 gold piece increases accordingly by 97 cents.

If the bullion value does climb to $175 per ounce in 1980 as predicted, the Double Eagle will automatically earn an intrinsic value of roughly $169.31.

Common date (non-numismatic) $5, $10 and $20 gold coins are available for bullion investment in whatever quantities an investor feels he may wish to buy.

Fortunately, one who invests in common commodity gold coins may call several coin investment houses who will reserve any quantity of United States $10 and $20 gold pieces. Avoid any gold coin offers not readily substantiated as being of a date and issue considered legal as stipulated by the Office of Domestic Gold and Silver Operations, a Division of the U.S. Treasury.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you explain a radio thyroid isotope scan study? Is a substernal thyroid cancerous? What would cause a substernal throid? If it is not creating any symptoms wouldn't it be better to leave well enough alone?

Dear Reader — The thyroid scan uses radioactive iodine and takes advantage of the thyroid gland's function in using iodine. The radioactive iodine will be concentrated in the thyroid gland area and by using a counter technique, which identifies where the radioactive iodine is, a map of the size of the thyroid gland can be made. It is a miniaturized version of using counter to find a uranium mine. If a portion of the thyroid gland is trapped under the sternum (breast bone) its location there can be identified.

If there are modules of active tissue in the thyroid gland which may be cancerous, these will pick up additional amounts of the radio active materials and represent hot spots or high density areas on the thyroid scan.

A substernal thyroid is merely one which is enlarged and a portion of it is trapped underneath the sternum. In other cases of thyroid enlargement all of the throid gland is in the neck, none of it is under the sternum, and its size can all be determined by physical examination usually without the necessity of using a thyroid scan. A substernal thyroid is not necessarily cancerous. In fact, it usually is not. It just defines where the enlargement of the thyroid gland is located.

Sometimes substernal thyroid glands, if they are large enough, will cause pressure against adjacent structures and will therefore need to be removed. Otherwise, ordinary enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck region merely increases the size of the neck without creating pressure on underlying structures.

Dear Dr. Lamb — The doctor says I have spasms of the stomach but he doesn't know what causes it. I have great pains in my stomach like cramps. I also have a bad heart. I have a pacemaker — this year makes my fourth year with it. It was exchanged in February of this year. It is doing okay but my stomach is not. I am 76. I would like you to give me some advice if you can.

Dear Reader — To have some idea of what is causing your problem, one would need to have X rays of your stomach and possibly even your gallbladder and lower digestive tract. If these are all normal there is a possibility that the pains you are experiencing in the area of your stomach are from your heart.

Some people have heart pain referred to the upper abdomen. If this should be the case your doctor could try nitroglycerine tablets under the tongue and see if it relieves your abdominal pain.

The body plays strange tricks on us. The pain is not always where the difficulty is. That is why a person with gallbladder difficulty will sometimes have referred pain to the shouder and a person with a heart attack may have pain in the arm instead of the chest. So, you can have trouble with the blood supply to your heart muscle and it may cause pain in the abdomen instead of the chest.

Think a thank-you-thought…
Send the FTD Thanksgiver™

There couldn't be a more perfect time to thank someone you love than at Thanksgiving.

And that's what the FTD Thanksgiver is all about. It says, "Thanks for being my mother or father." "Thanks for being my friend." "Thanks for being nice." "Thanks for memories we shared before you went away."

And it says it sincerely and beautifully with flowers. Lovely fall flowers elegantly arranged with golden wheat and slender cattails.

Sending a Thanksgiver almost anywhere is as easy as a call or visit to your FTD® Florist (Most FTD Florists accept major credit cards).

Do it. And start a new tradition. It'll keep you close to friends and loved ones, no matter how far away. When you think about it, we all have a lot of thanking to do.

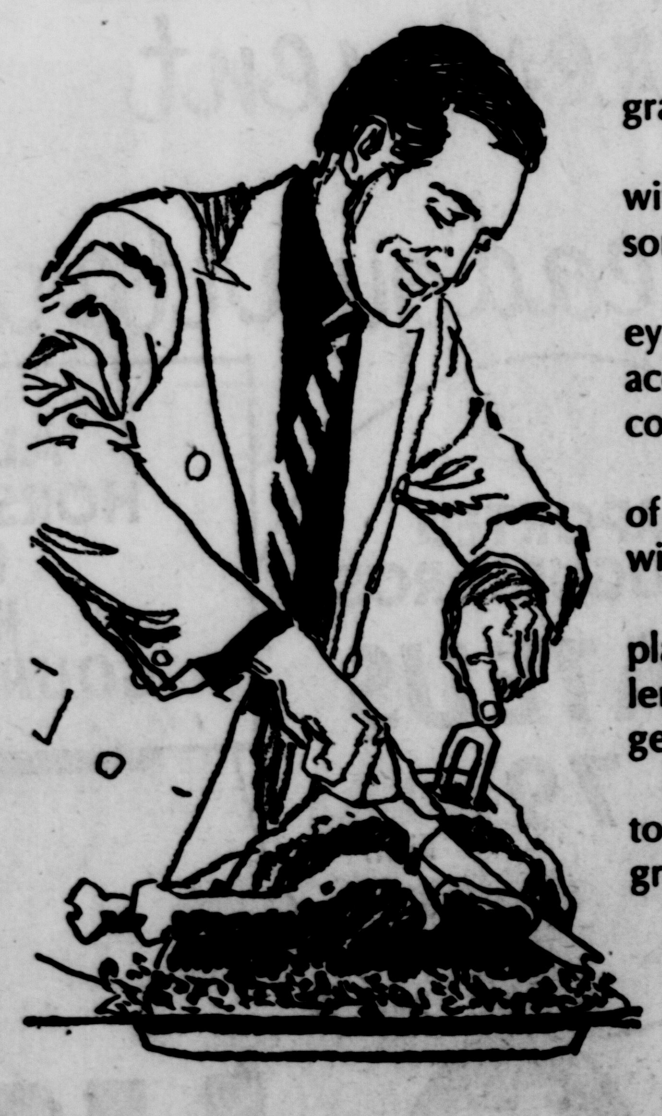
THANKSGIVING



In commemoration of that year of the first pioneers, America expresses its gratitude for abundance with the Thanksgiving dinner.

The menu for this day is tradition-filled, and although you would not want to part with the expected, you can pioneer a different dinner flavor by creatively combining some new tastes with the old.

Served on your finest silver platter, the Thanksgiving bird glistens with a honey-soy sauce glaze. A traditional creamy giblet gravy provides the perfect poultry accompaniment. Since your turkey will be the center of attention, garnish it with colorful clove-studded kumquats and watercress for a tasteful conversation piece.

No Thanksgiving dinner is complete without an autumn vegetable. A chunky mix of zuchinni, carrots and green peppers in a lemon-herb butter sauce is in keeping with the colorful harvest theme and menu.

A cranberry-cherry mold is a delicious twist on the conventional cranberry platter. Sweet dark cherries, diced apples and chopped walnuts are set in a base of lemon gelatin and jellied cranberry sauce that's marbled with a sour cream-lemon gelatin mixture.

Complete your repast with mince pie. But this year make it light and fluffy with a touch of orange peel and orange slice garnish. Whipped cream, mincemeat and grated orange peel are folded into a fluffy gelatin and meringue mixture.

GOLDEN GLAZED TURKEY

10-12 pound turkey
1 teaspoon salt
Celery leaves
Parsley leaves

SAUSAGE STUFFING:

½ pound pork sausage meat
1½ cups chopped celery
1 cup chopped fresh mushrooms
1 cup chopped onion
1 cups day-old bread, torn
2 tablespoons chopped parsley or 1 teaspoon parsley flakes
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup water
1 teaspoon chicken stock base
½ cup (1 stick) butter

GLAZE FOR TURKEY:

2 tablespoons butter, melted
¼ cup honey
1 tablespoon soy sauce

GRAVY:

1¼ cups drippings from roasting turkey
½ cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups liquid from cooking giblets
Milk
Giblets, cut up

If turkey is frozen, thaw day before roasting sufficiently to remove giblets. Simmer turkey neck and giblets in water to cover with salt, celery leaves and parsley until tender. Strain liquid; refrigerate for gravy. Chop giblets into small pieces. Refrigerate for gravy. Rinse body and neck cavities with cold water. Drain. To prepare Stuffing: In a large skillet brown sausage with celery, mushrooms and onion. Drain fat. In a large bowl toss together bread, parsley, salt, poultry seasoning and pepper. Add sausage to mixture. Bring water to boil. Stir in stock base until dissolved; add butter and melt. Pour over bread mixture and toss lightly. To stuff Turkey: Pack stuffing lightly into body and neck cavities. Fasten neck skin down with poultry pin. Fasten legs of turkey according to packer's directions. Place turkey, breast side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer in center of thigh muscle or thickest part of breast meat, not touching bone. Brush turkey with melted butter. Cover loosely with tent of heavy aluminum foil. Place in preheated 325 degree oven and roast for approximately 4¾ hours. The turkey is done when the breast meat feels soft when pressed with finger and drumstick and joint move easily or meat thermometer registers 180-185 degrees. During the last 10-15 minutes of roasting, brush with glaze. Remove turkey from oven, let stand, covered with foil tent for about 20-30 minutes so juices stop running and carving will be easier. Garnish platter with kumquats studded with whole cloves nestled in watercress, if desired. Makes 10-12 servings. To prepare Gravy: In a 1-quart saucepan combine flour and salt. Gradually add drippings from roasting turkey (you may wish to skim off some fat from drippings), stirring until mixture is smooth. Add liquid reserved from cooking giblets. Stir until smooth. Place over low heat and cook, stirring constantly, until gravy is smooth and thick. Add milk, if necessary, for desired consistency. Salt to taste. Stir in giblets.

SUCCULENT ZUCCHINI

5 medium zucchini (about 1 pound)
6-8 medium carrots (about ½ pound)
¼ cup chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons chopped pimiento
¼ cup (½ stic) butter
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon chervil
Parsley flakes

Slice zucchini in ¾-inch lengths. Pare carrots; cut into thin diagonal slices. Place in 2-quart casserole; top with green pepper, pimiento. Melt butter; add lemon juice, salt and chervil; pour over vegetables. Sprinkle with parsley flakes. Cover casserole and bake in preheated 325 degree oven 50-55 minutes or until tender. Makes 10 servings.

CRANBERRY-CHERRY SALAD

2 cups boiling water
2 packages (3-oz. each) lemon flavor gelatin
1 can (8 oz.) jellied cranberry sauce
1 can (17 oz.) dark sweet pitted cherries, halved
1½ cups liquid
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 apple, diced
½ cup chopped walnuts

In a bowl pour boiling water over gelatin; stir until dissolved. Set aside ½ cup gelatin to cool. Pour remaining gelatin into a 1½-quart saucepan, heat with cranberry sauce until sauce is melted. Drain cherries; reserving syrup. Add water to syrup to make 1½ cups; add to cranberry mixture. Chill until partially set, combine ½ cup reserved lemon gelatin with sour cream. Chill until partially set. Stir cherries, apple and nuts into raspberry gelatin; pour ¼ cup mixture into 7-cup mold; add remaining cranberry gelatin alternately with sour cream - gelatin mixture; swirl gently with spatula. Chill until firm. Unmold onto serving plate. Makes 8-10 servings.

MINCEMEAT CHIFFON PIE

CRUST:

1⅓ cups graham cracker crumbs (15 squares)
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup (½ stick) butter, melted

FILLING:

¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
1 cup mincemeat
2 tablespoons grated orange peel

To prepare Crust: In a small bowl mix together crumbs and sugar; stir in butter. Press mixture firmly and evenly against bottom and sides of buttered 9-inch pie plate, building up slightly around rim. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven 5 minutes. Cool on wire rack. To prepare Filling: In a 1-quart saucepan combine ¼ cup sugar, gelatin and salt. Beat together egg yolks and milk; add to gelatin mixture and heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until mixture mounds slightly. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Gradually beat in ¼ cup sugar until stiff peaks form. Fold into gelatin mixture. Fold in whipped cream, mincemeat and orange peel. Turn into pie shell; chill until set (4 hours or overnight).

Versatile Walnut Crust Highlights Pumpkin Pie

If you like to present traditional holiday flavors in a new way, you'll want to give this glamorous chiffon pie a whirl. Pumpkin and walnuts combine with pumpkin pie spice in the filling, and the simple, crunchy-crisp crust is made from more walnuts with butter and sugar for a rich, candy-like taste. What's more, you do everything but the decorating in advance — no oven logistics to worry about. So whether you're doing the whole dinner menu yourself or contributing dessert to a cooperative effort with family or friends, you'll be sure of success in advance.

By the way, don't overlook the possibilities of the walnut crust part of this recipe to use with other chiffon fillings made from mixes, ice cream, or instant puddings. It's good with them all.

WALNUT PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE

1½ cups finely chopped or ground California walnuts
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
2 tablespoons soft butter
1 envelope unflavoredgelatin
¼ cup cold water
3 eggs, separated
½ cup milk
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
1 cup canned pumpkin
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1/3 cup granulated sugar
Whipped cream
California walnut halves and large pieces for decorating

Combine chopped or ground walnuts with three tablespoons sugar and butter. Pat over bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie pan to form crust. Bake at 350 degrees 10 to 12 minutes until lightly browned. Cool, then chill. Soften gelatin in water. Beat egg yolks with milk; beat in brown sugar, salt and spice. Add gelatin and pumpkin. Cook and stir over moderate heat (or in top of double boiler over hot water) until filling thickens and gelatin dissolves, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and cool. When mixture begins to gel, beat egg whites to soft peaks with cream of tartar. Gradually beat in the 1/3 cup sugar to make meringue. Fold into pumpkin mixture and turn into baked, chilled walnut crust. Chill three or four hours or longer until firm. Decorate with additional whipped cream and walnuts. Makes six servings.

AN ORDINARY BROWN paper bag is all Mrs. Burt Kingsley needs to prepare her Thanksgiving turkey. She simply bags the bird, secures the end and sets it on a broiler pan to roast. Besides having a beautifully roasted bird; there's no basting, no spattering and no pan to clean.

She Bags Her Turkey In A Brown Paper One

by LOIS SEILER

"Golden brown and beautiful" is the way Ruth Kingsley of Arlington Heights describes her handsome holiday turkeys which she roasts in a brown paper bag.

Year after year Ruth has had success with this method, which she has used since a bride.

"My husband Burt's parents came from Minneapolis for the first holiday dinner I ever prepared," Ruth explained. "I didn't have a turkey roaster, so Burt's mother suggested I use the new method proposed by the Minnesota Turkey Growers' Association — roasting it in an ordinary brown grocery bag. The turkey turned out so beautifully that I've never considered doing it any other way!"

Ruth is so enthusiastic about this method that she'd like to convince everyone to try it.

"It's so easy," she emphasized. "There's no basting, no spattering or mess, no roasting pan to clean. And you don't need to peek in the oven — the bag won't burn! Your bird will look as beautiful as a magazine picture, and always turns out tender and juicy."

Ruth places the turkey on a broiler rack over the broiler pan while it roasts. At the end of the cooking period, she punctures the bag and lets the juices run into the pan. There is more than an ample supply from which to make gravy.

Her family prefers a simple, fairly dry bread dressing with their turkey. Onions and celery are sauteed in an ample amount of butter, and this mixture is stirred into dry bread cubes and seasoned with salt, pepper and sage.

A SELF-PROCLAIMED "traditionalist at heart," Ruth serves the turkey and stuffing for both Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners, accompanied by massed potatoes and gravy, cranberry relish, a vegetable and molded gelatin salad. For Thanksgiving, she prefers pumpkin pie for dessert, while at Christmas she makes Cranberry Steamed Pudding.

Easy to prepare, the pudding contains whole raw cranberries and is flavored with molasses. It is steamed in a two-pound coffee can and served warm with a rich butter sauce.

Always receptive to new ideas, this good cook was willing to try Granola when it was recommended to her recently by her nephew, a health food advocate. Now she makes it regularly, appreciating both its tasty flavor and value as a nutritional food.

Granola is a combination of rolled oats, chopped almonds, sesame seeds, sunflower seeds, coconut and wheat germ mixed with honey and corn oil. Soy flour and non-fat dry milk may be added, if desired.

Granola is roasted in a slow oven until it becomes crunchy and slightly brown. Raisins, dried prunes, apricots or dates may be stirred in for additional flavor and nourishment.

Ruth serves it to her daughters, Kari, 8, and Kirsten, 6, as an after school snack, and the whole family eats it as an appealing breakfast cereal with milk.

"The recipe makes a large amount, but it will keep indefinitely in a covered container," Ruth commented.

In addition to her culinary achievements, Ruth is an accomplished seamstress and talented pianist. She sews for herself and her daughters and, as an active member of Lutheran Church of the Cross, she accompanies the church choir, teaches songs to nursery school youngsters and is a member of the church council.

One of Ruth and Burt's favorite activities is antiquing, and Ruth is a member of Godey Questers.

TURKEY IN THE BAG

Wash turkey and season cavity with salt or stuff with your favorite dressing. Tie legs together and secure wings firmly against breast. Brush skin with butter. Preheat oven to 325 degrees.

Place turkey in brown paper bag — double thickness preferred. Be sure seam is up. Close open end with one or two folds and secure fold with any type fastener — paper clips, staples or skewers. Place bag on a broiler rack or flat rack over broiler pan. Roast 20 minutes per pound for unstuffed bird, 25 minutes for stuffed, at 325 degrees.

Important: once you have placed turkey in oven, do not open door. There is no need to peek; the bag won't burn. You will be delighted how beautiful your bird looks, with lots of juices for gravy.

At end of roasting time, remove turkey from oven and puncture bag so that juices will run into broiler pan. Skim off grease and prepare gravy on the range. Your turkey will remain warm in the paper bag until you are ready to carve it.

CRANBERRY STEAMED PUDDING

1 1/3 cups flour
½ cup dark molasses
2 cups raw whole cranberries
1/3 cup hot water
2 level teaspoons baking soda
Dash of salt

Mix ingredients together and place in a greased, two-pound coffee can. Cover can with foil and secure.

Pour one inch of water into the bottom of a tall pan. Set coffee can on a rack in the pan. Cover pan and steam pudding for 1½ hours on top of the stove, adding more water if needed. Serve warm with the following:

Yum Yum Sauce:

1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup butter
½ cup cream

Cream butter and sugar together. Add cream. Heat and serve warm over pudding.

GRANOLA

5 cups rolled oats
1 cup chopped almonds
1 cup sesame seeds
1 cup sunflower seeds
1 cup shredded coconut
1 cup wheat germ
1 cup soy flour (optional)
1 cup dry milk powder (optional)
1 cup honey
1 cup vegetable oil

Combine dry ingredients in a large bowl. Mix honey and oil together and stir into dry ingredients. Spread in a jelly roll pan and roast at 300 degrees for approximately 40 minutes, turning every 10 to 15 minutes, until crunchy and slightly brown. Check so it won't burn.

Remove from oven and add about 2 cups of raisins or dried fruit, such as prunes, apricots or dates. Store in a covered container. Use as a snack, or serve as a breakfast cereal with milk.

Different Dressings Enhance Bird

Now that turkeys are so plentiful and in use all year 'round, homemakers are asking for variations on the old standby dressing recipes. Families love stuffing, but they don't always want it the same.

Printed below are three new recipes developed in the test kitchen of a well known national bakery. Water chestnuts add a delightful crunch to the otherwise familiar herb seasoned stuffing. Sauteed chicken livers (or cooked turkey giblets) heighten the flavor of corn bread stuffing.

Guests would have a hard time deciphering the third recipe if you didn't tell them what was in it. A delicious but deceiving combination of mashed sweet potatoes, sausage, orange rind, and herb seasoned cube stuffing add up to one of the most flavorful stuffings of all time. The eggs make it puff a little, like a souffle, turning it into a wonderful side dish with pork as well as a marvelous stuffing for fowl.

STUFFING ORIENTALE

1 one pound package herb seasoned stuffing
1/3 cup butter or margarine
¾ cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
2 (6 oz.) cans water chestnuts, drained and sliced
2 cups water or chicken broth

Saute onion and celery in butter until tender. Add water, stuffing and water chestnuts. Toss lightly. Yield: Stuffing for 12-16 lb. turkey.

CORN BREAD AND CHICKEN LIVER STUFFING

1 (8 oz.) package corn bread stuffing
½ cup (4 oz.) chicken livers
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup finely chopped green pepper
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 bay leaf, crushed
¾ cup chicken broth or water

Saute chicken livers in butter until just done, about 4 minutes. Remove from pan and chop. Saute celery, green pepper, onion and bay leaf until tender. Add broth, bring to a boil, remove from heat and toss with stuffing and chopped chicken livers. Yield: 6 servings.

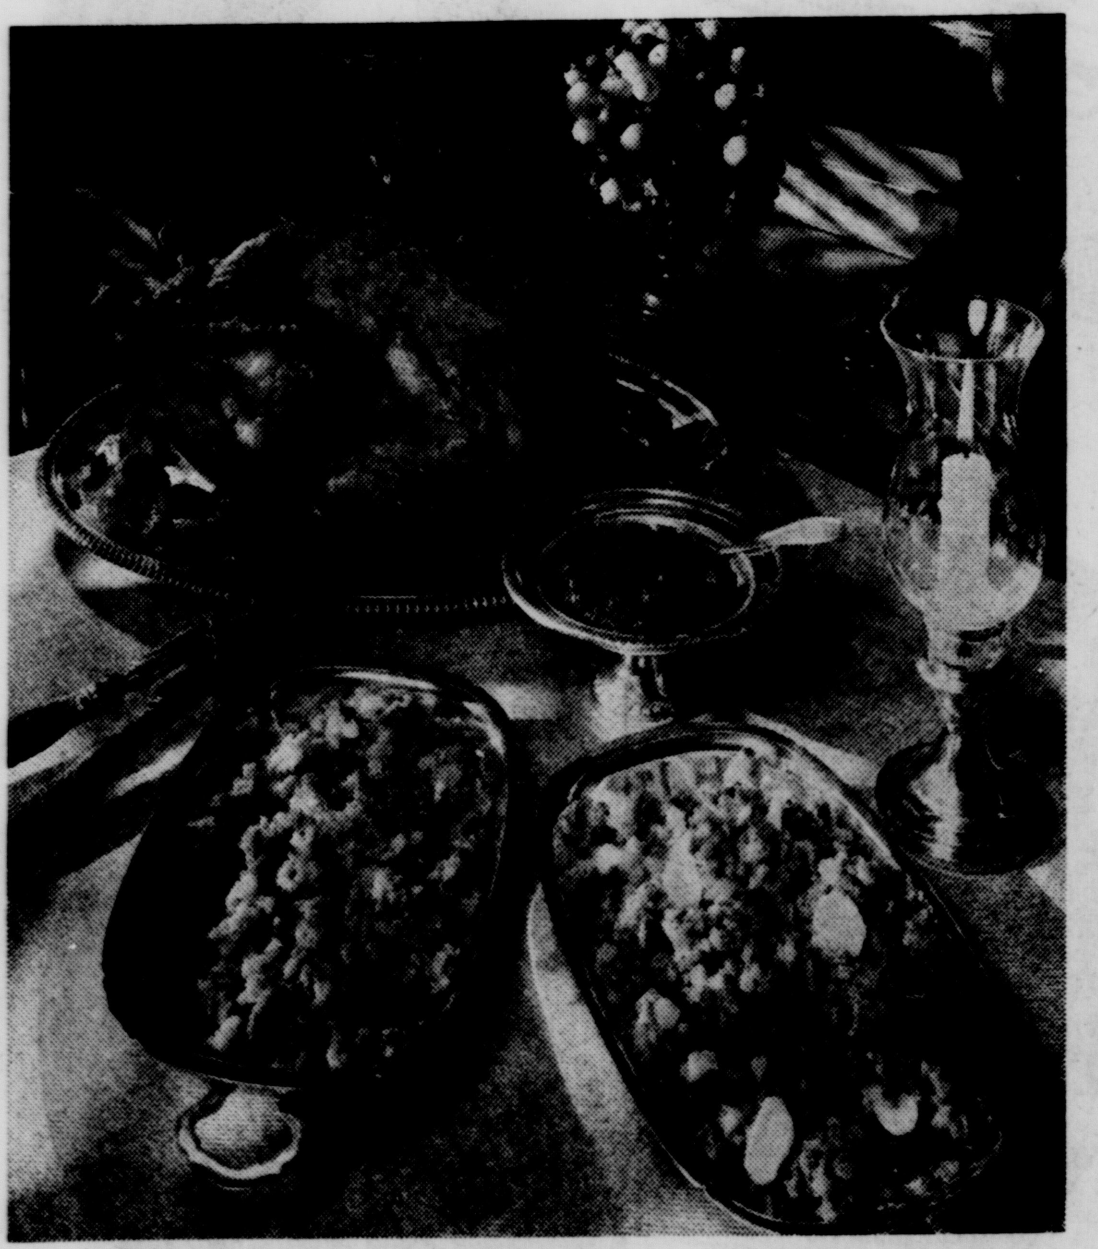
Double recipe for 16 lb. turkey. Try as stuffing for roast chicken, Cornish hen, summer squash or eggplant.

SWEET POTATO HERB STUFFING

1 (7 oz.) package herb seasoned cube stuffing
½ lb. sausage meat
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped celery
½ cup butter or margarine
1 one lb. can golden yams, drained and mashed, about 1¼ cups
½ teaspoon orange rind
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¾ cup chicken broth or water
1 egg, beaten

Brown sausage, drain off fat and remove from pan. Saute onion and celery in butter until tender. Stir in sweet potato, orange rind, parsley and cooked sausage. Add broth and egg and blend. Toss with stuffing. Yield: 6 servings.

Excellent for roast pork, duck or just as a side dish.



Colorful Cranberry Accents

Sparking red cranberries and cranberry products are starting to appear on tables this month, signaling the beginning of the holiday season. Cranberry relish is one of the most popular ways to use this flavor-packed morsel, but cranberries lend themselves to dozens of great tasting recipes.

Include Cranberry Mince Relish in your holiday plans. Crush 1 pound jellied cranberry sauce with a fork. Stir in ¼ cup mincemeat and ¼ cup chopped walnuts. Makes one pint relish. It's delicious with meat.

Use cranberry sauce to dress up leftover turkey in a bright new way — Turkey Towers! Cut 18 slices of bread into rounds using washed out 1 pound cranberry sauce can as cutter. Spread rounds of bread with butter or margarine. Cut one pound can jellied cranberry sauce into seven slices. Place six slices on six rounds of bread. Top each with a second round of bread.

Combine ¾ cup diced cooked turkey or chicken, 3 tablespoons sliced olives, 3 tablespoons chopped pickles, ¼ cup diced celery, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning. Spread turkey mixture over second slice of bread. Top each with remaining bread. Tint nine ounces of softened cream cheese with ¼ cup cranberry juice cocktail — just enough to tint and make spreadable, and use to frost sandwiches. Cut remaining cranberry slice into sixths and use to garnish sandwiches. Serve on plates of crisp lettuce.

World-Wide Liquors

A New Idea In One-Stop Shopping

by FRAN HECKART

If your tastebuds quiver at the mere mention of caviar, crab bisque, pate de foie gras, truffles or brandied cherries, chances are you possess the refined taste of a gourmet.

A recently opened section of World-Wide Liquors, 15 S. Brockway, Palatine, has all the mentioned delicacies and countless more. In fact, the compact gourmet section called Around the World Food offers almost everything a pampered palate could imagine.

Lon Connery, manager of the new gourmet shop, feels there is a definite market for specialty-type products but simply not enough outlets. Having worked in the gourmet section of a large department store before coming to Around the World, he stocks a large variety of imported foods not found or expected in the local supermarkets.

According to Dobby Dobkin, owner of World-Wide Liquors, the combination liquor, delicatessen and gourmet food store, is designed to offer a unique concept in one-stop shopping.

ONE OF THE most popular sections is the large deli counter. Connery and Dobkin have over 80 kinds of imported cheese and an impressive array of cold cuts.

"I always want the customers to taste a cheese before purchasing it," said Connery. "It's just one small way to insure satisfaction." He will also offer cheese suggestions to complement a particular wine, accompaniments or serving ideas for the various cheeses and a free sample of the day.

Ask Connery about French Fontina. He'll tell you it's a brand new French cheese and the closest copy to the original Italian Fontina, which cheese producers have been trying to imitate for years.

Appenzeller? It's a Swiss cheese aged in wine and has a nippy flavor.

IF YOU think a Welsh cheese is appropriate, there's Carfilly, a crumbly, aged cheese. Or how about an aged Holland Gouda which comes in a yellow instead of the usual red wrapper. Aged 90 days, it's sharper than the original red-wrapped Gouda.

Another offering is a grape cheese. This is a French cream cheese rolled in black grade seeds. The cheese picks up the tartness of the seeds for a unique flavor.

One of the most popular varieties, according to Connery, is Boursin, a French cheese spiced with garlic and herbs. His specialty of the house, Almond Beau Pasteur, is an original creation. Connery frosts a French cream cheese with ground and whole almond to produce an excellent dessert cheese.

German smoked ham, kosher corned beef, jellied Sulze, tongue blood sausage or Yachtwurst; a combination of bologna, pastrami and blood sausage are among numerous cold cut offerings.

LIVER AND SUMMER sausages rate high on popularity scales along with Braunschweiger.

Connery will prepare appetizer trays from his well-stocked deli counter to serve four to 200, depending on the order.

A peek into the frozen foods case reveals about 20 imported breads, dips, appetizers and shrimp trays. Imported French, San Francisco sour dough and Italian are a few of the breads available.

Mexican Altura, Hawaiian Kona, Mocha Java, Espresso Roast and Evening Blend stock the coffee shelves. Around the World also offers a large selection of imported and herbal teas.

Oxford England soups include Spanish bean soup, crab bisque, game soup and duck and orange soup. All kinds of English marmalade and preserves can be found tucked amid the aisles of rice wafers, wild rice, Irish oatmeal, petit fours, won ton soup, Hungarian paprika and coconut syrup.

CONNERY ALSO has a machine which makes peanut butter. If you have problems with the commercial kinds sticking to the roof of your mouth, the homemade variety is worse. Still, Connery says that he's had many customers give up their smooth or chunky for homemade.

If your Christmas list still has some question marks beside a few names, Connery offers a complete selection of gourmet gifts.

Imagine a delightful array of Danish lumpfish caviar, Dutch Gouda cheese, homemade fruitcake specially made for Around the World, langostinos, English mustard, lemon pepper, Brie and Coulommiers cheeses, escargots from France and Danish smoked salami, nested in an artificial holly wreath on a wicker tray.

If one of the 12 special Around the World gift combinations doesn't suit your taste, Connery simply creates a special order.

"I'll put anything in the store into a gift package if the customer wants it," said Connery.

OVER 80 VARIETIES of cheese can be found in the deli counter section of Around the Worlds Foods, a gourmet shop located in World-Wide liquors in Palatine. Lon Connery, manager of the gourmet shop, assists customers in selecting various cheeses and cold cuts.

Connery will prepare appetizer trays from his well-stocked deli counter to serve four to 200, depending on the order.

A peek into the frozen foods case reveals about 20 imported breads, dips, appetizers and shrimp trays. Imported French, San Francisco sour dough and Italian are a few of the breads available.

Mexican Altura, Hawaiian Kona, Mocha Java, Espresso Roast and Evening Blend stock the coffee shelves. Around the World also offers a large selection of imported and herbal teas.

Oxford England soups include Spanish bean soup, crab bisque, game soup and duck and orange soup. All kinds of English marmalade and preserves can be found tucked amid the aisles of rice wafers, wild rice, Irish oatmeal, petit fours, won ton soup, Hungarian paprika and coconut syrup.

CONNERY ALSO has a machine which makes peanut butter. If you have problems with the commercial kinds sticking to the roof of your mouth, the homemade variety is worse. Still, Connery says that he's had many customers give up their smooth or chunky for homemade.

If your Christmas list still has some question marks beside a few names, Connery offers a complete selection of gourmet gifts.

Imagine a delightful array of Danish lumpfish caviar, Dutch Gouda cheese, homemade fruitcake specially made for Around the World, langostinos, English mustard, lemon pepper, Brie and Coulommiers cheeses, escargots from France and Danish smoked salami, nested in an artificial holly wreath on a wicker tray.

If one of the 12 special Around the World gift combinations doesn't suit your taste, Connery simply creates a special order.

"I'll put anything in the store into a gift package if the customer wants it," said Connery.

OVER 80 VARIETIES of cheese can be found in the deli counter section of Around the Worlds Foods, a gourmet shop located in World-Wide liquors in Palatine. Lon Connery, manager of the gourmet shop, assists customers in selecting various cheeses and cold cuts.

Chestnuts And Apples Spark Stuffings

Traditional foods are keynotes of Thanksgiving, the exclusively American holiday which draws families together around tables laden with the fruits of autumn harvests.

Most families' choice for holiday feasting is a plump, well-browned fowl, bursting with a savory stuffing.

For generations of good cooks, farm sausage has been a basic for their poultry stuffing because of its spicy goodness and juicy compatibility with other favorite ingredients.

In the recipes given here, sausage is teamed with two of its most agreeable culinary companions, chestnuts and apples.

The first recipe, for those who like a stuffing that is rich and definitely textured, is a blend of herbs, sausage, chestnuts and bread crumbs, moisted with chicken broth.

In the second, for those who like a more cohesive stuffing with interesting flavor, chopped apples add the tang and bread crumbs and crumbled cornbread the additional body.

CHESTNUT AND SAUSAGE STUFFING

1 quart (about 2 lbs.) chestnuts
4 tsps. salad oil
6 cups chicken broth
1 onion, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
1 pound roll sausage
4 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon chopped chives
½ teaspoon powdered thyme
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon marjoram
2 cups soft bread crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut gashes in the flat side of each chestnut. Heat the oil, add chestnuts and cook over brisk heat 3 minutes, stirring or shaking the pan constantly. Drain and let cool.

Remove shells and inner skins. Cook chestnuts in the broth about 20 minutes, or until tender. Drain, reserving the broth for soup. Chop half chestnuts coarsely and mash the rest. Set aside.

Cook onion in butter until golden brown. Add sausage and seasonings. Stir constantly for about 4 to 5 minutes. Add to chestnuts. Soften bread crumbs in milk or water. Press out excess liquid and add to the chestnuts.

Stuff loosely into bird (Enough for 12 to 14 lb. bird)

KENTUCKY CORNBREAD AND SAUSAGE STUFFING

cooked crumbly, with drippings
1 tart apple, chopped
3 cups toasted bread cubes
3 cups crumbled cornbread
1 small onion, chopped
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon sage or poultry seasoning
1 cup chicken or turkey broth
or stock

Combine all ingredients, tossing lightly, and loosely fill the chicken. (Enough for 5 lb. bird; if used for turkey increase the proportions.)

Look Younger Day After Day After Day

Suddenly one morning you look in the mirror and face the truth. You don't look as young as you used to.

Women in many parts of the world have, like you, been distressed by the skin dryness that accents the wrinkles and lines that make a woman look older than need be. Then they discovered a world-renowned beauty secret. These women could tell you the benefits of their secret, Oil of Olay moisturizing lotion. But why not experience the beautiful results yourself?

Quick-penetrating Oil of Olay was created by beauty researchers to ease away dryness. Watch as your skin all but drinks in the unique blend, with its tropical moisturizing oils, abundant natural moisture, and other emollients. The precious fluid helps maintain the oil-moisture balance needed for younger-looking skin. Its natural ingredients help retain your skin's own moisture to keep you younger-looking still.

Oil of Olay® is as near as your drugstore. Apply lavishly morning and night. Look younger day after day after day.

Instant Holiday Cooking Ideas

Homemakers are discovering holiday entertaining far less hectic with microwave cooking. It even makes fancy meals fast and easy.

Approximate cooking times for turkeys follow: Eight to 10 pounds, 7½ minutes, 10 to 12 pounds, 7 minutes; 12 to 15 pounds, 6½ minutes.

The following recipes are designed for microwave ovens only.

WASSAIL BOWL

1 orange
½ teaspoon whole cloves
1½ quarters apple cider
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 cinnamon sticks

Insert cloves into peel of orange. Place in 2-quart pitcher or bowl. Cook uncovered, 2 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and cook, uncovered, 8 minutes. Serves 6.

STEAMED HOLIDAY PUDDING

2 cups flour
1/3 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
1/3 teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup grated suet or 1/3 cup cooking oil
1 cup raisins or chopped dates
½ cup chopped nuts
1 cup milk
1—3 cup molasses

In 2-quart casserole, combine ingredients and mix until moistened. Cook, covered, 7½ minutes. Let stand, covered, 2 minutes. Serve with nutmeg sauce or whipped cream. 10-12 servings.

Chestnuts And Apples Spark Stuffings

Traditional foods are keynotes of Thanksgiving, the exclusively American holiday which draws families together around tables laden with the fruits of autumn harvests.

Most families' choice for holiday feasting is a plump, well-browned fowl, bursting with a savory stuffing.

For generations of good cooks, farm sausage has been a basic for their poultry stuffing because of its spicy goodness and juicy compatibility with other favorite ingredients.

In the recipes given here, sausage is teamed with two of its most agreeable culinary companions, chestnuts and apples.

The first recipe, for those who like a stuffing that is rich and definitely textured, is a blend of herbs, sausage, chestnuts and bread crumbs, moisted with chicken broth.

In the second, for those who like a more cohesive stuffing with interesting flavor, chopped apples add the tang and bread crumbs and crumbled cornbread the additional body.

CHESTNUT AND SAUSAGE STUFFING

1 quart (about 2 lbs.) chestnuts
4 tsps. salad oil
6 cups chicken broth
1 onion, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
1 pound roll sausage
4 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon chopped chives
½ teaspoon powdered thyme
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon marjoram
2 cups soft bread crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut gashes in the flat side of each chestnut. Heat the oil, add chestnuts and cook over brisk heat 3 minutes, stirring or shaking the pan constantly. Drain and let cool.

Remove shells and inner skins. Cook chestnuts in the broth about 20 minutes, or until tender. Drain, reserving the broth for soup. Chop half chestnuts coarsely and mash the rest. Set aside.

Cook onion in butter until golden brown. Add sausage and seasonings. Stir constantly for about 4 to 5 minutes. Add to chestnuts. Soften bread crumbs in milk or water. Press out excess liquid and add to the chestnuts.

Stuff loosely into bird (Enough for 12 to 14 lb. bird)

KENTUCKY CORNBREAD AND SAUSAGE STUFFING

½ pound roll sausage
cooked crumbly, with drippings
1 tart apple, chopped
3 cups toasted bread cubes
3 cups crumbled cornbread
1 small onion, chopped
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon sage or poultry seasoning
1 cup chicken or turkey broth
or stock

Combine all ingredients, tossing lightly, and loosely fill the chicken. (Enough for 5 lb. bird; if used for turkey increase the proportions.)

Look Younger Day After Day After Day

Suddenly one morning you look in the mirror and face the truth. You don't look as young as you used to.

Women in many parts of the world have, like you, been distressed by the skin dryness that accents the wrinkles and lines that make a woman look older than need be. Then they discovered a world-renowned beauty secret. These women could tell you the benefits of their secret, Oil of Olay moisturizing lotion. But why not experience the beautiful results yourself?

Quick-penetrating Oil of Olay was created by beauty researchers to ease away dryness. Watch as your skin all but drinks in the unique blend, with its tropical moisturizing oils, abundant natural moisture, and other emollients. The precious fluid helps maintain the oil-moisture balance needed for younger-looking skin. Its natural ingredients help retain your skin's own moisture to keep you younger-looking still.

Oil of Olay® is as near as your drugstore. Apply lavishly morning and night. Look younger day after day after day.

Jewel Does More Than You'd Expect! Jewel Does More Than You'd Expect!

Franfare

by Fran Heckart

To enjoy a turkey dinner in Grandma's day, you had to buy a big bird and start preparing it early in the day, if not the day before. But today, because turkeys are produced in a wide range of sizes, from 6 to 24 pounds, you can find just the size to suit your needs.

If you're a homemaker who wants a traditional turkey dinner but something smaller or more convenient, then turkey parts or a boneless turkey roast can solve your problem.

A big turkey — one that weighs 16 pounds and over — looks good on the table, provides plenty of tasty leftovers, and is the best turkey buy. These turkeys are usually a few cents cheaper per pound and there is a larger proportion of meat to bone.

Turkey parts — halves, quarters, drumsticks, and pieces — although priced somewhat higher per pound than the whole bird, are excellent choices for small meals when no leftovers are desired.

The best guideline in selecting a good turkey is the U.S. Department of Agriculture's grade shield. This official grade shield means that the turkey has been quality graded by a trained Federal grader. Only turkeys which have first passed Federal inspection for wholesomeness can be graded.

The top grade for turkey, the one usually found in stores, is U.S. Grade A. Grade A birds have good overall shape and appearance. they are meaty, have a well-developed layer of fat in the skin, and are practically free from defects. Turkey parts, which may also be officially graded, must be meaty and have good appearance to be eligible for U.S. Grade A.

ANOTHER FACTOR to consider is the age of the bird. Age indicates tenderness and suggests ways to cook your turkey.

Young birds — more tender than older ones — will be labeled "young turkey," "fryer-roaster," "young hen," or "young tom." They are best suited for barbecuing, frying, broiling, or roasting. Mature, less tender birds, are sometimes preferred for stewing and baking or in soups and salads. They are labeled "mature turkey," "yearling turkey," or "old turkey."

The amount of turkey to buy depends on the number of servings needed and whether or not you want leftovers. For an average serving you will want to buy at least ½ pound of turkey per person — but you'll probably want more for a holiday meal.

To prepare your holiday bird for roasting, just wash and drain it. Stuff it with your favorite stuffing recipe and place the turkey breastside up (skin side up if roasting parts) on a rack in an open roasting pan.

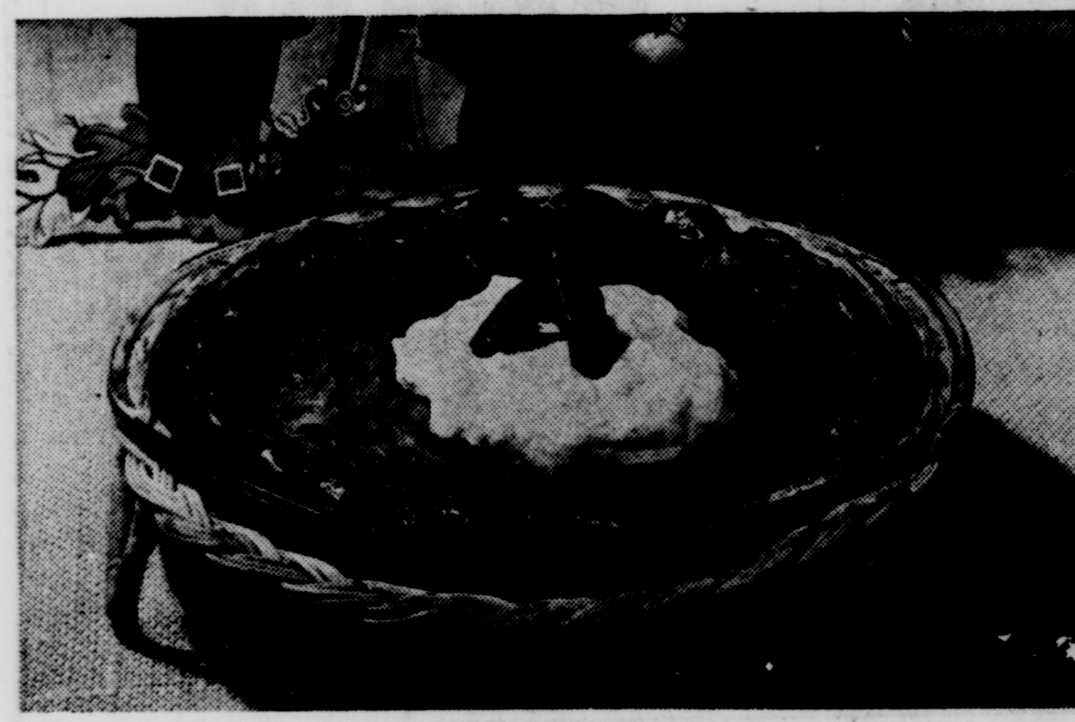
If turkey browns early in the roasting period, cover the breast and drumsticks with aluminum foil or thin cloth moistened with fat to prevent overbrowning.

For a simple holiday meal, try a boneless turkey roast. Turkey roasts are excellent for small families, buffets, and entertaining. They weigh from 2 to 10 pounds and can be purchased as all white meat, all dark meat, or a combination of both.

There is very little weight loss in cooking, and since there is no bone or waste, there are more servings per pound than with whole turkeys — allow about 1/3 pound for an average serving. Turkey roasts usually are packaged with cooking instructions which should be followed for best results.

Thanksgiving dinner need not be the only delicious turkey meal. If you have turkey leftovers or "planned-overs," you can create many diffferent turkey dishes.

Your favorite cookbook will provide recipes for simple as well as unusual turkey dishes. Try turkey soup or consomme. Use it in sauces, pies, casseroles, salads, hash, gravy, or croquettes.



Sweet Potato Caramel

Add Sweet Potato Treat

Though traditional foods do make Thanksgiving a special and unique celebration, there's still opportunity to add your own culinary creativity to the season's favorite fare.

Stuffing the turkey with a different dressing, serving the pumpkin pie in chiffon style and adding new ingredients and flavors to the vegetable dish can make the dinner more fun for you to prepare and for the family to eat.

Sweet potatoes have been on Thanksgiving menus since the Pilgrims and the Indians held the first celebration of this holiday over 300 years ago.

An appetizing variation of this traditional favorite — carameled sweet potatoes — is an easy-to-prepare casserole dish. It combines the rich flavor of dates with the sweet potato flavor that pleased the palate of the Plymouth Pilgrims so long ago. And, it features a caramelized topping made with maple syrup — a special touch that gives the dish holiday flair.

SWEET POTATO CARAMEL

Casserole

½ cup evaporated milk
1 egg
3 cups mashed cooked sweet potatoes
3 tablespoons butter
1 (8-oz) package imported diced dates or whole dates, cut up

Topping

½ cup maple syrup
¼ cup butter

Add milk and egg to mashed sweet potatoes. Beat well until a smooth paste is formed. Melt three tablespoons butter in a frying pan. Add dates, and saute for two minutes, stirring constantly. Add sweet potato mixture and blend until dates are dispersed. Place in a large casserole dish.

To prepare topping, heat maple syrup and one-fourth cup butter until butter is melted. Pour over the top of the casserole.

Bake at 400 degrees for approximately 40 minutes. Serve topped with a dollop of sour cream and garnished with whole pitted dates. Yield: six generous servings.

Big Bird Pays Off In Tasty Ways

Sandwiches, pies, casseroles, loaves — the number of dishes that can be devised with turkey leftovers is almost limitless. Delicately flavored turkey meat teams beautifully with many other foods so after its glorious debut, what's left can reappear at several more meals in new and interesting guises. Also, turkeys are on the plentiful list and bargain priced during this entertaining season so investing in a big one will pay delicious dividends.

Here, for your recipe file, are two turkey leftovers recipes. In addition to being novel and tasty, both have the added benefit of being fast and easy to prepare.

Potato Topped Turkey Pie is a combination of bits and pieces of meat, cranberry sauce and eggs. Topped with fluffy mashed potatoes quickly made with instant mashed potato granules, its an attractive and hearty meal-in-one.

Turkey slices are teamed with Canadian bacon to make the Turkey Benedict. The hot open sandwiches are capped with a savory cheese sauce sparked with prepared yellow mustard and Worcestershire sauce.

Either dish, accompanied by a green bean salad, relishes, a light fruit dessert and glasses of milk, is a balanced meal containing servings from each of the Basic Four Food Groups needed daily to keep fit.

POTATO TOPPED TURKEY PIE

2 cups finely diced cooked turkey
1 cup chopped celery
¾ cup whole berry cranberry sauce
½ cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup mayonnaise
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
1 envelope (5-servings) instant mashed potato granules

Combine all ingredients except potatoes. Spoon into well-greased 9-inch pie pan. Prepare mashed potatoes following directions on package. Spread over turkey. Bake at 350 degree for 35 minutes. 5 to 6 servings.

TURKEY BENEDICT

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons mustard
1 cup milk
½ cup shredded process American or cheddar cheese
6 English muffins, split, toasted, and buttered
12 slices Canadian bacon
12 small slices cooked turkey
2 to 3 tomatoes, sliced

Melt butter in a saucepan; add flour, Worcestershire sauce, mustard, milk and cheese. Stir constantly until cheese melts and mixture thickens. Top each muffin half with bacon, turkey, and tomato. Bake at 450 degrees for about 5 minutes. Spoon a little sauce over each. 6 servings.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

If you'd like something a little different as the main course on Thanksgiving Day, let me suggest this recipe for Scalloped Chicken, perfected by a friend.

It takes a little doing, but if you'll follow directions carefully, the product will be outstanding and it serves 12 generously. Start by purchasing a fat, 5-pound hen, preferably a baking hen.

Put the bird in a large pot with a scraped carrot, a peeled and sliced onion, 2 teaspoons salt and 2 quarts boiling water. Over low heat let the hen cook very slowly 2½ hours or until meat begins to leave bones. Remove from heat and let the bird cool in its own liquid. When cool, remove from broth, pull meat from bones and remove skin.

Rub the skin through a meat chopper with fine blade and reserve. Cook giblets in salted water until tender.

Now for the stuffying. While the hen is cooking, crumble 1½ loaves of 2-day-old white bread, with crusts removed. Melt ½ cup butter or margarine in a heavy skillet. Cut fine 6 springs parsley, 6 scallions with tops (or 1 medium onion) and 2 large stalks celery with tops. Cook vegetables in melted butter over low heat for 5 minutes.

Now mix into bread crumbs lightly with a fork to keep dressing fluffy. Grind the cooked giblets and mix in. Add 1 teaspoon salt, a good dash of white pepper and 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning. Finally add 6 tablespoons of the chicken broth (no more). Mix.

TURN YOUR attention to the sauce. Skim off fat from top of chicken broth and heat 1 cup in a large heavy saucepan. If you don't have that much fat, make up difference with butter or margarine. Heat 4 cups of the chicken broth and 1 cup milk together but do not boil.

Stir 1 cup sifted flour into the melted fat until smooth. Add broth and milk mixture gradually, stirring constantly. Add 2 teaspoons salt. Cook until very thick, stirring all the time. When cooked, beat 4 eggs slightly and mix in a little of the sauce to keep eggs from curdling. Then combine sauce and eggs and cook over low heat another 3 to 4 minutes, but keep stirring. When you remove from heat add finely ground chicken skin.

To put the dish together, grease 1 very large or two smaller casseroles. Put stuffing in the bottom carefully. Pour over half of the sauce. On top of this place chicken meat which has been cut with scissors into nice pieces. Add remaining sauce.

Toss 1 cup dry bread crumbs in 4 tablespoons melted butter. Sprinkle on top of the casserole. Put in a moderate (375 degree) oven and bake 20 minutes or until crumbs are golden and scalloped chicken is piping hot all the way through. Rich but delectable.

Franfare

by Fran Heckart

To enjoy a turkey dinner in Grandma's day, you had to buy a big bird and start preparing it early in the day, if not the day before. But today, because turkeys are produced in a wide range of sizes, from 6 to 24 pounds, you can find just the size to suit your needs.

If you're a homemaker who wants a traditional turkey dinner but something smaller or more convenient, then turkey parts or a boneless turkey roast can solve your problem.

A big turkey — one that weighs 16 pounds and over — looks good on the table, provides plenty of tasty leftovers, and is the best turkey buy. These turkeys are usually a few cents cheaper per pound and there is a larger proportion of meat to bone.

Turkey parts — halves, quarters, drumsticks, and pieces — although priced somewhat higher per pound than the whole bird, are excellent choices for small meals when no leftovers are desired.

The best guideline in selecting a good turkey is the U.S. Department of Agriculture's grade shield. This official grade shield means that the turkey has been quality graded by a trained Federal grader. Only turkeys which have first passed Federal inspection for wholesomeness can be graded.

The top grade for turkey, the one usually found in stores, is U.S. Grade A. Grade A birds have good overall shape and appearance. they are meaty, have a well-developed layer of fat in the skin, and are practically free from defects. Turkey parts, which may also be officially graded, must be meaty and have good appearance to be eligible for U.S. Grade A.

ANOTHER FACTOR to consider is the age of the bird. Age indicates tenderness and suggests ways to cook your turkey.

Young birds — more tender than older ones — will be labeled "young turkey," "fryer-roaster," "young hen," or "young tom." They are best suited for barbecuing, frying, broiling, or roasting. Mature, less tender birds, are sometimes preferred for stewing and baking or in soups and salads. They are labeled "mature turkey," "yearling turkey," or "old turkey."

The amount of turkey to buy depends on the number of servings needed and whether or not you want leftovers. For an average serving you will want to buy at least ½ pound of turkey per person — but you'll probably want more for a holiday meal.

To prepare your holiday bird for roasting, just wash and drain it. Stuff it with your favorite stuffing recipe and place the turkey breastside up (skin side up if roasting parts) on a rack in an open roasting pan.

If turkey browns early in the roasting period, cover the breast and drumsticks with aluminum foil or thin cloth moistened with fat to prevent overbrowning.

For a simple holiday meal, try a boneless turkey roast. Turkey roasts are excellent for small families, buffets, and entertaining. They weigh from 2 to 10 pounds and can be purchased as all white meat, all dark meat, or a combination of both.

There is very little weight loss in cooking, and since there is no bone or waste, there are more servings per pound than with whole turkeys — allow about 1/3 pound for an average serving. Turkey roasts usually are packaged with cooking instructions which should be followed for best results.

Thanksgiving dinner need not be the only delicious turkey meal. If you have turkey leftovers or "planned-overs," you can create many diffferent turkey dishes.

Your favorite cookbook will provide recipes for simple as well as unusual turkey dishes. Try turkey soup or consomme. Use it in sauces, pies, casseroles, salads, hash, gravy, or croquettes.

Sweet Potato Caramel

Add Sweet Potato Treat

Though traditional foods do make Thanksgiving a special and unique celebration, there's still opportunity to add your own culinary creativity to the season's favorite fare.

Stuffing the turkey with a different dressing, serving the pumpkin pie in chiffon style and adding new ingredients and flavors to the vegetable dish can make the dinner more fun for you to prepare and for the family to eat.

Sweet potatoes have been on Thanksgiving menus since the Pilgrims and the Indians held the first celebration of this holiday over 300 years ago.

An appetizing variation of this traditional favorite — carameled sweet potatoes — is an easy-to-prepare casserole dish. It combines the rich flavor of dates with the sweet potato flavor that pleased the palate of the Plymouth Pilgrims so long ago. And, it features a caramelized topping made with maple syrup — a special touch that gives the dish holiday flair.

SWEET POTATO CARAMEL

Casserole

½ cup evaporated milk
1 egg
3 cups mashed cooked sweet potatoes
3 tablespoons butter
1 (8-oz) package imported diced dates or whole dates, cut up

Topping

½ cup maple syrup
¼ cup butter

Add milk and egg to mashed sweet potatoes. Beat well until a smooth paste is formed. Melt three tablespoons butter in a frying pan. Add dates, and saute for two minutes, stirring constantly. Add sweet potato mixture and blend until dates are dispersed. Place in a large casserole dish.

To prepare topping, heat maple syrup and one-fourth cup butter until butter is melted. Pour over the top of the casserole.

Big Bird Pays Off In Tasty Ways

Sandwiches, pies, casseroles, loaves — the number of dishes that can be devised with turkey leftovers is almost limitless. Delicately flavored turkey meat teams beautifully with many other foods so after its glorious debut, what's left can reappear at several more meals in new and interesting guises. Also, turkeys are on the plentiful list and bargain priced during this entertaining season so investing in a big one will pay delicious dividends.

Here, for your recipe file, are two turkey leftovers recipes. In addition to being novel and tasty, both have the added benefit of being fast and easy to prepare.

Potato Topped Turkey Pie is a combination of bits and pieces of meat, cranberry sauce and eggs. Topped with fluffy mashed potatoes quickly made with instant mashed potato granules, its an attractive and hearty meal-in-one.

Turkey slices are teamed with Canadian bacon to make the Turkey Benedict. The hot open sandwiches are capped with a savory cheese sauce sparked with prepared yellow mustard and Worcestershire sauce.

Either dish, accompanied by a green bean salad, relishes, a light fruit dessert and glasses of milk, is a balanced meal containing servings from each of the Basic Four Food Groups needed daily to keep fit.

POTATO TOPPED TURKEY PIE

2 cups finely diced cooked turkey
1 cup chopped celery
¾ cup whole berry cranberry sauce
½ cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup mayonnaise
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
1 envelope (5-servings) instant mashed potato granules

Combine all ingredients except potatoes. Spoon into well-greased 9-inch pie pan. Prepare mashed potatoes following directions on package. Spread over turkey. Bake at 350 degree for 35 minutes. 5 to 6 servings.

TURKEY BENEDICT

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons mustard
1 cup milk
½ cup shredded process American or cheddar cheese
6 English muffins, split, toasted, and buttered
12 slices Canadian bacon
12 small slices cooked turkey
2 to 3 tomatoes, sliced

Melt butter in a saucepan; add flour, Worcestershire sauce, mustard, milk and cheese. Stir constantly until cheese melts and mixture thickens. Top each muffin half with bacon, turkey, and tomato. Bake at 450 degrees for about 5 minutes. Spoon a little sauce over each. 6 servings.

Roasted Turkey Deserves A Rest

by JEANNE LESEM

Holiday turkey, like the cook who prepares it, benefits from a short rest before dinner.

Roast turkey is easier to carve and juicier if it sets in a warm spot out of the oven for 15 to 30 minutes before serving. Use the longer time for large birds.

If you buy a frozen turkey instead of a fresh one, allow ample defrosting time. It should be at refrigerator temperature, or about 40 degrees, when it goes into the oven. A warmer bird cooks faster, or a colder one, more slowly.

One turkey farmer's wife, who roasts about 500 big birds a year, estimates that a thawed frozen one takes about 30 minutes longer to cook than a fresh-killed one of the same weight and shape.

A defrosted uncooked turkey can be refrigerated safely for two or three days. But cover it with a damp towel so the skin doesn't dry out and split during roasting.

Defrosting times are only approximate. Food thaws faster in a refrigerator that's opened frequently than it does in one rarely opened. It also thaws faster in a warm room than a cool one. Keep these factors in mind when you use the following simple formula for estimating defrosting times. Allow about 24 hours for each five pounds of bird thawed in the refrigerator, or 1-2 days for an 8-11 pound one; 2-3 days for 11-14 pound birds; 3-4 days for 14-19 pound ones; and 4-5 for 20-24 pound ones. Plan on about 30 minutes per pound for defrosting turkeys in cold water that is changed every 30-45 minutes; or about 1 hour per pound, for a bird enclosed in a large paper bag and left at room temperature. Close the end of the bag with pins, paper clips or clothes pins.

FOR REFRIGERATOR or room temperature thawing, puncture the original wrapping in several places or open it part way and place the bird in a shallow pan or deep platter to catch drippings. For water bath thawing, make sure the original wrapping is unpunctured so the bird won't soak up water.

Defrosting will be speeded up if you remove the giblet package from the cavity as soon as possible. But never stuff the turkey until you're ready to cook it. Like ground meat, stuffings have so much surface exposed to air that they spoil more easily and rapidly than solid foods do. Commercially stuffed and frozen turkeys are safe because they're packed under stringent sanitary conditions, frozen rapidly and stored at temperatures well below zero.

Many manufacturers provide cooking instructions on the original wrappings of frozen birds. If no such information is available, here are guidelines from the National Turkey Federation, a trade organization for roasting stuffed turkeys. Cut the cooking time by 1 hour for unstuffed ones of the same weights.

In a preheated 325-degree oven, allow 2-2½ hours for 6-8 pound birds, 2½-3 hours, for 8-12 pounds, 3-3¾ hours for 12-16 pounds, 3¾-4½ hours for 16-20 pounds and 4½-5½ hours for 20-24 pounds.

If you baste the turkey often, allow additional roasting time to compensate for the drop in oven temperature every time the door is opened.

For greatest accuracy, use a roast meat thermometer. Insert it in the thickest part of the thigh but not touching bone. Because it continues to cook for a short time after it's removed from the oven, a small turkey should be taken out when the thermometer registers 175 and a large one, 180 degrees.

DON'T TRY TO roast a large bird in a small oven. For even heat circulation allow at least 1-1½ inches of air space around all sides of the bird and pan.

At meal time, have a service plate prewarmed on an electric warming tray if possible. Keep garnishes on the turkey platter at a minimum so they won't interfere with carving.

Place the turkey so its breast is at the left of a righthanded carver, or the right of a southpaw. If legs are held together by a band of skin, cut it with knife or scissors.

Provide a small folded cloth to protect the carver's other hand from heat and fat while holding the tip of the drumstick to steady it when making the first cut. Slice downward through the skin that separates the thigh from the body of the turkey, and bend the whole leg and thigh toward the platter as you do so. Sever the joint, place the meat, cut side down, on the service plate. Separate the two leg joints to be served individually, if small, or sliced, if large.

Insert carving fork firmly into top joint of wing and press downward as you make a long cut at the bottom of the breast at a right angle to the breast bone. Still holding the wing downward, sever the joint connecting it to the body and remove wing to service platter. Slice the breast in straight, even strokes, beginning about halfway up the breast. When the knife reaches the horizonital cut above the wing joint, the slices will fall free. Continue carving, moving the knife nearer the top of the breast bone with each slice. Serve turkey and stuffing when enough meat has been carved for all guests.

Spanish-Style Chicken Dinner Assembled Quickly

Pollo Cacerola features beans, rice, peppers and celery with chicken in a preprepared, convenience sauce. Its assembly time is ten minutes or less.

Quick-style rice is used dry with moisture from the other ingredients, making it tender. Peppers and celery combine to offer a unique aroma.

POLLO CACEROLA

6 chicken legs and thighs
1 40-oz. can kidney beans
2 cups rice — quick style
4 green peppers
Salt
2 2¼-oz. packages dry chili con carne sauce mix
1 small onion
4 stalks celery
Pepper

Pre-heat oven to 375 degrees. Line large baking dish or cake pan with heavy duty aluminum foil. Aluminum foil should be 2½ times length of baking dish or cake pan. Place chicken parts in dish and pour dry rice around them. Sprinkle salt and pepper to preference on chicken parts. Pour drained kidney beans over rice. Cut peppers into slices, celery into sticks and onion into small pieces, and place over kidney beans. Mix chili con carne sauce as directed on package and pour over all ingredients. Fold aluminum foil over top of mixture, sealing edges tightly. Cook for two hours. Serve as is or spoon complete item into casserole dish. Serves four.

Nutrition Famine

Dr. Philip White, secretary of the American Medical Association's Council on Foods and Nutrition, recently conducted a survey on the extent to which nutrition is taught in medical schools. He estimated that only seven out of 60 offer nutrition courses and those are more likely to be incorporated into other courses than to be taught as an individual science.

Roasted Turkey Deserves A Rest

by JEANNE LESEM

Holiday turkey, like the cook who prepares it, benefits from a short rest before dinner.

Roast turkey is easier to carve and juicier if it sets in a warm spot out of the oven for 15 to 30 minutes before serving. Use the longer time for large birds.

If you buy a frozen turkey instead of a fresh one, allow ample defrosting time. It should be at refrigerator temperature, or about 40 degrees, when it goes into the oven. A warmer bird cooks faster, or a colder one, more slowly.

One turkey farmer's wife, who roasts about 500 big birds a year, estimates that a thawed frozen one takes about 30 minutes longer to cook than a fresh-killed one of the same weight and shape.

A defrosted uncooked turkey can be refrigerated safely for two or three days. But cover it with a damp towel so the skin doesn't dry out and split during roasting.

Defrosting times are only approximate. Food thaws faster in a refrigerator that's opened frequently than it does in one rarely opened. It also thaws faster in a warm room than a cool one. Keep these factors in mind when you use the following simple formula for estimating defrosting times. Allow about 24 hours for each five pounds of bird thawed in the refrigerator, or 1-2 days for an 8-11 pound one; 2-3 days for 11-14 pound birds; 3-4 days for 14-19 pound ones; and 4-5 for 20-24 pound ones. Plan on about 30 minutes per pound for defrosting turkeys in cold water that is changed every 30-45 minutes; or about 1 hour per pound, for a bird enclosed in a large paper bag and left at room temperature. Close the end of the bag with pins, paper clips or clothes pins.

FOR REFRIGERATOR or room temperature thawing, puncture the original wrapping in several places or open it part way and place the bird in a shallow pan or deep platter to catch drippings. For water bath thawing, make sure the original wrapping is unpunctured so the bird won't soak up water.

Defrosting will be speeded up if you remove the giblet package from the cavity as soon as possible. But never stuff the turkey until you're ready to cook it. Like ground meat, stuffings have so much surface exposed to air that they spoil more easily and rapidly than solid foods do. Commercially stuffed and frozen turkeys are safe because they're packed under stringent sanitary conditions, frozen rapidly and stored at temperatures well below zero.

Many manufacturers provide cooking instructions on the original wrappings of frozen birds. If no such information is available, here are guidelines from the National Turkey Federation, a trade organization for roasting stuffed turkeys. Cut the cooking time by 1 hour for unstuffed ones of the same weights.

In a preheated 325-degree oven, allow 2-2½ hours for 6-8 pound birds, 2½-3 hours, for 8-12 pounds, 3-3¾ hours for 12-16 pounds, 3¾-4½ hours for 16-20 pounds and 4½-5½ hours for 20-24 pounds.

If you baste the turkey often, allow additional roasting time to compensate for the drop in oven temperature every time the door is opened.

For greatest accuracy, use a roast meat thermometer. Insert it in the thickest part of the thigh but not touching bone. Because it continues to cook for a short time after it's removed from the oven, a small turkey should be taken out when the thermometer registers 175 and a large one, 180 degrees.

DON'T TRY TO roast a large bird in a small oven. For even heat circulation allow at least 1-1½ inches of air space around all sides of the bird and pan.

At meal time, have a service plate prewarmed on an electric warming tray if possible. Keep garnishes on the turkey platter at a minimum so they won't interfere with carving.

Place the turkey so its breast is at the left of a righthanded carver, or the right of a southpaw. If legs are held together by a band of skin, cut it with knife or scissors.

Provide a small folded cloth to protect the carver's other hand from heat and fat while holding the tip of the drumstick to steady it when making the first cut. Slice downward through the skin that separates the thigh from the body of the turkey, and bend the whole leg and thigh toward the platter as you do so. Sever the joint, place the meat, cut side down, on the service plate. Separate the two leg joints to be served individually, if small, or sliced, if large.

Insert carving fork firmly into top joint of wing and press downward as you make a long cut at the bottom of the breast at a right angle to the breast bone. Still holding the wing downward, sever the joint connecting it to the body and remove wing to service platter. Slice the breast in straight, even strokes, beginning about halfway up the breast. When the knife reaches the horizonital cut above the wing joint, the slices will fall free. Continue carving, moving the knife nearer the top of the breast bone with each slice. Serve turkey and stuffing when enough meat has been carved for all guests.

Nutrition Famine

Dr. Philip White, secretary of the American Medical Association's Council on Foods and Nutrition, recently conducted a survey on the extent to which nutrition is taught in medical schools. He estimated that only seven out of 60 offer nutrition courses and those are more likely to be incorporated into other courses than to be taught as an individual science.

Spanish-Style Chicken Dinner Assembled Quickly

Pollo Cacerola features beans, rice, peppers and celery with chicken in a preprepared, convenience sauce. Its assembly time is ten minutes or less.

Quick-style rice is used dry with moisture from the other ingredients, making it tender. Peppers and celery combine to offer a unique aroma.

POLLO CACEROLA

6 chicken legs and thighs
1 40-oz. can kidney beans
2 cups rice — quick style
4 green peppers
Salt
2 2¼-oz. packages dry chili con carne sauce mix
1 small onion
4 stalks celery
Pepper

Pre-heat oven to 375 degrees. Line large baking dish or cake pan with heavy duty aluminum foil. Aluminum foil should be 2½ times length of baking dish or cake pan. Place chicken parts in dish and pour dry rice around them. Sprinkle salt and pepper to preference on chicken parts. Pour drained kidney beans over rice. Cut peppers into slices, celery into sticks and onion into small pieces, and place over kidney beans. Mix chili con carne sauce as directed on package and pour over all ingredients. Fold aluminum foil over top of mixture, sealing edges tightly. Cook for two hours. Serve as is or spoon complete item into casserole dish. Serves four.

American Visitors Observe ORT At Work In Israel

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Three area women recently visited Israel for a very special reason . . to see first-hand the ORT program in operation, to meet all "their children" enrolled in the vocational schools that ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation Through Training has built and currently maintains in Israel.

More than 1,000 leaders and supporters of the ORT movement met in Jerusalem last month for the Women's American ORT ninth National Board conference.

The guest list included Mrs. Sherwood Zwirn of Buffalo Grove, Mrs. Richard Ginsberg of Hoffman Estates and Mrs. Irving Rish of Elk Grove Village.

It was an unparalled move for the women's organization, taking the conference outside of the United States to a country where ORT's services are actually in progress. ORT's annual student enrollment in Israel is nearing the 50,000 mark — more than half the total worldwide ORT enrollment.

ORT IS A worldwide network whose central purpose is to help Jewish people by offering them vocational and technical education. No minority groups, however, are excluded from its program or membership. Combatting anti-Semitism is an indirect goal.

Women's American ORT is the largest group supporting the global program of ORT whose schools are all located outside the United States except for one, a dressmaking and tailoring school that opened in New York after World War II.

"For instance public schooling in Israel ends after eight or nine years," explained Mrs. Zwirn. "Students have to pay for any further training. That's what ORT offers. The standard school is a vocational high school with a three-to-four year curriculum in which an academic high school education is given along with technical training."

The industrial trades taught vary according to the needs of each country.

"After four years of vocational training a student has the option to go to college," continued Mrs. Zwirn, "and that's after the army too," a duty most Israelis look forward to.

"IT IS A PRIVILEGE to be in the army," said Mrs. Ginsburg. "Soldiers are treated with reverence. People vie for the privilege of giving them a ride when they see them hitchhiking along the road."

ORT was first created in 1880 to provide training for the Jewish people of Russia who were left without the means to make a living when stripped of their property.

Currently ORT operates in 22 countries on five continents. Some 70,000 students receive some form of vocational training through the aid of ORT.

The three area housewives agreed that one of the highlights of the entire ORT conference was the opening address by Golda Meir, Prime Minister of Israel, who said, "You should really thank us for giving you something to do that you like."

"WE ARE ALL paid the same nothing," said Mrs. Ginsburg. "We have no fight over raises."

The seven chapters in the area that make up the West Suburban Region of Women's American ORT, have a combined financial commitment of $16,000 to be raised throughout the year from a variety of fund-raising events.

"No one is going to beat us if we don't make it," said Mrs. Rish, "but schools there are depending on us."

"We are involved in taking care of the total child," she continued. "A student can't learn if he is hungry. We see to medical problems too and provide social assistance for cultural events."

"The John F. Kennedy Center in Jerusalem has little gardens and parkways," said Mrs. Zwirn. "We want to show the children that there is more to life than just buildings, stones and poverty."

THE THREE WOMEN experienced no fear of impending terrorist attacks while visiting Israel and except for noticing guards posted on the roofs of buildings throughout Jerusalem and undergoing security checks before entering any governmental building, they seldom remembered they were visiting a country still at war.

"We had no feeling of being in danger," said Mrs. Rish, "not even while roaming around in Old Jerusalem," a form of sightseeing that they felt would be unsafe even in the United States.

"The people talk a lot about the six-day war," said Mrs. Zwirn. "They want to remind people it happened, but Israel is more at peace now than the country ever has been. The Arabs and Israelis appear to be co-existing beautifully in Jerusalem. The Arabs have better jobs and better housing than they did before the war."

And what about the tragic Olympic incident?

"WE ARE MORE shocked than they are. For them it is just another terrorist activity," said Mrs. Zwirn. "They know they have to go on living. There is not a family that hasn't lost a member or a friend in either a border incident, the six-day war or through a concentration camp. It's part of their life. They live with it."

"There is not one block in Jerusalem where construction is not going on," said Mrs. Ginsburg. "Many of the buildings are new apartments. There is a tremendous housing shortage in Israel."

While the ORT program is firmly entrenched in foreign countries, few tangible steps have been taken in the United States. Part of the reason is because the U.S. has developed a sound public educational system of its own.

THE U.S. IS REALLY fortunate," said Mrs. Zwirn. "Secondary education is free. However, there is still a stigma about vocational training. The government is coming to us to ask if we will participate in a vocational training conference. We can't just set up a school, but what we want to do is set up a model in a poverty-stricken Jewish community where administrators can come and learn to apply things in their own school systems."

And Mrs. Rish summed up the proposal by saying, "A country that cannot repair itself is in trouble."

MRS RICHARD GINSBURG belongs to Woodfield Chapter of ORT and currently serves as chairman of the executive committee of West Suburban Region.

A MEMBER OF Countryside Chapter of Women's American ORT, Mrs. Irving Rish is membership chairman for the West Suburban Region that includes the seven area chapters.

MODELING JEWELRY she bought in Israel, Mrs. Sherwood Zwirn, a member of Far Acres Chapter, currently presides over the West Suburban Region of Women's American ORT.

George Baumet says that about his wife, Evelyn, who has been cooking for servicemen for 14 years.

Mrs. Baumet, of 102 S. Derbyshire Lane, Arlington Heights, is a USO volunteer. Every Friday without fail, she can be found in the kitchen of the USO club, 64 E. Randolph St., in Chicago, turning out cake, cookies, mostaccioli, turkey and everything else that warms a serviceman's heart — or rather, his stomach.

Through the PTA, Mrs. Baumet first volunteered to do some cooking for the Salvation Army during the holidays 14 years ago. Then she heard that the USO needed help, and she's been there ever since.

She took a few years off from the club while her two daughters were in high school and invited servicemen to her home every weekend instead.

"It was so much fun," she glowed. "They're all nice boys."

AND THE BOYS remember Mrs. Baumet's kindness to them. She said she receives many invitations to weddings and baby showers, and she gets cards "from the West Coast, Puerto Rico, everywhere." She told of servicemen and their wives who come back to Chicago to visit and look her up at the USO, perhaps to show her a new baby. And she is obviously very pleased.

Meanwhile, at the club, there is always a constant flow of new faces, and Mrs. Baumet is there to talk to the boys and help in any way she can.

"I think the kids are fantastic. They feel a need to tell you things sometimes, and I think it keeps us on our toes, too."

This personable grandmother of six is perhaps typical of a volunteer in that she is busy doing many things and yet always has time for more, if it means helping someone. Besides working four days a week in her husband's machine shop and at the USO on Fridays, she collects for the cerebral palsy fund, is active in her sorority and has helped out at UNICEF at Christmas time. She also drops in at the USO lounge at O'Hare occasionally, and was on hand for three days of long, hard labor when the USO moved into its present quarters (which, thanks to Mrs. Baumet and other volunteers, have been charmingly decorated.)

AND BETWEEN all that, Mrs. Baumet and her husband travel a fair amount — always ending up at the local USO, wherever they go here or abroad. "They're always a little different," she says.

Mrs. Baumet is one of 150 volunteers who keep the USO going. The USO employs only four paid staff personnel, who depend entirely on the volunteers to man the information desk, serve food and just "do whatever needs doing," according to Mary Lou Zurenda, director of the Chicago club. The USO is open every day of the week.

Volunteers come to the USO "from every walk of life," Miss Zurenda said. They include senior citizens, housewives, young career people, young married couples and ex-military personnel. In addition, a corps of junior volunteers — girls 18 to 25 — are on hand evenings and weekends to entertain the servicemen.

"The girls dance with boys, play cards or pool or just talk," Miss Zurenda said. They also visit the local military bases and hospitals, and join with the servicemen on community projects, such as taking underprivileged children to the zoo or helping the elderly, according to USO public relations director Eileen Ganz.

THE USO ALSO depends on a "tremendous volunteer effort through people donating food and tickets to plays and concerts," Mrs. Ganz said. And then there are those individuals who give of themselves in their own special ways. Mrs. Ganz told of one man, a former pilot, who owns a plane and takes the boys flying.

As the USO's motto goes, it's a "home away from home" for servicemen, and since most of them spend a fair amount of time in airports, the USO is there, too. Dorothy Ermoyian, director of operations at O'Hare, is kept especially busy at holiday times and whenever the weather is bad.

She is expecting to feed at least 600 this Thanksgiving, but remembers a snowy Easter when grounded planes left hundreds of servicemen stranded for three days at O'Hare. The USO lounge, attempting to keep its buffet service going, finally resorted to peanut butter after running out of everything else.

O'Hare's USO lounge ordinarily serves about 6,000 servicemen and their families each month, and this requires the help of at least one volunteer at all times.

THE USO — and the other organizations using volunteers that have been discussed in this series — are only a few examples of the many kinds of work one can do as a volunteer. There are many more types of activities, and many more institutions using volunteers.

The important task of coordinating volunteer work in this area and directing volunteers to those who need them — as well as vice versa — is performed by the Volunteer Bureau of Northwest Cook County, under the direction of Mrs. Esther Rubchak.

Why volunteer?

Mrs. Baumet may have put her finger on it when she said: "I think you get what you give. If you're nice to people they're nice to you."

"SUGAR AND SPICE and everything nice" — that's what Mrs. George Baumet of Arlington Heights cooks up for the servicemen who come to the USO club in Chicago. Mrs Baumet has been a USO volunteer for 14 years.

American Visitors Observe ORT At Work In Israel

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Three area women recently visited Israel for a very special reason . . to see first-hand the ORT program in operation, to meet all "their children" enrolled in the vocational schools that ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation Through Training has built and currently maintains in Israel.

More than 1,000 leaders and supporters of the ORT movement met in Jerusalem last month for the Women's American ORT ninth National Board conference.

The guest list included Mrs. Sherwood Zwirn of Buffalo Grove, Mrs. Richard Ginsberg of Hoffman Estates and Mrs. Irving Rish of Elk Grove Village.

It was an unparalled move for the women's organization, taking the conference outside of the United States to a country where ORT's services are actually in progress. ORT's annual student enrollment in Israel is nearing the 50,000 mark — more than half the total worldwide ORT enrollment.

ORT IS A worldwide network whose central purpose is to help Jewish people by offering them vocational and technical education. No minority groups, however, are excluded from its program or membership. Combatting anti-Semitism is an indirect goal.

Women's American ORT is the largest group supporting the global program of ORT whose schools are all located outside the United States except for one, a dressmaking and tailoring school that opened in New York after World War II.

"For instance public schooling in Israel ends after eight or nine years," explained Mrs. Zwirn. "Students have to pay for any further training. That's what ORT offers. The standard school is a vocational high school with a three-to-four year curriculum in which an academic high school education is given along with technical training."

The industrial trades taught vary according to the needs of each country.

"After four years of vocational training a student has the option to go to college," continued Mrs. Zwirn, "and that's after the army too," a duty most Israelis look forward to.

"IT IS A PRIVILEGE to be in the army," said Mrs. Ginsburg. "Soldiers are treated with reverence. People vie for the privilege of giving them a ride when they see them hitchhiking along the road."

ORT was first created in 1880 to provide training for the Jewish people of Russia who were left without the means to make a living when stripped of their property.

Currently ORT operates in 22 countries on five continents. Some 70,000 students receive some form of vocational training through the aid of ORT.

The three area housewives agreed that one of the highlights of the entire ORT conference was the opening address by Golda Meir, Prime Minister of Israel, who said, "You should really thank us for giving you something to do that you like."

"WE ARE ALL paid the same nothing," said Mrs. Ginsburg. "We have no fight over raises."

The seven chapters in the area that make up the West Suburban Region of Women's American ORT, have a combined financial commitment of $16,000 to be raised throughout the year from a variety of fund-raising events.

"No one is going to beat us if we don't make it," said Mrs. Rish, "but schools there are depending on us."

"We are involved in taking care of the total child," she continued. "A student can't learn if he is hungry. We see to medical problems too and provide social assistance for cultural events."

"The John F. Kennedy Center in Jerusalem has little gardens and parkways," said Mrs. Zwirn. "We want to show the children that there is more to life than just buildings, stones and poverty."

THE THREE WOMEN experienced no fear of impending terrorist attacks while visiting Israel and except for noticing guards posted on the roofs of buildings throughout Jerusalem and undergoing security checks before entering any governmental building, they seldom remembered they were visiting a country still at war.

"We had no feeling of being in danger," said Mrs. Rish, "not even while roaming around in Old Jerusalem," a form of sightseeing that they felt would be unsafe even in the United States.

"The people talk a lot about the six-day war," said Mrs. Zwirn. "They want to remind people it happened, but Israel is more at peace now than the country ever has been. The Arabs and Israelis appear to be co-existing beautifully in Jerusalem. The Arabs have better jobs and better housing than they did before the war."

And what about the tragic Olympic incident?

"WE ARE MORE shocked than they are. For them it is just another terrorist activity," said Mrs. Zwirn. "They know they have to go on living. There is not a family that hasn't lost a member or a friend in either a border incident, the six-day war or through a concentration camp. It's part of their life. They live with it."

"There is not one block in Jerusalem where construction is not going on," said Mrs. Ginsburg. "Many of the buildings are new apartments. There is a tremendous housing shortage in Israel."

While the ORT program is firmly entrenched in foreign countries, few tangible steps have been taken in the United States. Part of the reason is because the U.S. has developed a sound public educational system of its own.

THE U.S. IS REALLY fortunate," said Mrs. Zwirn. "Secondary education is free. However, there is still a stigma about vocational training. The government is coming to us to ask if we will participate in a vocational training conference. We can't just set up a school, but what we want to do is set up a model in a poverty-stricken Jewish community where administrators can come and learn to apply things in their own school systems."

And Mrs. Rish summed up the proposal by saying, "A country that cannot repair itself is in trouble."

MRS RICHARD GINSBURG belongs to Woodfield Chapter of ORT and currently serves as chairman of the executive committee of West Suburban Region.

A MEMBER OF Countryside Chapter of Women's American ORT, Mrs. Irving Rish is membership chairman for the West Suburban Region that includes the seven area chapters.

MODELING JEWELRY she bought in Israel, Mrs. Sherwood Zwirn, a member of Far Acres Chapter, currently presides over the West Suburban Region of Women's American ORT.

The USO Is There

PALATINE JAYCEE WIVES

Palatine Jaycee Wives will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in Palatine Village Hall, 54 S. Brockway.

There will be no general meeting. The program will be a hand craft auction. Co-hostesses are: Mrs. D. Lundgren, Mrs. J. Gehling, Mrs. A. Anderson, Mrs. H. Smith and Mrs. J. Jirgenson.

All wives of the Palatine Jaycees and their friends are invited.

ARLINGTON NURSES

"The Modern Nursing Home and Modern Care of the Modern Geriatric Patient" will be the topic of Arlington Heights Nurses Club Thursday afternoon. The group will be meeting at 1 in St. Joseph's Home, Palatine. Preceding the meeting will be a tour of the St. Joseph's nursing home.

Hostesses will be Mrs. James Bragg, chairman, Mrs. Richard Ackerman, Mrs. Don Helbling, Mrs. Russell Lockwood, Mrs. Thomas Maver, Mrs. Joseph Mayer and Mrs. Nicholos Raino.

HOME ECONOMISTS

Home Economists in Homemaking will visit the Lambs Farm in Libertyville for luncheon and a tour Saturday. Members and guests may arrive at 11:45 to browse the farmers' market, the silk-screen shop where Christmas cards are made and the animal pet facilities before gathering for lunch in the dining room at 12:30. Following lunch, members will see a film. All graduate home economists in the area are invited.

Lambs Farm is the first business in the nation operated for the sole purpose of employing mentally-retarded young adults. It provides an atmosphere in which an opportunity for the retarded can grow, be accepted and be useful, according to a spokesman.

For further information, readers may contact Mrs. Philip Breiding, CL 3-1289.

DELTA PILOTS' WIVES

Delta Airlines Pilots' Wives Club will meet Tuesday for luncheon at Nielsen's in Rosemont. Speaker will be Robert Tomba, a pilot and representative of VIVA, who will present a talk on POWs.

The cocktail hour is at 11:30 a.m. with luncheon following at 12:30.

To Discuss Divorce Rights

The "Rights of Women Prior To and After Divorce" will be explained to the Northwest Suburban Branch of the American Association of University Women by James M. Forkins, professor of law at Loyola University since 1947 and counsel with the firm of Rinella and Rinella.

James M. Forkins

His presentation will highlight the meeting of the branch Thursday at 8 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, Algonquin and Fifth, Des Plaines.

Forkins' knowledge and background in family law and divorce are extensive. He holds a Ph. B. from the University of Detroit and a doctor of jurisprudence from the University of Michigan.

HE HAS SERVED as president of the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers; member of the Executive Committee of Joint Commission of Illinois State and Chicago Bar Association to rewrite family law; member and past chairman of the Chicago Bar Association Committee on Matrimonial Law; the American Bar Association Section on Family Law; and the Illinois State Bar Association Section on Family Law.

Father of five children, most of them grown, Forkins and his wife have lived in Des Plaines since 1954. Mrs. Forkins is president of the Northwest Suburban Branch of AAUW.

All college graduates are invited to this meeting. Serving on the hospitality committee are Mrs. G. W. Pfaff of Park Ridge; and Mrs. G. W. Dahl, Mrs. R. Price, Mrs. R. F. Acker, Mrs. D. Botkin and Mrs. G. R. Brubaker, all of Des Plaines.

Saturday Bazaar

The Ladies Guild of Peace Reformed Church, Mount Prospect, is sponsoring a Holiday Bazaar and bake sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday in the church, Golf and Meier Roads.

Sandwiches will be served during the noon hour.

Straps To Clutches

Shoulder strap bags are still the most popular style handbag. This season they're softer leather and more unstructured in shape. But with longer dresses in the evening, there's a total switch to the clutch or handstrap bags.

Nerve Disorder May Cause Most Reading Disabilities

COLUMBUS, Miss. (UPI) — A researcher at Mississippi State College for Women says he has uncovered evidence that neurological disorders, rather than poor teaching or low intelligence levels, are the primary causes of reading disabilities.

Dr. James I. Califf, director of the Reading Center at MSCW, is studying 600 cases of poor readers who were studied at the center.

A preliminary study of 200 of the cases, he said, revealed that 98 per cent showed indications of a neurological disorder.

"Our cases usually have I.Q.s of 100 or better and in one instance we had a boy with an I.Q. of 152, or genius level," he said. "Verbally, he was superior and was able to put anything together. But he couldn't read."

Reading disability, or dyselexia, is a nationwide problem, and significant losses in reading achievement have been found among more than 50 per cent of the students in some Mississippe school systems over the last decade.

THE SITUATION has generally been blamed on emotional disturbances, low intelligence levels or poor teaching.

When a child is brought to the reading center, he is evaluated to determine the cause of the problem and locate specific problems he is experiencing.

Included in the evaluation are a neurological organization test, intelligence tests, hearing and speech tests and an examination to determine visual-motor and visual-perception skills.

The child is then placed in a therapy program that includes tutoring, physical exercise and possibly diet control

Califf said that the students — most of whom range from nine to 12 years old — are treated from six months to one year — with 80 to 85 per cent showing marked improvement.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I've always been less than keen on milk and a friend suggested I substitute cottage cheese — which I do like. She said it would provide just as much nourishment. Is this actually true? — Margy Jones

There are more than a few of us who sympathize with you because milk isn't high on our taste lists, either. The nutrient totals of the two are different. Because it is made from nonfat or skimmed milk and therefore has a low-fat content, cottage cheese contains few of the fat-soluble vitamins. Two ounces of plain, uncreamed cottage cheese contain about as much protein as a glass of milk. However, it has only about 50 mg. of calcium compared with about 300 in a glass of milk. In summary, the pluses for dry cottage cheese are high quality protein, low fat content and the ease of handling; the minus is in calcium.

Dear Dorothy: This little tip might be useful sometime for men who smoke pipes. My husband and I were sitting waiting in a doctor's outer office when his pipe clogged up. He fumbled through his pockets, then noticed a man across the room smoking a pipe. He asked if he had an extra pipe cleaner. The man said he didn't, but try a paper clip. The receptionist provided one, it was unfolded and did the necessary cleaning job. — Mrs. T. C. K.

Dear Dorothy: For some time I was annoyed and mystified by black marks and streaks on my linoleum-covered kitchen drain board. Suddenly light! The marks were caused by the four metal "feet" on the bottoms of my stand-up purses. Three coats of clear nail polish took care of the problem. — Mrs. J.A.F.

Dear Dorothy: This little tip might be useful sometime for men who smoke pipes. My husband and I were sitting waiting in a doctor's outer office when his pipe clogged up. He fumbled through his pockets, then noticed a man across the room smoking a pipe. He asked if he had an extra pipe cleaner. The man said he didn't, but try a paper clip. The receptionist provided one, it was unfolded and did the necessary cleaning job. — Mrs. T. C. K.

Dear Dorothy: For some time I was annoyed and mystified by black marks and streaks on my linoleum-covered kitchen drain board. Suddenly light! The marks were caused by the four metal "feet" on the bottoms of my stand-up purses. Three coats of clear nail polish took care of the problem. — Mrs. J.A.F.

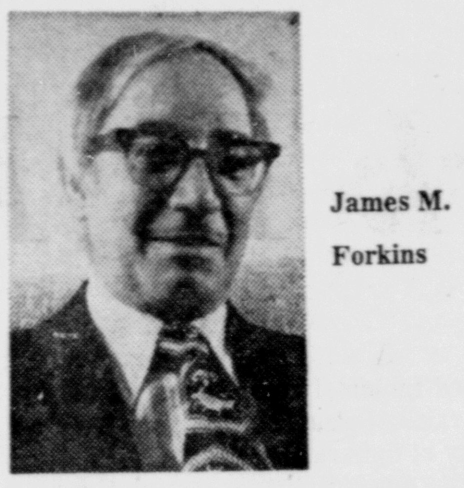
To Discuss Divorce Rights

The "Rights of Women Prior To and After Divorce" will be explained to the Northwest Suburban Branch of the American Association of University Women by James M. Forkins, professor of law at Loyola University since 1947 and counsel with the firm of Rinella and Rinella.



James M. Forkins

His presentation will highlight the meeting of the branch Thursday at 8 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, Algonquin and Fifth, Des Plaines.

Forkins' knowledge and background in family law and divorce are extensive. He holds a Ph. B. from the University of Detroit and a doctor of jurisprudence from the University of Michigan.

HE HAS SERVED as president of the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers; member of the Executive Committee of Joint Commission of Illinois State and Chicago Bar Association to rewrite family law; member and past chairman of the Chicago Bar Association Committee on Matrimonial Law; the American Bar Association Section on Family Law; and the Illinois State Bar Association Section on Family Law.

Father of five children, most of them grown, Forkins and his wife have lived in Des Plaines since 1954. Mrs. Forkins is president of the Northwest Suburban Branch of AAUW.

All college graduates are invited to this meeting. Serving on the hospitality committee are Mrs. G. W. Pfaff of Park Ridge; and Mrs. G. W. Dahl, Mrs. R. Price, Mrs. R. F. Acker, Mrs. D. Botkin and Mrs. G. R. Brubaker, all of Des Plaines.

Saturday Bazaar

The Ladies Guild of Peace Reformed Church, Mount Prospect, is sponsoring a Holiday Bazaar and bake sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday in the church, Golf and Meier Roads.

Sandwiches will be served during the noon hour.

Straps To Clutches

Shoulder strap bags are still the most popular style handbag. This season they're softer leather and more unstructured in shape. But with longer dresses in the evening, there's a total switch to the clutch or handstrap bags.

YES, MANGEL ORNAMENTS OF HAND BLOWN GLASS ARE A CHRISTMAS COUP

Coping With 'The Blues'

by FRIEDA KAYE

We may think that having "the blues" or being depressed is simple, but it can be quite complicated, according to one psychiatrist.

She is Dr. Rose Spiegel, who declares that depression can range from a passing mood that's part of the wear-and-tear of everyday living to a condition so intense that it puts the individual out of commission. The psychiatrist is on the faculty of the William Alanson White Institute in New York.

"Depression can be experienced from one end of life to the other," Dr. Spiegel asserts, noting that some periods are more critical than others. Adolescence, she indicates, is one such "vulnerable" period; the menopause is another. Many women, she notes, feel "devalued" or depressed at the menopause because they're no longer young.

"THE PRESSURE on youthfulness in our culture," Dr. Spiegel maintains, "is such that being about 20 years old is considered the prime of life." This, she says, "is pushing things to the point of caricature, with some very unfortunate results." In addition, she notes, when women in this age group believe that their expectations of life and marriage have not been fulfilled, they can suffer intense and "very painful" anxiety.

Another factor contributing to a woman's depression at menopause, Dr. Spiegel says, is the fall in estrogen levels which endocrinologists say makes her hormonal picture "not very favorable." Referring to research studies, Dr. Spiegel notes that when doctors prescribe estrogen replacement, this often restores the woman's earlier "sense of energy and drive."

Depression can be coped with in various ways, the psychiatrist indicates. Most people, she says, "do get hold of life." They may have an inner sense of depression, yet function "well enough" as far as the outer world is concerned.

MUCH, SHE MAINTAINS, depends on the individual's personality. Certain people, she observes, translate their depressions into creative or philanthropic works. Some try to fight off the depressive tendency. Othrs readily give in to it. Some would rather not cope at all. Many, in their efforts not to experience the depression, unconsciously mask it with actual physical complaints, for which they then seek medical treatment. This, says Dr. Spiegel, does not represent a real solution, since the individual is concentrating on the symptoms and not the problems that precipitated the depression in the first place.

Most feelings of dejection, according to the psychiatrist, normally pass within a few days, However, if the depression is "persistent, unchanging and unconsolable," this can represent something far more serious.

"IF IT INVOLVES a persistent sense of hopelessness, inadequacy and low self-esteem," Dr. Spiegel declares, "this can be an indication that help of a more professional kind is needed."

Under such circumstances, Dr. Spiegel says, "I think there should be room in one's view of life for accepting the idea that it's perfectly normal to seek help from others." There should be no stigma attached to getting psychiatric assistance, she adds, because "one should not always be expected to cope with everything."

Active People Are Happiest In Old Age

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Active people who feel they can influence and control their environment are more likely to be happy in old age than are passive people, according to a University of California behavioral scientist.

In an on-going study on aging, Joseph Kuypers, assistant professor of social welfare, catagorized 64 subjects as "internal" (active) or "external" (passive) according to factors of "competence, self-mastery and effectance."

"Persons who believe that they can be masters of their fate in a limited sense of the word" — that is, internals — "are able to take action which achieves greater self-enhancement," Kuypers said.

He defined internals as people who feel events are contingent on their own behavior, while externals are those who see life "as the result of luck, chance, fate."

OF THE TEST GROUP of 25 men and 39 women, all in their late sixties, 33 were considered internals and 31 externals.

Kuypers found the internals more "objective, intellectual, logical in their analysis," tolerant and adaptable. Externals, he added, are more closed and defensive and less self-assured.

He said internals "are more in touch with the flow between past, present and future; they anticipate and prepare for events; and they choose more appropriate responses and stand less fearfully up to change."

To Sell Hanukah Items Tomorrow

Beth Judea Sisterhood will have a table at the Buffalo Grove Mall Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. to sell Hanukah items including candles, paper and party goods, as well as decorations and other gift items.

A gift wrap desk will also be set up. Tables will be across from Elm Farm Foods in the mall. The sisterhood has planned the sale to be of service to the Jewish community by making Hanukah items readily available.

There will also be a casual get-together at 8 p.m. Sunday at Kingswood Methodist Church, Buffalo Grove, for Sisterhood members to get acquainted with new members. Rabbi Mordecai Rosen will be available for discussion. Refreshments will be served.

Nursing Scholarship For Mom

A nursing scholarship for a woman with children and in need of financial assistance is being offered by Harper College Faculty Wives. Applications may be obtained from the Student Aids Office at Harper College or by calling the office, 359-4200, Extension 247 or 249. The scholarship will be awarded next spring.

Funds for the scholarship, which is not awarded on the basis of scholastic achievement, have come from the club's recent Bingo night.

Proceeds from the Bingo night will also go toward a cash donation for Northwest Opportunity Center as will stuffed animals which members are making at a series of workshops in November.

Coin collectors can keep abreast of new issues and values, every Thursday in the HERALD.

The Potting Shed

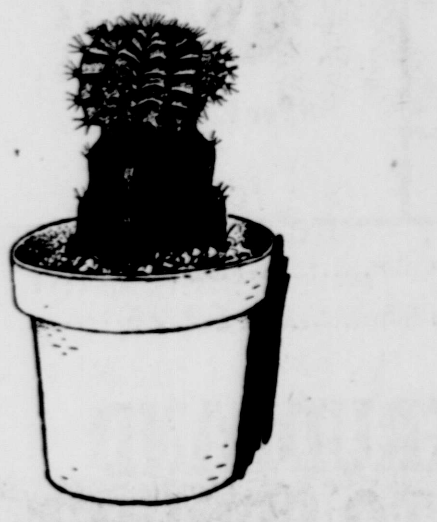
by Mary B. Good

There was a run on brandy snifters at the dime store the other day, as the women chatted of making terrariums.

Growing greenery in a glass garden keeps the dibbling urge active all winter, and some of the more creative enthusiasts can even make planting terrariums a paying "business," like I do.

If you are creating your first terrarium, use the largest ,wide-mouth container you can find. To tackle a pint-sized glass or a bottle with a narrow neck is a job for the experienced. Even a taxidermist will tell you it's easier to stuff an elephant than a hummingbird!

An old-fashioned side-loading glass cookie jar or apothecary jar will do double duty as a terrarium, because it can always be used for sweets when you tire of the plants. What a smashing Christmas party you could have with the large size brandy snifter after you replace the greens with grog. And an old aquarium that has lost its guppies is another good choice for beginners.



Red Cap Cactus

FIRST ORDER of business is the choice of occupants. It will make a difference in the type of growing media that will give best results. A cactus garden will require coarse sand and vermiculite, a woodland garden sphagnum moss and and insectavorous plant will take a moist soil — one half coarse garden soil and one half sphagnum moss.

Put some coarse pebbles in the bottom of the glass container, a layer of the planting medium and a couple tablespoons of charcoal for drainage. Make a dry run in the container with your fingers and eyes: Put a couple tablespoons of the growing media in the glass and form a hill with the high "land" at the back and nearly nothing at the front. Pat your fingers in the soil where you think you may want to place the plants. It's almost like building sand castles.

For a cactus collection, you might want to include the popular lady fingers, tiger jaw (it has gaping-mouth effect), old man of the Andes cactus (long, white hair). Consider red cap, the latest rage. Its red top is grafted to a green bottom and it contributes color to the group. Skinny fingers, hens and chicks and some of the other succulent plants will live compatibly with the cactus.

A CACTUS grower I know explains his watering technique like this: "When the weatherman says it is raining in Dallas, Tex., that's when I water the cactus." Try a cactus terrarium if you like plants, but kill everything you get your hands on. It thrives on neglect.

To avoid rot, don't use a cover on the cactus garden. Incidentally, even when you are not growing a mini-desert, don't drown the terrarium plants. Water by the tablespoon, not the cup.

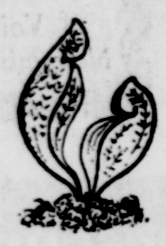
If you have access to a woods, there are all manner of terrarium-suited goodies growing on the forest floor. Remember to choose plants that will not outgrow the container. Mosses, lichens, fungi are great for accents. Diminutive British soldier lichen, for instance, has interesting red tips that will add color to the collection.

Wintergreen (Wrigley's makes gum from it), ebony spleenwort (a tiny rock fern), goldthread (so-called because of its bright yellow rootstem) are a few appropriate tidbits. I love to use pipsissewa, just for the fun of telling interested onlookers its comic-sounding name.

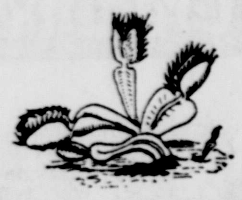
AS THE FROSTING on your woodland cake, be sure to use rock sheet moss, which has emerald green, plume-like tufts. It gives the impression you slaved for hours arranging the tufts when it is actually á sheet of "ferns" knitted by nature.

If you're in the market for something really exotic, give insect-eating terrariums a try — Northern pitcher plant, huntsman's horn, butterwart, sundew, Venus flytrap. Unlike woodland plants, insect-eaters need strong sunlight and high humidity. Use a covered container for these treasures.

Northern Pitcher Plant



Venus Fly Trap



(Dionea muscipula) The most amazing insect eating plant. Tiny 'traps' hinged in the middle, will catch and eat live insects or tiny bits of raw hamburg. Truly a spectacular conversation piece.

If you're wondering why I don't suggest the typical florist plants, it is because they just don't appeal to me. I like plants you don't see on every growing bench and counter. More often than not, the typical greenhouse plants get "giantism" and outgrow the confines or cover up smaller specimens, unless the buyer knows precisely what he is choosing.

If you can't collect woodland or insect-eating plants, there are a number of specialty houses that carry them. Arthur Eames Allgorve Nursery in North Wilmington, Mass., 01887, is one of them.

Terrariums make unique holiday gifts, and even a black thumb will have difficulty in killing them.

Ways To Prevent Theft

Home Burglary More Likely Today

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The day of the unlocked door is no more. It's unhappy fact of the times that families today must at least consider the possibility of burglary.

Apartment dwellers, even more than the homeowner, should take precautions against break-ins if the statistics are any guide.

The actuaries at Continental Casualty Co. predict more than 2.5 million renters will suffer insurable loss this year — and thieves will be responsible for more than half the losses.

In terms of kinds of loss likely, living in an apartment is very different than living in a house. In a house the odds are higher that losses will be caused by fire or storm. Only 12 per cent of homeowners' insurance claims are due to theft.

Every year, says Continental Casualty's Jim Gillespie, nine out of 100 apartment dwellers have some kind of loss, and that doesn't include statistics for the many tenants who don't carry insurance.

For all apartment dwellers, Gillespie said, the expected average cost per year for losses due to theft, fire or storm damage is $35. The average loss is about $400. Depending on location, losses could be much higher and more frequent, he said.

WHAT'S THE BEST way to prevent burglaries?

Gillespie suggests: Buy heavy-duty bolt locks, solid core doors without windows, bar the windows and keep the doors locked.

If your door locks automatically on the way out, it has what is known as a spring lock. A five-year-old could open it with a piece of stiff plastic, such as a credit card, Gillespie said. For adequate protection, he recommends bolt locks plus door frames that overlap the door.

If the door has a window in it, a double key lock is called for so that a burglar can't break the glass, reach inside and unbolt the door.

To most apartment dwellers — or home owners — strong bars on windows are both expensive and unattractive. If you don't want to go this far, Gillespie suggests, you can take some simple steps to protect windows. Don't rely on screens for protection; be sure windows are locked. For first floor windows, be sure any shrubbery is cut back. Heavy greenery makes a tempting camouflage for would-be thieves. Windows facing porches on any floor can be protected with adequate lighting, which will discourage the burglar.

VISITING NEIGHBORS, or stepping out to the laundry room without locking your door is asking for unwanted visitors. Even when you are at home, be sure all doors are locked. Many a thief, entering an unlocked door, has grabbed valuable objects while the occupant of the house was in the back of the apartment, or upstairs. Never set your purse down on a hall table. Put it way, out of sight, immediately.

A barking dog often will discourage all but the most determined thief. The average burglar, picking his targets at random, would just as soon not take the chance.

Giving a would-be thief the impression someone is at home still is one of the best preventive measures, police authorities say. Even though thieves know people leave on lights and radios, they never can be sure and, again, all but the most determined are likely not to take the chance.

It is best to invest in automatic switches that will turn different lights on and off at different times. A radio or television set also will give the impression an apartment or house is occupied. Running a television set costs a little less than a penny an hour. Be sure, however, to put it on a timer if you are going to be away for any length of time.

IF, DESPITE precautions, your apartment is burglarized, what do you do?

Even if you believe there's no chance of recovering what was stolen — not an unreasonable attitude in many cities today — Gillespie says you should report the theft to the police. Then call your insurance agent. One of the first quesstions he'll ask is whether or not you have reported to the police.

Before you make a claim, you'll need a list of what was stolen, when it was purchased, and what it cost. It's a smart idea to keep a file of sales receipts. If you think you might have difficulty remembering every item in a given room, consider photographs. And don't forget the contents of drawers. Valuables, such as cameras, expensive jewelry and furs, should be covered by floater policies.

A recent, excellent program being adopted in many areas is Operaton Identificaton, which makes it possible for police to identify and return stolen goods they recover.

IN CHICAGO last year police recovered more than $3 million in stolen goods — but could rrertur less than half of it.

The Operation Identification program involves engraving drivers' license or telephone number on property — radios and television sets, typewriters, tape recorders, anything that is likely to attract a thief. Social Security numbers should not be used, Gillespie said, because these files are not open to the police.

Such identification, Gillespie said, would increase the chances stolen property might be returned — and might even discourage theft.

Flower Show Post To Harold Klopp

Harold O. Klopp, landscape architect of Rolling Meadows, has again been named to a management post in the 1973 Chicago Flower and Garden Show. As flower show coordinator, Klopp is responsible for the staging and installation of all gardens and feature exhibits.

The non-profit show will be held March 24 through April 1 in McCormick Place, sponsored jointly by the Chicago Horticultural Society and the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry.

Area garden clubs will again be invited to display floral arrangements in this 15th annual show.

Preventive Dentistry Is Essential

by FRIEDA KAYE

Having a tooth pulled never was much fun. But not replacing it can lead to more trouble than the tooth caused in the first place.

You should replace the missing molar, Dr. Donald J. Dodelson, a New York dental surgeon here maintains because your mouth changes as you grow older. If that tooth isn't replaced, he warns, your adjacent teeth will move into the empty space and create "a whole imbalance." It won't happen overnight, he reports, "but it will occur gradually in many small movements."

Although the teeth of a 20-year-old move slightly, Dr. Dodelson says, "by the time he or she is 40, those teeth may have moved as much as a quarter of an inch." (Each tooth, the dentist explains, sits in its own bony socket, held in place by thousands of elastic fibers. As one gets older, structural changes occur in the bone, and the tiny fibers lose their elasticity.) This shifting relationship, he points out, can create a number of problems: It causes the teeth to loosen. It makes chewing more difficult. And it can bring on severe gum infections.

PEOPLE ONCE parted willingly with their teeth, Dr. Dodelson observes, believing they'd lose them eventually. "Yet our teeth are designed to last a lifetime," he says, "provided we take care of them." The major emphasis now he contends, is on prevention. "We dentists are very reluctant to pull a tooth if anything can be done to save it. We've learned that replacing it is not only more costly and complicated — but often it's not as suitable as saving the tooth in the first place."

One of the biggest advances in prevention, he notes, is the recognition that "plaque" is the major cause of tooth decay. He describes plaque as a colorless, gummy substance, which forms on almost all tooth surfaces. Bacteria find it "particularly hospitable," he says, because they thrive on the food particles that adhere to it. The bacteria then produce acids which, he explains, are "enormously destructive" to teeth and gums.

THE BEST FORM of prevention we have now, Dr. Dodelson asserts, is plaque control, or the regular removal of this gummy substance from our teeth. "The plaque doesn't need to be scraped away," he says, "because it's quite soft, while the surface of the tooth itself is hard. The plaque can almost be wiped off with the soft brush." Superficial brushing will leave it untouched, however, he notes. "A vigorous circular motion, scouring every tooth surface with a soft toothbrush is vital. And so is using dental floss to clean those areas a toothbrush cannot reach."

Preventive dentistry in general, Dr. Dodelson stresses, is essential in maintainig your molars. "If you haven't taken care of the discrepancies in our mouth by the time you're 40," he asserts, "they will become magnified. If you haven't solved your smaller dental problems by then, you'll really begin to feel their significance."

The Potting Shed

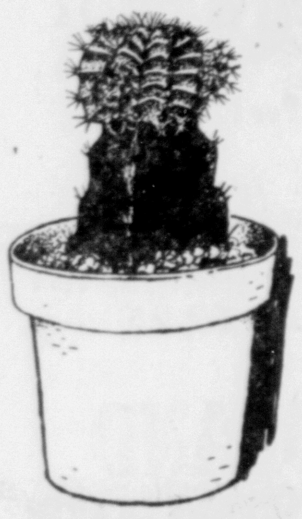
by Mary B. Good

There was a run on brandy snifters at the dime store the other day, as the women chatted of making terrariums.

Growing greenery in a glass garden keeps the dibbling urge active all winter, and some of the more creative enthusiasts can even make planting terrariums a paying "business," like I do.

If you are creating your first terrarium, use the largest ,wide-mouth container you can find. To tackle a pint-sized glass or a bottle with a narrow neck is a job for the experienced. Even a taxidermist will tell you it's easier to stuff an elephant than a hummingbird!

An old-fashioned side-loading glass cookie jar or apothecary jar will do double duty as a terrarium, because it can always be used for sweets when you tire of the plants. What a smashing Christmas party you could have with the large size brandy snifter after you replace the greens with grog. And an old aquarium that has lost its guppies is another good choice for beginners.



Red Cap Cactus

FIRST ORDER of business is the choice of occupants. It will make a difference in the type of growing media that will give best results. A cactus garden will require coarse sand and vermiculite, a woodland garden sphagnum moss and and insectavorous plant will take a moist soil — one half coarse garden soil and one half sphagnum moss.

Put some coarse pebbles in the bottom of the glass container, a layer of the planting medium and a couple tablespoons of charcoal for drainage. Make a dry run in the container with your fingers and eyes: Put a couple tablespoons of the growing media in the glass and form a hill with the high "land" at the back and nearly nothing at the front. Pat your fingers in the soil where you think you may want to place the plants. It's almost like building sand castles.

For a cactus collection, you might want to include the popular lady fingers, tiger jaw (it has gaping-mouth effect), old man of the Andes cactus (long, white hair). Consider red cap, the latest rage. Its red top is grafted to a green bottom and it contributes color to the group. Skinny fingers, hens and chicks and some of the other succulent plants will live compatibly with the cactus.

A CACTUS grower I know explains his watering technique like this: "When the weatherman says it is raining in Dallas, Tex., that's when I water the cactus." Try a cactus terrarium if you like plants, but kill everything you get your hands on. It thrives on neglect.

To avoid rot, don't use a cover on the cactus garden. Incidentally, even when you are not growing a mini-desert, don't drown the terrarium plants. Water by the tablespoon, not the cup.

If you have access to a woods, there are all manner of terrarium-suited goodies growing on the forest floor. Remember to choose plants that will not outgrow the container. Mosses, lichens, fungi are great for accents. Diminutive British soldier lichen, for instance, has interesting red tips that will add color to the collection.

Wintergreen (Wrigley's makes gum from it), ebony spleenwort (a tiny rock fern), goldthread (so-called because of its bright yellow rootstem) are a few appropriate tidbits. I love to use pipsissewa, just for the fun of telling interested onlookers its comic-sounding name.

You can save yourself considerable money this winter (and maybe help avert an energy crisis) by heeding these suggestions for homeowners, offered by the National Bureau of Standards:

A WINDOW OR DOOR that admits cold drafts in winter should be weatherstripped at moveable joints and caulked around the frame. This will probably reduce your heating bill by 15 to 30 per cent.

INSTALL STORM WINDOWS, and you will cut in half the heat that is needlessly lost through your windows. Storm windows will pay for themselves within 10 years, and thereafter will return you an annual dividend of around 13 per cent of their cost.

IN THIS PART of the country you should have at least six inches of insulation in ceiling and sidwalls. Not only will it reduce your heating bills, but your air conditioning cost in summer.

HAVE YOUR FURNACE checked periodically by professionals to make sure you are not losing heat because of dirt deposits on heat exchange surfaces or improper combustion air adjustment.

BE SURE ALL OPENINGS from occupied parts of the house to the attic are sealed. Air leakage around doors, stairways, ceiling fixtures, vents, etc., may cost you about 50 cents per square inch in wasted heat. A quarter-inch space under a 3-foot wide door will cost you $4.50 in wasted heat during one winter.

LOWER YOUR THERMOSTAT at night. Lowering it four degrees for eight hours per night will save you $1.80 on a $60 monthly heating bill.

TURN OFF LIGHTS, TV sets, etc., when not in use. A large-screen color TV draws arond 26,000 volts of electricity when it is on — a considerable waste if noone is watching. "Instant - on" TVs draw about one-third of that power constantly in order to give you an instant picture. Such TVs usually have a device to turn them off completely, or you can pull the plug — an especially good idea if you are going away for several days.

REPAIR LEAKY FAUCETS. A leak that fills a cup in 10 minutes adds up to 3,280 gallons of wasted hot water per year, or about $6.

THAT ALLURING eye makeup you use may enhance your beauty, but it could also endanger your eyes. Contaminated eye shadow, mascara, etc., can cause eye infections, some of which are serious enough to impair eyesight.

A recent study by the Medical College of Georgia indicated that most eye cosmetics are free from bacteria when purchased, but that many women are infecting their eyes with cosmetics that develop microorganisms after they are opened. The causes are inadequate preservatives in the cosmetics and unhygienic handling by the consumer.

The Food and Drug Administration advises women to follow these precautions in the use of eye makeup:

Always wash your hands before applying eye cosmetics, and make sure any applicators placed in the eye area are clean. Do not allow cosmetics or their containers to become dusty or dirty.

Do not use old cosmetics, especially ones you have not used for several months. Discard them and buy new ones.

Never dampen cosmetics or applicators by spitting or licking them. Boiled water can be added to products which have thickened.

Do not share your cosmetics or use those belonging to someone else.

Do not store cosmetics at temperatures above 85 degrees F. Cosmetics that have been kept in a hot car for a period of time, for example, are more susceptible to bacteria.

Avoid using eye cosmetics if you have an eye infection, and be carful in using them if you have allergies. Discontinue usage immediately of any product that causes an irritation.

A new light bulb spreads Christmas cheer. It has a "Merry Christmas" filament inside. The filament glows red when electricity runs through it. This bulb fits any standard socket, is rated at between two and three watts and, says the manufacturer, consumes electricity at the rate of one penny per week for 10 hours of daily use. A companion bulb, also a good gift item for the holidays, has a filament made into a lamb jumping over a fence. Others in this line contain figures of dogs, horses, cherubs. They make excellent night lights.

In these back-to-nature days, perfume people, too, have turned to natural scents, with Musk Oil, a fragrance which originally came from the musk deer. Known throughout the ages as a heady scent, Musk Oil until recently has been an expensive perfume. An inexpensive version is in national distribution, available in variety and chain drug stores and even supermarkets, according to the manufacturer.

Marsha Van Horn

Debra Jackson

The engagement of Marsha Van Horn to Anthony Halachoulis is announced by her paents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Van Horn, 3103 Swallow Lane, Rolling Meadows. Anthony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Halachoulis, 48 Harvard St., Des Plaines. The couple plans an Aug. 11, 1973 wedding.

A '72 graduate of Forest View High School, Marsha is employed by Illinois Bell Telephone, Arlington Heights. Her fiance, a '69 graduate of Maine West High School, is with Mount Prospect Police Department.

Car Cost

Money management authorities estimate the average family spends $1,000 a year owning and operating a car. Some think that as a car ages, the repairs cost more than buying a new car. In most cases this isn't true. You stretch the auto dollar by trying to hold onto the car one more year.

A car loses about 30 per cent of its current value each year to depreciation. If you buy a car one year older or hold onto the car one year longer, it is estimated you can save 12 per cent of ownership costs.

Former Elk Grove Village residents Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G.. Jackson who now make their home in London, England, announce the engagement of their daughter Debra Joyce to Timothy Butler, son of Pastor and Mrs. Schuyler Butler of Elk Grove Village.

Both Debra and Tim are attending Judson College in Elgin. They are planning an August wedding.

Them Thar Rings May Be Valuable

While diamonds may be a girl's best friend, don't sell your graduation ring short, says a leading manufacturer of motivational products for young people.

The price of gold has been soaring, says A. J. Hackl, president of Indianapolis-based Herff Jones Co., and class rings with substantial gold content may grow in value as time passes.

With gold prices historically rising through the years, he says, the legendary Sweetheart of Sigma Chi may soon discover that the senior ring or fraternity pin she received from her swain has hatched into a nest egg. (UPI)

The Consumer

by Monica Wilch

You can save yourself considerable money this winter (and maybe help avert an energy crisis) by heeding these suggestions for homeowners, offered by the National Bureau of Standards:

A WINDOW OR DOOR that admits cold drafts in winter should be weatherstripped at moveable joints and caulked around the frame. This will probably reduce your heating bill by 15 to 30 per cent.

INSTALL STORM WINDOWS, and you will cut in half the heat that is needlessly lost through your windows. Storm windows will pay for themselves within 10 years, and thereafter will return you an annual dividend of around 13 per cent of their cost.

IN THIS PART of the country you should have at least six inches of insulation in ceiling and sidwalls. Not only will it reduce your heating bills, but your air conditioning cost in summer.

HAVE YOUR FURNACE checked periodically by professionals to make sure you are not losing heat because of dirt deposits on heat exchange surfaces or improper combustion air adjustment.

BE SURE ALL OPENINGS from occupied parts of the house to the attic are sealed. Air leakage around doors, stairways, ceiling fixtures, vents, etc., may cost you about 50 cents per square inch in wasted heat. A quarter-inch space under a 3-foot wide door will cost you $4.50 in wasted heat during one winter.

LOWER YOUR THERMOSTAT at night. Lowering it four degrees for eight hours per night will save you $1.80 on a $60 monthly heating bill.

TURN OFF LIGHTS, TV sets, etc., when not in use. A large-screen color TV draws arond 26,000 volts of electricity when it is on — a considerable waste if no one is watching. "Instant - on" TVs draw about one-third of that power constantly in order to give you an instant picture. Such TVs usually have a device to turn them off completely, or you can pull the plug — an especially good idea if you are going away for several days.

REPAIR LEAKY FAUCETS. A leak that fills a cup in 10 minutes adds up to 3,280 gallons of wasted hot water per year, or about $6.

THAT ALLURING eye makeup you use may enhance your beauty, but it could also endanger your eyes. Contaminated eye shadow, mascara, etc., can cause eye infections, some of which are serious enough to impair eyesight.

A recent study by the Medical College of Georgia indicated that most eye cosmetics are free from bacteria when purchased, but that many women are infecting their eyes with cosmetics that develop microorganisms after they are opened. The causes are inadequate preservatives in the cosmetics and unhygienic handling by the consumer.

The Food and Drug Administration advises women to follow these precautions in the use of eye makeup:

Always wash your hands before applying eye cosmetics, and make sure any applicators placed in the eye area are clean. Do not allow cosmetics or their containers to become dusty or dirty.

Do not use old cosmetics, especially ones you have not used for several months. Discard them and buy new ones.

Never dampen cosmetics or applicators by spitting or licking them. Boiled water can be added to products which have thickened.

Do not share your cosmetics or use those belonging to someone else.

Do not store cosmetics at temperatures above 85 degrees F. Cosmetics that have been kept in a hot car for a period of time, for example, are more susceptible to bacteria.

Avoid using eye cosmetics if you have an eye infection, and be carful in using them if you have allergies. Discontinue usage immediately of any product that causes an irritation.

What's New

By United Press International

A new light bulb spreads Christmas cheer. It has a "Merry Christmas" filament inside. The filament glows red when electricity runs through it. This bulb fits any standard socket, is rated at between two and three watts and, says the manufacturer, consumes electricity at the rate of one penny per week for 10 hours of daily use. A companion bulb, also a good gift item for the holidays, has a filament made into a lamb jumping over a fence. Others in this line contain figures of dogs, horses, cherubs. They make excellent night lights.

In these back-to-nature days, perfume people, too, have turned to natural scents, with Musk Oil, a fragrance which originally came from the musk deer. Known throughout the ages as a heady scent, Musk Oil until recently has been an expensive perfume. An inexpensive version is in national distribution, available in variety and chain drug stores and even supermarkets, according to the manufacturer.

Woman Pastor 'Thrilled' With Job

by WALT SMITH

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., (UPI) —When Betty Blanton graduated from theological seminary, she never dreamed she would become only the second woman in the 111-year history of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. to become sole pastor of a church.

At the age of 42, Mrs. Blanton enrolled in the seminary to prepare herself for a worthwhile career. Her husband was dying of cancer.

After 20 enjoyable years as a housewife, she decided she would like to work with young people within the church. But she felt the time was not right for a woman to be sole pastor of a church.

"I was just utterly flabbergasted," she said of her call recently to become pastor of the Jacksonville Trinity Presbyterian Church. "I had resigned myself that this would never happen in my generation."

"I THOUGHT THAT it would happen with the next wave of women coming out of seminary, but I never expected it to happen so soon," she said. "I was thrilled to death."

Mrs. Blanton was serving as assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Gainesville when the pulpit committee of the 100-member Trinity congregation asked her to become their pastor.

"I told them I wouldn't consider it unless the congregation had the opportunity to see me and hear me preach before they voted on it," she recalled.

The attractive, gray-haired minister said there were only five people out of the 1,600-member Gainesville congregation who had objected to a woman serving as assistant pastor.

"They wouldn't even come when I would preach," she recalled. "But five out of 1,600 ain't a bad batting average."

Mrs. Blanton said she has had no problems thus far, but that the biggest difficulty might come in "evoking confidence in men so they could come to see me as a counselor."

The 51-year-old minister sees no problems with jealousy among the women in her congregation. "At my age, I don't think so," she said. "If I was younger, it might be a problem, but I'm not much of a threat."

Mrs. Blanton said she feels women have a great deal to give to the ministry.

"I don't say we have more to give than men do, but we have, perhaps, something different to give. I think the ideal situation would be to have a man and a woman serve a church. People have different talents — preaching or counseling or teaching or administration — but the difference really depends on the individual, not on the individual's sex."

ALTHOUGH SHE SAYS she is not a "demonstrator," Mrs. Blanton is interested in the women's rights movement, especially as it concerns equal pay and equal opportunity for advancement among professional people.

She is also a member of the clergy consultation service — an organization where pregnant women can go for counseling and advice on the possibility of obtaining an abortion.

"We never recommend an abortion," said Mrs. Blanton. "We have the person look at the alternative solutions. But if she chooses abortion, we refer her to a respectable agency."

She said the service tries to provide real counseling "rather than just having her go to some agency and have an abortion and not be able to get herself together psychologically."

Russians Claim Painless Drilling

MOSCOW UPI) — Soviet dentists claim they can eliminate 80 per cent of the pain of drilling by fastening a small electrified clamp to the patient's earlobe.

An article in the newspaper Lenin's Banner said one electrical pole was attached to the ear, the other to the tip of the dental drill. When the drill contacts the tooth, the circuit is closed.

"Current and a certain frequency starts to circulate," the newspaper said. "The frequency cross reacts with that inside the tooth, annihilating the pain signal."

It said as the drill penetrated deeper and began to hurt, the dentist could adjust the frequency higher and still blot out up to 80 per cent of the pain.

The experiments were conducted on non-anesthesized patients.

She Runs A Knotty Business

by HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The tools of her trade sound unique — a closed door, spools of nylon cord in various colors and a kitchen chair. But these three items, plus a father who is president of a Providence, R.I., fibers company, were instrumental in creating one of the youngest entrepreneurs in the country. She's 18.

Merredythe Blezard, in her sophomore year as an art major at Smith College this fall, also has her own company, "Hollycraft," which produces handmade macrame belts and handbags that are sold in boutiques and specialty stores across the country. Her employes are almost all high school and college students.

"It all started," said this pretty working girl and student, "when my father came home with a strand of cord which he had just produced, plunked it down on the kitchen table and said to me, 'See what you can do with this.' "

SHE MADE A belt. And since that first belt she has become a macrame expert and loves what she is doing. Aside from her own business, Merredythe has designed a macrame craft kit for one of the leading toy companies. she has also been asked to work for a toy manufacturer as a designer at a nice, fat salary but prefers to do that kind of thing as a moonlighting venture and work chiefly with her own company — majoring in art at school at the same time.

"I work at school during off-hours, at home and even at my father's factory."

She's now working on a huge ecology flag and has to go to the factory to handle the big job.

"The cord runs 18 feet long," she said, "and I have to work on a platform that can be raised or lowered."

Merredythe believes macrame is a quick and simple way to make pretty things — and money. "The mark-up is fantastic," she said. "We have one belt that we sell for $7. It should sell in the stores for about $14. But some stores charge $24 — and get it."

INCIDENTALLY, she also designs crewel kits and stuffed animals for toy makers. One of her most delightful macrame items was a matching dog collar and lead "ensemble" in bright red.

Macrame has an interesting history. The work comes from a 19th century Arabic term 'miqramah' which means veil, and the Turkish word for towel, 'maqramah.' In those days, both the veil and the towel were adorned with a knotted fringe.

Macrame as a craft dates way, way back almost to primitive times. In ancient Egypt it was used in funeral decorations. It has been found in the tombs of the pharoahs. The Incas of Peru knew the art and in classical Greece, macrame knots wre used for slings for broken bones. The Greeks also used macrame design on their clothing, jewelry and pottery. It was supposed to have a magical quality.

"It was the sailor who first brought macrame to distant ports around the world," Miss Blezard said. "Ship decks, hand rails and steering wheels were decorated with this art. He also made little items he could barter with on land. In English sailor's language it became known as 'McNamara's Lace' or 'square knotting,'" she added.

TEEN-AGE ENTREPRENEUR Merredythe Blezard wears navy blue macrame vest she created in about four hours and holds macrame "ecology belt" in supefish design, also her own creation.

"ONCE YOU'VE mastered a few knots (Merredythe taught a 73-year-old aunt to do macrame in 10 minutes), the craft is very easy. The only necessary equipment is the cord for knotting." She prefers not to use the standard pins and a working surface.

"My favorite way of working is to throw the cord over the top of a door, close the door and start knotting." She works in the beginning standing on a chair.

Merredythe says she can make an elaborate peasant belt that sells in stores for about $20 in a matter of 50 minutes. She has created some fascinating wall hangings, hat bands, handbags, plant holders and window shades.

Caprolan is Merredythe's favorite cord to use for her work. "It can be handled so easily and comes in such pretty colors," says Miss Macrame herself.

"Jute," she said, "cuts your hands when you work. Cotton cord comes in very few colors. It's mostly a natural off-white. And rayon braided cord, which can also be used, is frequently cotton stuffed. It comes apart quickly, even while you work on it, and the finished item isn't pretty anymore."

The energy of this girl is boundless. Her next project will be a six by three-foot hammock in macrame which she says she can make in about eight hours. That should go for over $100.
